"Red" Krause Will Play
"Red" Krause and his orchestra will be on hand to play during the latter part of the banquet and for the dance later in the evening.

A plea to "come and bring your date" was voiced by Wilbur Mead, general chairman. "We want everyone in the Bizad College to at least turn out for the dance and as many as possible to come to the banquet earlier in the evening."

Emphasis was laid, throughout the entire convention, on the development of a new missionary attitude toward people in need of help. The old idea of making gifts to an inferior race was discussed and severely criticized. A feeling of fellowship is encouraged as help toward sensible missionary work.

sia. Europe, he said, needs a labor movement which will abandon the dream of mechanical communism and emancipate the working class by free co-operation, decentralization, and local autonomy.
Prof. William Bennett Munro of Harvard University, president of the political science association, in his address, stated that the science of government has fallen behind the others and must adopt their methods of overthrowing "slogans and shibboleths which do not square with political realities." The American philosophy of government, said Professor Munro, has exalted the individual citizen beyond reason, because Americans think of individual freedom as opposed to social control whereas only through the latter can individual freedom be attained.

Professors Kneier and Senning, representing the university department of political science, attended that meeting, and Professor Hicks attended the meeting of the American Historical Association. Sixteen learned societies held meetings jointly in Washington.

FRANKFORTER WILL SPEAK

Chemistry Professor's Topic is "Alloy Steel"

Colonel Jackson Frankforter, assistant professor in the chemistry department, will address a meeting of the chemical engineers, Thursday evening at 7:45 o'clock, in Mechanical Engineering building, 206. His talk will supplement a film to be shown on the subject of "Alloy Steel."

This film will show the beginning of alloy steel from the mining stage to the stage of combination with other metals to make the alloy. The meeting will be open to the public.

Cash Value of Four Years at College is High

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Best New Year's resolution that Dad could make is to give his son a college education.
College education is worth $72,000. This is a profit of 1,200 per cent on an original investment of $6,000, which is the average total cost of a four years' course in college.

Deducting the cost of the education itself, the student adds to his future income at the rate of approximately $15,000 a year during the time he is in college.
As classes are held only five days a week, this means potential earnings of $70 a day to the student for each day spent in the class room.

These statements were made by Otto Y. Schnering, an alumnus of the University of Chicago, in an address here.

"A college education is not only very essential in modern business but highly profitable, if the student spends his time in real study," Mr. Schnering said. "The annual average income of a high school graduate is $2,200 and that of a college graduate $6,000. Total earnings of the two classes of men up to the

Museum in Morrill Hall Obtains Exhibit Of Vegetable Ivory

A new exhibit in the museum in Morrill hall is an exposition of the use of what is called vegetable ivory, a substance found only in a small portion of the northern part of South America, and used largely in the manufacture of buttons. Vegetable ivory comes in the form of nuts growing in large clusters on a palm-like tree. They are carved like ivory and made into buttons. The complete process is shown in the new museum exhibit, which may be found in the South American case on the lower floor of Morrill hall.
