PLAYERS ARE VERSATILE

The University Players are proving their versatility. Last evening they presented a play which is yet to come to Broadway, "The Black Flamingo".

Daily Nebraskan readers are cordially invited to contribute articles to this column. This paper, however, assumes no responsibility for the sentiment expressed herein, and reserves the right to exclude any libelous or undesirable matter.

To the Editor: According to a statement made by Public Safety Commissioner Bair on Monday of this week, a movement is to be inaugurated by the city to stop the sale of cigarettes to minors, and to prohibit girls smoking in public places.

This new campaign by the city to stop smoking among women, will, in all probability have absolutely no effect on co-eds in the University of Nebraska, since a large proportion of them smoke, and since most of them who do are over eighteen years of age, the tightening of the city law cannot effect them.

All of the agitation by Commissioner Bair came after he had seen a group of girls smoking in a public place. Although there is no moral issue in the question of smoking, it does take away from the dignity of "the sweet young things" when they smoke in public.

Certainly the commissioner would have had his sense of propriety a great deal more injured had he chanced to pass almost any sorority house on the campus between the hours of seven and eight in the evening.

Since in most of the Eastern colleges and in one of the larger Midwestern colleges, namely Wisconsin, special smoking rooms in sorority houses are common, why can't Nebraska follow suit on a question that would somewhat appease the student body?

Perhaps smoking among girls is an evil, but since it is an inevitable one in this age, would it not be better to meet it squarely and in a dignified manner.

Surely the dean of women knows that the rule affecting the girls under the jurisdiction of the school is not successful. If she does not, one of the most prominent women on the faculty does, and is strongly in favor of adopting new measures to deal with the question.

THE ANNUAL RENAISSANCE

About this time of year there becomes evident a certain renaissance of academic interest, a slight revival of cultural pursuits from the neglect of the dark ages, October, November and December. The occasion is not the coming of the new year; it is the circulation of the examination schedules. The inexperienced will solemnly swear to spend the next four weeks in catching up in the term's work, but will not do it; the veterans will check up to see what courses they are taking, will construct their examination programs, and will drop the matter until January 30.

The annual renaissance, however, is the result of another and more spontaneous cause; the revived interest will hinge not upon the term to be completed, but on the term to come. To a large extent, our hopes of the retiring semester have been shattered.

from the Home Ec Club to formulate a plan for this council. This plan is to be written out and presented at the next Ag Club meeting.

A committee was also appointed by the president, Cecil Means, to take care of the matter of buying medals for the judging teams. The presentation of these medals is an annual tradition at the College of Agriculture.

Tickets for "Il Trovatore" on Sale

(Continued from Page 1) Seattle, Denver and Minneapolis are some of the twenty stops made. In many of these cities a week of performances will be given. Two special trains are required to carry the company and eighteen baggage cars are included in these trains to carry the elaborate equipment.

The cost of this entertainment is enormous. According to a statement by John K. Selleck the actual cost for a one-night performance by this company is $15,500. The stage manager, who made a special trip here from Chicago, to study the stage facilities, said that the stage in the Coliseum is the best for this present-

Many Attend Coppock Tea

Miss Erma Appleby presided at the tea table.

Photographs of Miss Grace Coppock and Miss Vera Barger with a brief resume of their work was an educational feature of the program. Miss Coppock graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1904. In 1906 she went to China to become the National executive for Y. W. C. A. work. She died in 1921, the best known woman missionary in China, having built up work in ten Chinese cities.

The Grace Coppock fund raised annually by the University Y. W. C. A. went to her support. Since her death the Grace Coppock fund has gone to the support of the work of Vera Barger, head of the National school of Physical Education under the Y. W. C. A. in China. Vera Barger graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1911.

Many Register During Week

(Continued from Page 1) definite check on the number registered was had there, the report from the Deans' offices substantiated the satisfaction of the Registrar. Dr. A. L. Candy stated that on Monday, he handled four times the number of registrations he had ever taken before on the first day. Tuesday and Wednesday kept step with the first days rush but yesterday afternoon a slump was noticed. Dean LeRossignol of the College of Business Administration also has been unusually busy taking care of the early response the members of his department showed.

Seniors Must Apply

A special plea from the office of Florence L. McGahey, registrar, was made yesterday, to the seniors who intend to apply for a degree. The original deadline for these to be accepted was December 18, but so few responded that the date was necessarily shoved ahead. Seniors are asked to remember that applications for degrees must be made by the end of the semester, and the registrars office must have the proof that all degree candidates are within eighteen hours of the requirements.

Carelessness on the part of the seniors can easily result in their losing the chance for the degree desired. After the end of the semester, applications will positively be rejected.

Black Picks 9 To Make Trip

(Continued from Page 1) Brown were kept from the Thursday scrimmage and watched the other tusslers from the sidelines. Recent drilling of Brown as a running guard has given rise to the prediction that he may start the Saturday game in that position. Krall and Gohde will have their chance later in the game.

Othmer Scores

Othmer had his scoring 'sagree in the game with the reserves. The former Omaha athlete sank an even dozen baskets in the scrimmage which helped his team stay far out in front. His follow-in shots were mostly successful and he scored all his baskets from inside the foul line. Krall was especially efficient at the guarding game and in addition sank several from the middle of the court.

Should Nebraska win the Saturday tilt with the Drake cagers, they would still rank below the upper half of the Valley teams. A loss at the hands of the Bulldog hoopsters would just about ruin the whole season as far as Nebraska fans are concerned. With two victories and three defeats, Nebraska would stand an ex-

Lively Matches End Tournament

a veteran in coping the honors in his class from Regier, Delta Sigma Phi. A half nelson brought the match to a close after 6 minutes and 24 seconds of grappling. Regier, who was the surprise of his bracket, fought his way through to the first rounds, in spite of the fact that he had been wrestling for only two weeks previous to the tournament. His showing in the match last evening also very creditable but Koehnke's size, coupled with his two years experience, were obstacles too great to overcome.

Buchanan, Alpha Gamma Rho, and Martin, Tau Kappa Epsilon, staged one of the roughest matches of the evening, in contesting for the championship of the 145-pound division. Buchanan finally wore down his opponent and pinned his shoulders to the mat after 7 minutes and 24 seconds. Both were glutted for punishment and staged a match of the "old time" variety. They were badly burned and bruised when they left the mat.

Cor, Alpha Gamma Rho entry, and Brainerd of Delta Chi, vying for honors in the 175 pound class, furnished a lively match from start to finish, with Coy showing a little the best form to win the decision. The men were on the mat from start to finish and some crushing holds were used in the attempt to gain a fall. With but a minute to go, the men staged a lively scuffle in the center of the mat, but each were too tired to cause the other any trouble.

Simon Wins Over Nixon

The final match of the evening was in the 158 pound class with Simon of Delta Theta Phi winning the decision over Nixon, Farm House entrant. The match was lively and fast but Simon had very little trouble dominating affairs after the first two or three minutes. Several times he had Nixon on the verge of defeat but the plucky Farm House grappler wriggled out of the holds. Losers in the semi-finals still have a chance to score additional points
