"ALL WORK AND NO PLAY—"
 Definite steps toward an intramural recreational program for women have also been taken this season under the direction of Miss Lee, director of the physical education department. A basketball tourney in which sixteen teams were entered was recently staged. Other events are being planned.

Arguments for intramural sports for men are even more suitable for the promotion of an intramural program for women. For there is a greater tendency for men to voluntarily take part in athletic play than for women. With the additional demands made by academic and social activities, very few women set aside any time for such recreation.

Whether the new program will prove sufficiently enticing to attract the women is another question. Physical education requirements have ranked the minds of women in much the same way that military science has "griped" undergraduates for so long that it may be difficult, even under the added stimulus of sorority competition, for them to regard participation in any physical education activity as play.
 At any rate the physical education department should be complimented for attempting such a project. Whether or not it will succeed will depend upon the attitude taken by the university women.

THEIR GREATEST MAN
 Somewhere in Belville, N. J., there are two fortunate fathers. Each of these men has a fortunate son. It doesn't make much difference what the names of these men are nor is it necessary to know what they do or anything else about them except that they have just cause to be happy.

The reason for this is: out of 628 schoolboys who were asked who they would like to be, more than half of the boys answered "Lindbergh." President Coolidge, Edison, and Henry Ford were pretty close together for the next position. Away down at the bottom of the list were two votes cast for "Dad."

This gives us reason to believe that these two dads are fortunate. The percentage of boys who are able to make their fathers their chief idol is, probably, about what the poll would indicate—two in 628. The average man can win the affection of his son if he is any sort of man at all but generally the boy doesn't idolize his dad, not after he passes infancy.
 A boy is a natural idol worshipper. He places some man on his throne, usually a man who is a leader and also a man in every sense of the word. He patterns after his idol and strives to do as his idol would do. Very few dads have the honor to be placed on this throne. Such a dad must be the symbol of what the boy himself would like to be. He must be the materialization of boyhood ambitions.

Not every man has the privilege to say what these two men of New Jersey may say. Not every man can be the greatest man to his son.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS
 The Nebraska intramural program reaches its peak of interest in the Husker Carnival which is being held this evening in the Coliseum. Basketball finals, hog-calling contests, thread and needle races, an off-color dance, and many other amusements have been tossed into a program that promises to be one of the most interesting and novel events of the season. The "N" Club is aiding the department of athletics in sponsoring the carnival for the purpose of furthering interest in intramural sports.

Although a fairly recent development, the intramural program so rapidly attracted the interest of students that it now holds a prominent place in the campus activities of practically every university in the country. The program may attribute its popularity to the fact that intramural sports come closer to affording voluntary recreation to all students than any other plan.

A wide variety of sports is offered so that every student may be able to participate. The stimulus added by interfraternity and independent competition attracts many who feel that their meager ability does not warrant their trying out for the varsity squads. The entire program is planned for spontaneous fun rather than any idea of a daily training grind. The result is that many students who would not otherwise take time for such recreation are setting aside a certain portion of their time for athletic play.

Congratulations are due Coach Schulte, Jimmie Lewis, and the department of athletics for the manner in which they have planned and conducted the present intramural program.

 Brown and Witte, both former Lincoln high players, are receiving the regular call from Coach Black. These ex-Lincolns function smoothly at the forward berth and make a great pair in working the leather down the floor.
 With the addition of "Lew" Lewandowski at a guard position, the action of the whole quintet is speeded up considerably. "Lew" is a heady, clever player and with Holm makes an exceptionally good defense. Holm, playing his second year for Nebraska, is a well-known and popular player to the basket fans of the Cornhusker camp.

Kosmet Klub Engages Two More Dancers

 from an Omaha theater were secured yesterday for the party to supplement the two specialty girls from the Orpheum theater in Omaha. These dancers will be an outstanding feature of the Interfraternity Ball. Three other acts of entertainment have been arranged for. Harriet Cruise Kemmer, Harold Turner, and Wilbur Chenoweth, well known musical artists, will entertain during the evening. "Chuck" Wiles, celebrated xylophone artist, and "Red" Krause of accordion fame will augment the College Club orchestra in providing dance music.

Decoration Secret
 James Pickering, in charge of decorations for the party, announced late yesterday evening that the decorative theme had at last become a reality. Kosmet Klub has spared nothing in their ambition to make the Interfraternity Ball of 1928 an outstanding success. The actual plan and motif of decoration remains secret, but the elegance and completeness of the adornment is being discussed. "A dream world rests within the walls of the Scottish Rite Temple," declared one who has seen the spectacle.
 The Kosmet Klub will hold a dinner-dance at the Lincoln Hotel Saturday evening before the Interfraternity Ball opens.

'N' Club Plans Special Dance

 The tags are of four different colors, and at certain signals given from the balcony, designated colors must dance together. "N" Club men will circulate throughout the dancers, and see that no "off-colors" are dancing together. A fine of five cents is imposed upon violators of the signals, the result being, as "Jimmy" Lewis promised, "to mix or break."
 Intramural athletic events will be run off up until 10 o'clock when the floor will be cleared. The dance promises to be as outstanding and as unusual as the Carnival itself.

U.S.S. Saratoga

A Marvel of National Defense

From this 2½-acre deck, Uncle Sam's battle planes can now leap into action—sure of a landing place on their return, though a thousand miles from shore.

This marvel of national defense was accomplished—and duplicated—when the airplane carrier, U.S.S. Saratoga, and her sister ship, U.S.S. Lexington, were completely electrified.

In each, four General Electric turbine-generators deliver, combined, 180,000 horsepower to the propellers—enough to drive the ship at 33 knots (39 miles an hour)—enough to furnish light and power for a city of half a million people.

The design and construction of the electric equipment for the U. S. S. Saratoga and the U.S.S. Lexington, to which college-trained men contributed in great measure, exemplify the part General Electric plays in promoting the welfare of the nation.

Mat Men Will Meet Kansas

 will defend Nebraska honors in the 135 pound class. Reimer will compete in the 145 pound class. Toman who made a very favorable impression in the Cornell meet will wrestle in the 158 pound class. Davis will be the Nebraska representative in the 175 pound class and Koehnke is scheduled to get the call for the heavyweight division.

There is still a question as to who will wrestle for the Huskers in the 115 pound class. Enzor Kellogg, brother of Coach Kellogg, won the position of the squad in the tryouts but his eligibility was still in doubt last evening. In case that Saturday can not be cleared up by Saturday Kosowsky will be the choice in the midget class.

The Kansas team is being coached by Guy Lokabough, former member of the Olympic team. Definite information as to the strength of the Jayhawker squad is lacking. It is reported, however, that the team is made up mostly of veteran material, so the meet will probably be an interesting one for Nebraska.
