FAIR COMMITTEES

Norris '29 Laurel; and Mildred Hawley '29 Lincoln.

There has been some change made in the plan of this year's committees. The Public Relations committee now includes the Advertising, Guide Book, and Publicity which were formerly separate committees. The Parade committee includes all the parade committees and the Educational Exhibits are all under the Educational Executive committee. The remaining committees remain separate.

The list of committee members will be published next Tuesday.

der discussion. The only way in which the debate itself may be approximately judged is from the number of changes that appear in the second collection of votes.

White Is Coach
Under the direction of Professor H. A. White, varsity debate coach, the Cornhusker debaters have been having a very successful season. Both the negative and affirmative teams debated last week, against the Kansas Aggies. The affirmative team debated in the junior high school auditorium at Beatrice, while the negative team journeyed to Manhattan to engage in vocal and mental combat.

Nebraska students interested in debating are reviving the football slogan "Beat Mizzou" in honor of the approaching contest. The debate on government interference will start at 7:45 o'clock, tickets being available at the door for twenty-five cents.

dean of student affairs, that is that such applicants have completed 12 hours the past semester and 27 hours the previous year.

Should State Qualifications
Application blanks should contain such qualifications as the candidate for the position may have as to previous experience and time that could be spent on the preparation for the parties.

The council will meet this Wednesday afternoon to consider the applicants. No applications will be received after 4 o'clock Wednesday.

The extension of time, student council members declared last evening was imperative and only reasonable as the two day period was exceedingly too short to enable students to file suitable applications.

"Some Scientists Are Dogmatic"

always changing their ideas.
"Of course, clinging to a law that is well established need not be dogmatic," Doctor Pool said, "Evidence must be sifted and weighed and that idea which is supported by the most conclusive evidence accepted in preference to others." He expressed the opinion that a person who persists in an idea after scientific method has disproved it is dogmatic.

"Failing to believe one's eyes and senses is worse than failing to believe one's mind, because you can't always fool the senses," he declared. He mentioned the fact that some people won't even believe that the earth is round or that there are diseases or micro-organisms, in spite of the fact that the evidence in favor of their existence is very conclusive. In his opinion, some persons would rather have their heads chopped off than to believe in the law of gravitation.

Should Not Be Dogmatic
"My feeling is that scientists should be the very last ones to be dogmatic," continued Doctor Pool. "The whole spirit of it teaches belief in the new. Of course dogmatism and religion are philosophical, and are not at all scientific, yet scientists should certainly keep away from dogmatism. If dogmatism is undesirable in philosophy and religion, it certainly is in science."

He declared the principle to be the same no matter what the field of science is, and said that botany is the same in that respect as any other science. It is simply one of the artificial classifications that has to be made for convenience in study, but is subject to the same principles as all science and must follow the same method.

"Few people appreciate the fact that many of the laws of life are as clearly indicated and demonstrated by plants as by animals," he said in conclusion.

finding the hoop and it was his three field goals in rapid succession with Gann's goal that gave the Aggies the winning margin. Nebraska started the scoring, but the Aggie offensive led by Mertel soon retaliated and the lead overcame a four point and enabled the Huskers to tie the score as the half ended.

Scradski, Aggie center, with seven field goals and a free toss was high scorer of the tussle. Grace, Nebraska forward, led the Husker scoring efforts with a pair of field goals and free throws to his credit. The playing of Holm, Nebraska guard, featured the offensive as well as the defensive play of the Huskers and he scored five points for a close second to Grace.

Other results in the Valley include a victory by Oklahoma over the Iowa State cagers at Norman by a 37 to 17 margin. Kansas outpointed the Grinnell Pioneers and doubled the score to win 42 to 21.

Games with Kansas and Oklahoma on the Coliseum court are scheduled for Feb. 24 and 25. After these contests and a game with Grinnell at home Feb. 28, the Huskers end the season with an Oklahoma trip where they meet the Oklahoma and Oklahoma Aggie teams March 3 and 5. the score was close throughout the game.

Leading 15 to 13 at the half, the Jayhawk lead was threatened near the close of the fourth quarter when the Scarlet clad youths moved up to a 28 to 27 score. Thomson then proceeded to put the game on ice for the Kansas with three baskets from the side of the court.

Thomson, the Jayhawk scoring ace, led the scoring honors with 17 points while Elmer Holm, Husker guard, got 9 points for his share of the game. Brown and Othmer both garnered seven markers.
