

Gordon NARROW HEEL

So obviously smarter!

Ankles are no end smarter when clothed almost entirely in sheer silk! The Gordon Narrow Heel is no wider than is needed for reinforcement—a slender line that lightly repeats the line of the smart shoe heel.

Try them—see the effect of all that lovely sheerness on your own ankles. The new Gordon shades are here—authentic ensemble colors, of course. Semi-service or chiffon weight $2.00.

NET DRAWINGS ARE TO BE MADE TODAY

Play Begins This Morning Following Pairings; Most Schools Have Entered

Drawings for match play in the Missouri Valley tennis championship meet, singles and doubles, are to be held at 10 o'clock this morning at the Lincoln hotel. Play will begin immediately following the drawings.

All schools in the conference, with the exception of Drake, have entered teams in the meet. Kansas has entered no men in the doubles, but aside from that all schools have entered teams in both the doubles and singles.

Among players of note are Harris Coggeshall of Grinnell who was Valley champion last year, and Mason of Oklahoma, one of the team that won the doubles championship last year.

Heacock, Elliott, Davis, Dubry, and Lewandowski will represent Nebraska in the singles, but the doubles teams have not been picked as yet. The athletic office is expecting about twenty-seven men from valley schools to be in Lincoln for this championship meet.

Swimming Circus Is On Veishea Program

Ames, May 17.—Seventy-five Iowa State men and women are included in

Nebraska's One-Mile Relay Team

Nebraska's one-mile relay team, composed of Davenport, E. Wyatt, Campbell, and Capt. Perly Wyatt. Coach Henry F. Schulte is on the right in the above picture. The relay team has turned in some very good times this year, and Husker fans will see the team in action in the Missouri Valley meet today and tomorrow at the Memorial stadium.

the annual swimming circus to be staged in State pool Thursday and Friday as a feature of Veishea, the Iowa State college exposition. This year's swimming circus will include aerial acts and hippodrome races.

The Iowa State circus troupe is coached by Jake Daubert, veteran swimming coach. The circus this year includes an underwater eating exhibition in which two Iowa State swimmers eat from a table sunk in eight feet of water.

New swimming strokes, including the Egyptian crawl, the Canary crawl and the Tasmanian crawl, will be shown. The show will be ended by a swimmer doing the fire dive from the high tower.

BASEBALL TOURNEY PAIRINGS ARE MADE

Three Games Are Yet to Be Played To Determine Participants In Final Round

Drawings have been made for the final round of the 1928 inter-fraternity baseball tournament. All teams participating in this round are the winners of their leagues, having won the largest percentage of their games in the league schedule.

Three league games remain to be played, for the right to compete in the final round. They are Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs. Delta Sigma Phi; Alpha Gamma Rho vs. Phi Sigma Kappa; Delta Sigma Delta vs. Kappa Psi.

EIGHTEEN CYCLONES WILL ATTEND MEET

Iowa State Will Enter Many Men In Valley Track Competition This Week End

Ames, May 17.—Eighteen Iowa State trackmen, Coach Bob Simpson and Trainer George Nelson will make the trip to Lincoln for the Missouri Valley track meet Friday and Saturday. Besides the track aspirants, Robbins and Welch, Cyclone tennis players, will enter the valley tennis tourney. Director T. N. Metcalf will attend the athletic directors meeting and Dean S. W. Beyer will take in the faculty representatives meeting.

Although the Iowa State track men have registered a victory over Missouri in their dual meet, besides defeating Drake and Grinnell in the triangular meet, they are not doped to rate high in the valley championships. Oklahoma, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas are all picked above the Cyclones.

Distance Superiority Ended

Iowa State's days of superiority in the distances and middle distances are apparently at an end. In the half mile, formerly a Cyclone stronghold, the field includes Epstein of Missouri, Faulkner of the Oklahoma Aggies, and Gartner of the Kansas Aggies, all clever performers. Iowa State will be represented by Thompson and Thornburg.

In the mile run the opposition includes Keith of Oklahoma, Mooney of the Kansas Ags, Chadderdon of Nebraska and Faulkner of the Oklahoma Aggies. Hoak and Christenson of the Cyclones are entered in the event.

Meier and Engle, Iowa State sprinters, are credited with having a chance to place in the 220-yard dash. Engle's past performances rate him as one of the coming men in the conference.

High Schools Are to Decide Debate Issues

White Has Sent Questionnaires to Eighty-Five Members of Nebraska League

The result of the questionnaires sent out by Prof. H. A. White of the College of Law to the schools of the Nebraska High School Debating league has not been completely compiled as yet. The questionnaires are coming in fast, and the final results are expected to be complete in about a week.

These questionnaires are sent out to eighty-five schools. The schools vote on these questions and return them to Professor White. The questions are those which are under consideration for use in next year's debates.

These questions vary widely in the subjects for discussion. Many of them concern laws of the nation, state, and city, and various changes which might be made. One question concerns the idea of requiring liability insurance for automobile drivers, and another concerns the adoption of the honor system in our high schools.

Government Question Popular

The question which has been the most popular so far is the following one: "The United States should adopt the principles of the English cabinet system of government." This has already been selected for four or five states in the Mississippi valley, which will join in holding an interstate post-season debate tournament. If Nebraska joins in this subject our state can be entered.

One ballot from each member school is required. Also the schools are to indicate preference as to whether they favor holding the debate tournament earlier next year, about April 20. Any further suggestions will be gladly received. Special efforts are being made to increase the number of schools in the league for next year.

All students not completing their registration by Saturday noon will be fined the sum of $3. Come early and save!

SOILS ARE TESTED BY OHIO STUDENTS

Trekking Laboratory Class Quizzes Mother Earth to Secure Data For Aid of Farmers

"In its fourth annual trek the peripatetic soils laboratory of Ohio State university is out asking pertinent question of Old Mother Earth," according to a story appearing in the Ohio State Latern.

The soils laboratory in collaboration with the extension department of the College of Agriculture started on its 1928 travels in March. It will keep going, with a few layoffs, until October.

That time samples of the soil from hundreds of Ohio farms will have been tested, the characteristics determined, and suggestions made by specialists in soils and crops, for the cropping, fertilization, and liming program of the farmers who submit the samples.

F. J. Salter, laboratory operator in the soils department, has the fun of jiggling the test tubes and performing the magic passes after the equipment has been unloaded from the truck which carries it. While he is doing this and explaining the tricks that he is performing, the soils specialist who happens to be on duty with the truck is rigging up a set of maps.

While Salter lets one set of sample stew in their own juice for a few minutes, the specialist takes up the task of entertainment, with a brief and summarized explanation of the history of soils and other pertinent matters.

When the analysis is finished the specialist tells the farmer what's what and suggests cropping system, fertilizer, and lime treatment for the field from which the sample came.

There will be seven meetings or more each week while the laboratory is on the road. Advance arrangements for the meetings, including the taking of soil samples, will be made by county agents aided by soil demonstrators and Smith-Hughes teachers.

they will be seen no more this year. The freshmen will be seated in a body, and, when the signal is given, they will file around the basket before the stage in the gymnasium and deposit their headgear.

Red Caps Are No More To Be Seen on Heads Of Iowa State Frosh

Ames, May 17.—"Hey, Freshman!" And after this week he will be no different from any of the other Iowa State students for he will have lost that conspicuous mark of distinction—the prep cap.

All year the familiar "red-tops" have been seen tearing about the campus, but, after the convocation which opens the annual Veishea exposition, Thursday morning, May 17,
