Harvard Professor Believes Colleges Get Money by Unfair Means

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—(IP)—An American colleges and universities playing poor?

William B. Munro, professor of government at Harvard University thinks and says so in an article published in the October issue of the Atlantic Monthly.

"College professors as a class," says Professor Munro, "are quick to see the mote in the other fellow's eye. They take the righteousness of their own institutions as self-evident. In their courses on public finance, business organization, and accounting, they will dissect a municipal budget or a corporation balance sheet with caustic comments, forgetting that criticism, like charity, can sometimes make its best beginnings at home."

"Let me give an illustration. In the latest financial report of a certain American university there is a list of invested funds which constitute the endowment. It includes a block of General Electric common, nearly sixteen thousand shares, the value of which is given as one dollar. The actual value of that stock, as a matter of fact, is more than two million dollars."

Such methods, the professor declares, are necessary if the college is to go to its alumni and ask for more funds.

"I have known a college," he continues, "to announce a deficit at the end of a year, and to plead urgently with its alumni for contributions on that account, when the total income actually exceeded the total expenditures for that year by several hundred thousand dollars."

The situation is gradually improving, Professor Munro says, but there is still some distance to be covered before the college professor of business administration can feel himself safely out of a glass house."

LINCOLN CROWDS FIND THE SPIDER SUCCESS

Formances are proof to the fact that Lincoln is interested in new plays and different amusement. According to Ramsay, tickets are still available and on sale at Rossy Currier music company. Single night admissions are seventy-five cents while tickets for the Saturday matinee are nearly sold out for fifty cents each.

"The Spider" has been under the direction of Miss H. Alice Howell, instructor in the dramatics department.

Freak Reptiles Are Presented To Iowa State

Ames, Iowa, Oct. 2.—Additions during the summer to the collection of live snakes and reptiles maintained by Dr. J. E. Guthrie of the Zoology department of Iowa State College include a chuckwalla, two horned toads and a freak-colored water snake and her family of ten babies.

The chuckwalla, a desert lizard which feeds exclusively on foliage, was sent to Dr. Guthrie from North Hollywood, Calif. The sender volunteered the information that the flesh of the chuckwalla is often used for food.

One of the horned toads was presented to Dr. Guthrie by a friend in San Diego, Calif., and the other was transplanted from Texas.

Shortly after the water snake was received from Des Moines where she was captured, she presented the department with ten baby snakes, four of which were colored similarly to their mother. The remaining six resembled others of the species in color.

CYCLONES TAKE REST FOR HUSKER BATTLE

Iowa State Squad Prepares For Opening Big Six Contest

Ames, Iowa, Oct. 2.—After limbering up workouts yesterday afternoon with a little signal drill, followed by a meeting last night for discussion of defense tactics and a light scrimmage session this afternoon, the varsity football squad at Iowa State college is resting in preparation for the formal opening of the Big Six conference when the University of Nebraska invades state field Saturday afternoon.

The Cyclone squad is in good physical condition and no changes in lineup resulted from last Saturday's practice game.

The Nebraska line averages 198 pounds to the man from end to end whereas the Cyclone line averages considerably less.

LITERARY STUDENTS MAKE BETTER GRADES

Interesting Figures Are Found at University of Michigan

Students in the literary college, taken as a whole, have a 19 to 1 chance of passing their courses with a D or better, and a four to one chance of getting a C or better, according to figures released yesterday by the Registrar's office at the University of Michigan.

To put it a different way, 95 percent of all the grades given last year in the literary college were D or better, and 85.9 percent were C or better. Only 2.1 percent were E, while 1 percent were X and the rest incomplete, including A's, B's, C's, D's, E's, X's and Inc's. 41,460 marks were turned in by all departments of the literary college.

The history department turned in 4,266 marks to lead the pack, but English was a close second with 4,118, and rhetoric also broke into the four thousand column with 4,091 marks turned in. These courses were easily the most popular, no other department even breaking 2,500, although German, economics and psychology were grouped closely around 2,250.

Pathology with three students and Sanskrit with six proved to be the least popular courses, although Sanskrit deserved much better. Two of the students enrolled received A in the course and the other four received B.

Besides Sanskrit, only one other course last year, library science, offered a one to two shot at an A. To the 283 students enrolled were distributed 95 A's, 161 B's, 25 C's, a D, and an X, making it the most likely course on the campus in which to pick up a few honor points.

as for pipe courses, fine arts, journalism, and music are "sure B's." Between them they offer practically a two to one shot of getting a B.

Mental athletes, begoggled scholars, and Phi Beta Kappa rushing material will be interested in physics, mathematics, economics, chemistry, and history, which scored the highest numbers of D and E failures in that order. History and economics led numerically, but physics was far ahead in percentage with 27.9 percent D's and E's.

EASTERNERS TAKE UP NEW RUSHING SYSTEM

No Sorority Rushing Until Midyear Is the Maine University System

A new system of rushing has been adopted by the Pan Hellenic council for women's Greek letter fraternities, at the University of Maine.

In the past immediately upon the opening of the fall semester the upper class girls and freshman girls have engaged in a hectic four weeks of rushing. Bids were given just before the middle of the semester.

Both the administration and the fraternities feel that this short time was a detriment to both upper-class and freshman girls scholastically, and that the first year students did not become sufficiently acquainted with the various fraternities to be sure of their choice.

This year there is to be no rushing for the first few weeks; a neutral period, called the Big Sister Period, is to last until mid year. In this time the freshman and upper class girls are to meet each other but are to keep fraternity talk in the background. No upper class girl will seek the company of a freshman, and the freshman is supposed to make as her companions members of her own class.

Two weeks after the beginning of the Spring Semester there is to be an eight day period of rushing. Each fraternity may hold one party, and it has been arranged so that no two fraternities have their parties on the same day.

After the week of rushing, bids will be issued. Preferential bidding is again to be used. In this form of bidding, the girls write their choices or choices of fraternities on a slip of paper. The fraternities write their choices. The two lists are given to an uninterested person. A lawyer from Bangor has matched up the slips for the past two years.

Family Pet Is Discovered on Pharmacy Roof

Excitement was aroused near Pharmacy hall Tuesday afternoon, when it was discovered that there was a peculiar specie on the hall roof.

Investigation revealed that it was only the family pet from some neighboring dwelling house. The house cat was taken down from his tour of exploration and sent, sadder but wiser, on his way.

Later, water pipes in the basement lecture room were pouring forth torrents of water upon seats and tables. No great damage was reported, and the sages of the campus are inclined to believe that the prowler was responsible for the accident.

His color was not the same as worn in mourning, but perhaps he was the bearer of some evil omen.
