TURKEY DAY TILT WILL DETERMINE BIG SIX WINNER

'Bo' McMillin's Wildcats Invade Cornhuskerdom With Vengeance

INJURIES HIT HUSKERS

In Spite of East Trip and Army Drubbing, Huskers Have Slight Edge

This afternoon at 2:00 o'clock the Nebraska Cornhuskers meet Coach "Bo" McMillin's Kansas Aggie Wildcats on Memorial Stadium field for the gridiron finale of 1928. Nebraska now leads the Big Six conference and to win this game against the team from Manhattan would clinch the conference football championship with a perfect season for the Scarlet and Cream.

Kansas Aggies will take the field against the Huskers this afternoon in an attempt to gain the honor of being the first football eleven in the Big Six to stop the "power-house" in conference games. Resting last week, the Aggie eleven is in top-notch condition for the Bearmen and hope to turn back the onslaught that the Scarlet has unleashed on conference foes throughout the season.

Except Stiff Battle
Returning from a hard game at West Point with the Army eleven last week, the Huskers have only had two practice sessions on the home soil and are just in the kinking stage as the Turkey Day classic draws near. The Nebraska coaching staff is expecting a great battle today from McMillin's Wildcat eleven and from the showing of the Huskers in the two practice drills, indications are that the Scarlet is not in the best of form for the closing game.

Kansas Aggies have never turned back a team wearing the colors of Nebraska. In the long years that the two elevens have battled on the gridiron, the closest a Manhattan team ever came to beating Nebraska was a scoreless tie in the conference game three years ago at Manhattan. Today the Aggie game looms as the big game on the Husker schedule. It means victory in the first football season of the Big Six conference and altho a defeat from the hands of the Wildcats would not take the championship from Nebraska, it would put the first place honors into a tie with Missouri.

Bugaboo Hits

The long trip back east to West Point has left the Nebraska team weary and by virtue of the fact that the Cadet eleven handed Nebraska its first defeat of the season, the rather taken edge of things in the camp of the mighty Husker eleven. To turn back the Aggies this afternoon on Memorial Stadium field is the greatest task of the 1928 season. The long schedule has had its effect on the team and the injury jinx has crept into the Husker squad since the game at West Point.

Although the injury list is not great, three regular men on the squad are nursing minor bruises from the bombardment at the

FORUM WILL RESUME MEETINGS NEXT WEEK

International Relations Series Will Begin December 5

World Forum meetings will begin again Wednesday, December 5, at the Nebraska hotel, with a series of three talks on the general subject of international relations. Dr. F. M. Fling, professor of European History at the University, will give the address of December 5 on "The Significance of the Kellogg Peace Pact." Prof. Fling is a thorough student of international relations, and has had much experience in the study of this subject.

Mr. Hanna Fam, a native Egyptian, will give the talk for the second meeting in December. Mr. Fam has just completed graduate work in the University of Chicago. He will visit in Lincoln a few days before going on to take up Y. M. C. A. work. Mr. Fam's topic will be not definitely known but will be concerned with his native country and its relation to the other countries.

Goes to Egypt

C. Steele Holcombe, Nebraska graduate, who is doing active Y. M. C. A. work in the Far East.

'Y' WORKER RECEIVES NEW EGYPTIAN POST

C. Steele Holcombe, '16, Is Transferred to Assuit Headquarters

HAYES PRAISES EFFORTS

C. Steele Holcombe, '16, has been transferred to an important Y. M. C. A. post at Assuit, Egypt, according to information received at the office of the campus organization. Since graduating from the University of Nebraska, where he was a member of Alpha Theta Chi and Phi Delta Phi fraternities, Mr. Holcombe has been active in Christian endeavor in Egypt.

After serving in the balloon service during the war, Mr. Holcombe was called by the foreign department to a position in Egypt and, after some training at Silver Bay, sailed for Cairo. For a time he was connected with the British army camp on the Suez canal but was later transferred to Alexandria, where his first work with Egyptians began.

Was Boys' Secretary

Soon after the Y. M. C. A. property was purchased in 1921, Mr. Holcombe became secretary. In the work he found his intimate contacts with the young men to be most profitable. In order to get a larger background of the Mohammedan world, Mr. Holcombe spent a summer in Palestine and Syria.

In 1927, Mr. Holcombe spent most of his time as boys' secretary, devoting his time to the boys and younger students who came to the foreign extension of the Y. M. C. A. With his transference to Assuit, two hundred miles up the Nile river from Cairo, Mr. Holcombe will have a chance to do

NEW USE FOR MOVIES IS FOUND IN HISTORY

Pictures Are Employed as Part of Sixteen New Courses

The University extension service is making an innovation this year in the study of history. The motion picture is used to depict historical scenes in a class which meets each Tuesday evening in Nebraska hall auditorium. The name of the course is Chronicles of America.

At each class meeting a different historical scene is depicted and the class studies it from an outline which is supplied by the history department. Some of the subjects for the episodes are Columbus, Jamestown, the Pilgrims, the Puritans, Peter Stuyvesant and others of this type.

Another innovation made this year by the Extension division is the introduction of a course in lip reading. This class meets Tuesdays and Fridays in the former museum building.

Department Grows

The Extension service has been growing steadily in both the number of courses offered and number of students according to A. A. Reed, director. Sixteen new courses are offered this year. These are in business law, the classics, educational psychology, argumentation, German, philosophy and the two previously mentioned.

'ROYAL REVUE' PRESENTS MOST POPULAR CO-ED

Nebraska Sweetheart Will Appear Before Student Body Today

TRADITION ESTABLISHED

Curiosity and Guessing Come to an End This Morning

Curiosity and guessing contests regarding the "Sweetheart of Nebraska," who was chosen by the University men in an election held Friday, November 23, but whose identity has been kept a secret, will reach their end this morning when "the most popular co-ed" is coronated during "King Kosmet's Royal Revue" at the Orpheum theater.

Kosmet Club conceived the idea that the university should have its sweetheart and sponsored the recent election for the office in which all men students of the university were eligible to participate. Any co-ed in any college of the University of Nebraska was declared eligible for the office.

Immediately following the election announcement sororities and other feminine campus organizations began to devise a plan by which their favorite could acquire the majority of the masculine votes on the campus. Members of the College of Law announced that they were backing one of their own classmates.

Electioneering Is Heavy.

Electioneering was at high pitch throughout the day of the election. No nominations were made for the office and so names appeared on the ballot. Men who came to cast their vote in the ballot box which resided within the Lincoln theater's automobile "Ark" found a multitude of co-eds around the polling place ready to beseech them for votes in favor of the candidates whom they were backing. From 9 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon when the polling place closed this commotion continued.

All co-eds seemed eager to obtain the office which placed the value

Weather Man Says Snow for Today's Game

When the Cornhuskers meet the Kansas Aggies today in the Turkey Day classic of Nebraska, the weather will be somewhat different from that of a year ago. Last year the weather was crisp but the sky was clear and in short was an ideal football day for both players and spectators. This year's Thanksgiving game, according to the U. S. weather bureau is to be decidedly different.

The forecast for Lincoln is probably rain followed by snow and a lowering of temperature. Cold and snowy weather will cut the attendance considerably and it will be a bad day especially from the viewpoint of the spectators. The team will not be hampered by a wet field as the playing field lays under a thick coat of straw.

ATTENDANCE TODAY MAY SET NEW MARK

Between 15,000 and 16,000 people will be in the stands today when the Cornhuskers clash with the Wildcats, the belief of John K. Selleck, business manager of athletics. The estimate is made with the provision that the weather is favorable.

Even with the relatively small attendance anticipated, Mr. Selleck was certain that the close of this season will establish a new mark for numbers of people who watched the Huskers play in any one season. Definite figures are not yet available for publication, but the number of spectators at Nebraska games this year will far outnumber those of any previous season.

Nebraskan Will Not Appear Over Vacation

Due to Thanksgiving vacation, there will be no issues of The Daily Nebraskan on Friday and Sunday. The next issue will be delivered Tuesday morning. Reporters are asked to get assignments Monday afternoon, as usual.

L. E. Aylsworth Praises Sydney Debating Team

Australian debaters, in the debate with Nebraska Tuesday night, showed a breadth of view and knowledge of government which was commendable in the opinion of L. E. Aylsworth, professor of political science. He also commended their easy style of speaking mixed with bits of sarcasm and humor.

The Nebraska case in the debate with the University of Sydney was based on three contentions. First they showed that the dominant tendency in government was toward the federal form. They demonstrated why the federal system of government required a bicameral legislature with equal houses and that the parliamentary government "was possible only when one house in a bicameral legislature is dominant. They hoped to prove by this that a parliamentary system and a federal system are incompatible.

Professor Aylsworth commended the Nebraska debaters on their argument, but pointed out a weakness in it, in that they overemphasized the tendency toward the federal form. The tendency in America has been toward nationalism rather than federalism, he said.

Visitors Style Is Lively

The Australians' style of debate is very interesting and attractive and helps to enliven the debate. Professor Aylsworth's only criticism was that they did not talk loud enough and clear enough to be heard by the entire audience. A great many in the audience had great difficulty in understanding this. This was partly due to the poor acoustics of the Coliseum.

The Sydney debaters spent a good deal of time at the beginning of their speeches in what Americans would call useless talk. The Nebraskans, about immediately to prove their case and drive through their main contentions. Mr. Aylsworth pointed out that this is a characteristic of Americans as contrasted with foreigners. Americans are obsessed with that overwhelming desire to win.

MONDAY SEES OPENING OF NEW TARGET RANGE

Men and Women Will Shoot In Andrews Hall This Season

The new indoor target range in Andrews hall opens Monday afternoon. At present only girls and the varsity rifle team will practice.

Over fifty girls at various sororities have been waiting for several weeks for a chance to shoot. Sergeant C. F. McGinsey of the R. O. T. C. department instructed them in preliminary work in rifle marksmanship. He will give them the final instruction in shooting between three and four thirty o'clock next week. All girls should report in groups for this instruction.

The men's varsity rifle team will practice in the afternoons between one and three o'clock. Some have already been shooting and have been turning in high score. Merrill Flood, '29, Lincoln, fired three "possibles" in the prone position, Monday afternoon.

The Lincoln chapter of the National Rifle association uses the gallery on Wednesday evenings. Last night a match was shot off between the Lincoln club and the national guards.

Dean Sealock of the Teachers college will speak to Pi Lambda Theta, Teachers college honorary sorority, Tuesday December 4. The subject of Dean Sealock's talk will be "Moral Education."

Seven Huskers Close Dazzling Careers As 1928 Season Ends

(By Jack Elliott)

This afternoon when the Nebraska Cornhuskers line up against the Kansas Aggies, seven Husker football warriors will be playing their last for the Scarlet and Cream. Seven men who have fought for the Cornhusker school on the gridiron for three years.

Leading the list of men who will don the scarlet for the last time is Co-Captain Elmer Holm, one of the greatest fullbacks that Nebraska football has ever seen. Blue has played in the Cornhusker backfield for three years and leaves a place in the Nebraska backfield that will be hard to fill when the Huskers line up for the first season practice next fall. Howell's work as a line plunger and interference runner are the two outstanding features in the Big Six conference.

Was Presnell's Partner

Last year Howell played an interference game for Glen Presnell and brought a great deal of comment from sport critics throughout the country on his ability to take the opposing men out of the path of the runner. This year Blue

LEADS FOR NEXT PLAYERS DRAMA ARE ANNOUNCED

Cornelia Ayres and Lerner Will Head Cast for 'The Outsider'

STAGED DECEMBER 10-15

Blind Author Mixes Tears And Laughter in Her Great Epic

With Cornelia Ayres and W. Zolby Lerner, school of the arts seniors in the leading roles, the University Players will present "The Outsider," the three act comedy drama by Dorothy Brandon during the week of December 10 to 15 as their third seasonal production. "The Outsider" is an outstanding play of its type, conveying an idea seldom voiced in modern comedies. It played an entire year in London where it originated and also ran for a year on Broadway with huge box office success.

Dorothy Brandon Is Author.

Dorothy Brandon, the author of this play, is an English girl, crippled all her life, and as this was the first work of her pen in regard to play writing, seems to have bared her soul in the lesson this play teaches. The play is as much educational in nature as it is amusing and presents opportunities for tears, resulting from the pathos in the lives it presents.

The play has to deal with the plight of a young woman who has been crippled from childhood. Her father, who is an eminent surgeon, and all his associates in the Royal Medical College pronounce the girl incurable. The young woman, Lalage, the part played by Miss Ayres, has become a composer of some repute, but she desires the fullness of life that is given to the normal woman.

'Ragatzy'-Zolley Lerner

There enters Ragatzy, the part to be played by Mr. Lerner, a medical practitioner outside the association of physicians and surgeons, and described by one of the critics as "a man whom God made a physician."

FEW ATTEND CLOSING RALLY AT COLISEUM

Retiring Gridsters, Bearg Make Speeches Before Small Gathering

Making their last appearance before Nebraska students at a rally, Co-Captains Howell and Holm, Dan McMullen, and Cliff Ashburn spoke at the final grid rally of the season at the Coliseum last night. A small crowd of students were present for the final pep exhibition of the season. Coach Ernest E. Bearg also spoke to the assemblage of students and football enthusiasts.

Opinions that the game with the Kansas Aggie team today was going to be no set-up characterized the football speeches. Coach Bearg expressed the opinion that the Huskers were entering the game today with a worn-out and fagged team, and that the Cornhusker spirit and enthusiasm would be an important factor in the winning of the last game of the season. The four players who talked foretold a Husker victory, not discounting the Aggies, however.

Frederick Daly presided at the rally. About two dozen players assembled on the stage for the last time this year. Of the seven Huskers playing their last game, Holm, Howell, Ashburn and McMullen spoke.

Chick Dox led the small gathering in yells. A sprinkling of Tassels and Corn Cobs was evident.

Oregon State College—

Students taking military training at Oregon State College cost the government $47.87 each, according to figures as compiled by army officers.

Kaggies Evade Cellar.

Today, two squads of football warriors are forsaking the turkey and cranberries at noon for a big game. Two teams of men will be fighting against each other, one for championship recognition, the other against a cellar position and with an effort to beat the team that gave the Army mule such a workout.

Thanksgiving seems to be a time in every student's life when he may chuck the books, enjoy a good football game, eat to his heart's content (and not at any fraternity table), and travel homeward to spend a few days vacation. It is the let-up from a football season, successful as measured by the team and the support given it by the student body.

Leaders Demand Full Cheer Section Today

In order to insure a full cheering section for today's game, students who have tickets in the section but who can not be present are requested to dispose of their tickets to someone who can be present.

Today's game between Nebraska-Kansas Aggies is the last one of the season and it is desirable that a good showing be made by the cheering section. A good program of stunts, such as those carried out during the entire season, will be put on. These stunts depend, however, upon a packed section. A few vacant seats can spoil the effect of the entire stunt.

PREP STUDENTS SHOW INTEREST IN DEBATE

Radio Only Communication Between Kansas Aggies And Nebraskans

OVER KFOR TOMORROW

Nebraska high school debaters are showing considerable interest in the debate to be given over KFOR tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, when a team from the Kansas Agricultural college will meet a special Nebraska team composed of Walter Huber, Lloyd L. Speer, and Nathan Levy.

The question used by the high schools of Nebraska and nearby states and to be used by the varsity debaters, is, "The English Cabinet Form of Government is Preferable to the Presidential form of the United States." This is the same general topic as used last Tuesday night in the debate with the Sydney, Australia, team, but the wording has been made to conform with that used in the state.

No Studio Audience

No audience will be present at the studio, but many are expected to listen in. Announcement of the broadcasting was made at the debate Tuesday night. Broadcasting of the Sydney debate could not be arranged. A similar debate between Kansas university and Kansas Agricultural college will be broadcast by KSAC at Manhattan on Dec. 13.

Nebraska will use three seasoned men in the debate. Huber had considerable work at Technical high school in Omaha and some university work. He is a member of Sigma Pi, forensic society.

Speer, a graduate of Superior high school, had debate work then, and has debated a number of times at the university. He is a pre-law student.

Levy debated forty times during his course at Hastings high school, and was a member of the high school championship team two years ago. He was the winner of the debate scholarship at Midland in the tournament held in 1927.

Turkey Day Is Fun, Food and Football Time

Thanksgiving! The day when spirits are high, and most of Nebraska's co-eds and he-men flock home for that big dinner and a long awaited visit with the family.

When Miles Standish, Priscilla and the other Pilgrim cohorts held open house to the Indians on the front lawn, no thought was given as to what Nebraska students would be doing 300 years after. No one cared whether Howell and Holm were fighting their last for the old Uni.

With the invention of the automobile, and the quest for higher education we have civilization and Nebraska University, Thanksgiving dinners and Kosmet shows. But closer than that, almost correlative with the idea of Thanksgiving is the annual football tussle.

Today, two squads of football warriors are forsaking the turkey and cranberries at noon for a big game. Two teams of men will be fighting against each other, one for championship recognition, the other against a cellar position and with an effort to beat the team that gave the Army mule such a workout.

CAST IN KOSMET SHOW WILL PLAY TO FILLED HOUSE

Box Office Reports Disclose Most Seats for Review Are Purchased

MATERIAL HAS VARIETY

Final Rehearsal Brings Out Promising Talent for Performance

When King Kosmet's Royal Revue opens at 9 o'clock this morning at the Orpheum theater, it will be playing to a capacity audience. This announcement was made late last night by Austin Sturdevant, director of ticket sales for the Kosmet Klub production.

More than one thousand tickets have been sold, leaving only a few in the balcony available for purchase. The majority of the tickets were sold yesterday morning when the fraternalites and sororities reserved seats for the main floor and balcony have been selling for fifty cents.

The annual Thanksgiving morning show of the Kosmet Klub which will go on the boards this morning contains diversified entertainment assembled by the fraternities, sororities and individuals of the University. A huge rally boosting the afternoon football (lit with the Kansas Aggies) will be conducted by Chick Dox, the varsity yell king.

Acts Are Aces

From the opening of the show, in which the King and Queen of Kosmet are featured, to the closing number when Nebraska's Sweetheart will be coronated as the Queen of Kosmet, the show is packed with songs, dances, wisecracking dialogues and other entertainment that goes to make up a Thanksgiving show.

Some of the acts featured in the revue are the Delta Gamma and Sigma Chi skit and the Kappa Kappa Gamma and Alpha Tau Omega presentation. The Delta Gamma act is built around several dancing numbers which were recently featured in Broadway productions. A chorus, with Mabelle Mathews and Ralph Ireland starring, will endeavor to demonstrate the "Wob bly Walk," the sensation which has been gripping New York dancers.

Has Stage Football

The Alpha Omicron Pi act will feature a football team, cleverly costumed and coached in the art of playing football, running formations and dancing to the music of Beck's orchestra. Henry Nestor and Faye Williams have been discovered as having a great deal of ability in their solo dancing, according to word given out by the Kosmet Klub, and will present their selections in connection with the Alpha Omicron Pi and Phi Gamma Delta production.

That blues singer that has been referred to in the Kosmet Klub write ups as "a sensation" will be no other than Olive Stageman, Alpha Chi Omega, who will sing her way into favor with the audience with "Some One of These Days," and "I Can't Give You Anything But Love."
