

SCHULTE WILL TAKE NINETEEN TO KAYSEE

Husker Mentor Picks Even Dozen This Far for Indoor Meet

COMPETITION LOOMS UP

Nineteen Scarlet and Cream track athletes will represent Nebraska at the annual K. C. A. C. indoor classic, which will mark the opening of the Cornhusker 1929 track campaign at Kansas City, Saturday. Announcement from Coach Henry F. Schulte that twelve men had been picked for the trip with the selection of seven more remaining, indicates that Nebraska is to be represented by a strong group of older athletes in their inaugural appearance this week end.

Campbell, Wyatt, R. Krause, Maya, True, Griffin, Garvey, Lamson, Fleming, Oaslan, Ashburn and Easter are the twelve selected to date with the remaining seven to be picked from the roster of Eller, Lowe, Nester, Thompson, Witte, Henbrook, Cook, D. Krause, and Devard.

Quarter Milers Compete. The quartette of Campbell, Wyatt, R. Krause, and Maya, quarter milers, will compete in the open 440 yard event and the mile relay. True, Griffin and Garvey will handle the longer distances with two of these competing in the feature Douglas Cup 500 yard run.

Lamson and Fleming will compete in the high hurdles while Oaslan and Ashburn will represent Nebraska in the pole vault and shot put respectively. Easter will be the Cornhusker entry in the fifty yard dash along with the other sprint candidate selected for the trip.

Plenty of Competition

Reports from other Big Six schools indicate that there will be plenty of competition for Schulte's proteges when they gather in Convention hall in the middle west's feature indoor classic. Coach Henry's Missouri Tigers will be represented by Rosenheim, Mueller and Dills, sprinters along with Kosky and Epstein, in the distance events. Epstein and Kosky will be remembered for their fast work at the 1928 Missouri Valley conference championships.

Oklahoma Aggies, former members of the old Missouri Valley conference have entered two relay teams and several individual performers. Kirch, an Aggie veteran, is entered in the high jump with a record of six feet, one inch.

The Nebraska team will entrain for the Missouri city Friday night accompanied by Coach Schulte and Student Manager Miller.

Elmer Ragains Tie Indoor Track Record

Running in the interfraternity track meet Tuesday Elmer Ragains, of Kearney, tied the indoor record for the 50 yard low hurdles, negotiating the distance in 6.2 seconds.

Nebraska has a full slate of athletic events this week as the winter season goes into the second round of play. Thursday night, Coach Charley Black takes his Husker basketball team to Lawrence where they meet the Kansas Jayhawkers in a return engagement on the basketball floor. The Jayhawkers are in on the ground floor as well as their sister school, the Kansas Aggies. Both teams have turned in but a single win in the Big Six conference. But at home the Kansans are hard to beat and Coach Black hopes his revamped lineup with "Dutchman" Witte at the guard post will be enough to repeat the one point victory over the crew from the Kaw.

The second athletic event of the week is the wrestling match at the Coliseum, again with our neighbors, the Kaggies. Coach Johnny Kellogg is whipping a mat team into shape that looks to be one of the best squads the Husker school has had for many years. Harold Ecklund, the latest addition to the Nebraska mat squad, is one of the outstanding grapplers in the country. At the Olympic tryouts last summer he went to the finals and was barely nosed out for the trip to Amsterdam. He works in the 125-pound division and his first varsity match was at Iowa City last week where he opened his Nebraska wrestling career with a victory.

Next on deck for the mid-winter athletic carnival this week is the Kansas City Athletic club invitation meet at Kansas City, Missouri Saturday. The indoor meet opens the track season for the Nebraska tracksters and the Scarlet will be well represented as Coach Schulte's teams are always represented. The veteran track mentor will take a dozen or so to the K. C. A. C. carnival and will have a first glimpse of what his thin-clads can do in the Big Six this season. Track stars from the Big Ten, Missouri Valley, Big Six and athletic clubs of the mid-west will be represented at the annual meet.

And the last number on the program folks, not the least in importance but a new era in Nebraska athletic circles—the dual swimming meet with Iowa State at Omaha. This is the first time Nebraska has been represented by a swimming team for many moons. But since the organization of the Big Six conference, the Husker school has decided to put a tank team on the athletic card and Saturday night, this team makes its initial debut at Omaha. Coach "Rudie" Vogeler selected his team yesterday afternoon at tryouts held in the Y pool. The squad has been working out for the past several weeks, and shows promise of being one of the fastest in the Big Six conference.

And that completes the athletic card of the week. Basketball, wrestling, track, swimming, the four major winter pastimes, all thrown into one week of activity. And next week, the Husker athletes do not pause for rest but open the week with one of the major events of winter on the program, and that—the Oklahoma-Nebraska basketball game in the Coliseum Monday evening. Those fast-stepping Sooners, unbeaten in conference games for well on to two years. The Sooners have already added a Husker scalp to their collection this season but Coach Charley Black hopes that this meeting will net the Scarlet a little more than a defeat. Headed by "Tommy" Churchill, Olympic star and basketball ace of Norman, the Sooners will invade Husker land for the second game of the round-robin schedule.

Freshman Y. M. Council Meets For Discussion

The freshman council held its first meeting of the new semester last evening in the university Y. M. C. A. offices. The subject discussed was "Honesty and University Life." The group discussion included the relation of honesty to class work and examinations.

Vogeler Selects Swimmers To Tackle Iowa State In Tech Pool

Tryouts for varsity swimming team were held last night by Coach Rudy Vogeler. The team will go to Omaha Saturday night where it will compete with Iowa State in the Omaha Tech pool. The events, eight in all, are scheduled to start at 8 o'clock. Following are the men chosen for the various events:

200 yard free style relay—Vanderlippe, either Cahow, Arb or Kelley, Chaloupka and Waldo.
200 yard breast stroke—Chaloupka, Pattavina.
50 yard free style—Vanderlippe, Waldo.
440 yard free style—Heatbeck, Holt.
150 yard back stroke—Mockler, Peterson.
Fancy diving—Two out of Roberts, Gaskill, Kleinhauf, Whitaker.
100 yard free style—Chaloupka, Waldo.
Medley relay—Mockler, either

Pattavina, Peterson, or Ungles, and Kelley.
This is the first official team Nebraska has had for many years. Last year, a team made up of Nebraska men representing the Y. M. C. A. played Ames at Ames and beat them. Iowa State was one of the strongest contenders in last year's valley championship and is considered to be one of the best teams in the Big Six.
