

HOKUF ELECTED NEW CLUB PRESIDENT

Crete Athlete Chosen at Banquet in Honor of Frank Crawford.

Steve Hokuf, all around athlete was named president of the N club at a banquet in the coliseum Tuesday evening, honoring Frank Crawford, Nebraska football coach of 1893 and '94. Coburn Tomson, Lincoln is the retiring president.

About eighty lettermen attended the dinner, at which Dean T. J. Thompson, Col. W. H. Oury and Dr. R. G. Clapp were guests. As vice president, the lettermen elected George Smutny, Seward, a trackman, Melvin Swanson, Kimball, who lettered in football last season is the new sergeant-at-arms and Jerry Lee, Bassett, a sprinter, is secretary treasurer.

Crawford, in his talk to the group told of his experiences while coach of the Husker grid teams. He produced the first Cornhusker championship team in 1894, an eleven that included Col. Oury at one tackle, Flippin, great negro star in the backfield and A. J. Weaver as business manager.

The N club announces that it will make an appreciable contribution to the American Olympic fund. Plans for the state high school track meet here in May were also discussed.

Frosh Star Quits

David Froelich, friend, one of Coach Henry Schulte's freshman sprint aces has left school to attend the Chicago Art Institute, where he will pursue his art studies. Froelich won the 100 yard dash crown in the state high school meet last spring, clocking a mark of ten seconds flat against the wind.

Diamond Managers to Meet at 5 Wednesday

College baseball managers will meet today at 5 o'clock in the Coliseum N club room.

NEBRASKA loses a promising track man who had a brilliant future with the announcement that Dave Froelich, freshman sprinter from Friend has decided to forsake Nebraska for the Chicago Art Institute, where he will concentrate on illustrating and cartooning.

Froelich burned up high school tracks last year as a sprinter for Friend high, climaxing his season by winning the 100 yard dash in the state meet with a mark of ten seconds flat against the wind. He was just beginning to hit his stride as a member of Coach Henry Schulte's frosh cinder squad.

With the Kansas Relays but four days away, and four of his track aces at the moment scholastically ineligible, "Pa" Schulte still remains even tempered. The veteran Husker track coach admits that the situation worries him, but feels that his boys will clear the hurdle in time to compete at Lawrence. At least, that's what he hopes!

Jack Miller and Glen Justice have taken up track. Seeking to develop additional speed, the pair declare that they intend to stick it out until the end of the season. Justice, a brother of "Chick" Justice, varsity guard last season, showed up nicely at the same position during the spring workouts. He is fast and heavy, tipping the scales around 185 pounds. Miller confides that he wishes to remove some avoirdupois.

The work of Merl Peek, former Tecumseh high athlete is said to have impressed the Cornhusker football staff during the recent grid drills. Peek, an end on Coach Dean Higgin's team was shifted to guard this spring and did right well at his new post. Peek, a freshman has added weight and height since the fall season. He weighs around 185.

Norris Nesmith, lanky end from Wauneta will not be back next season, according to a report heard Tuesday. The red head has not been in school this semester, but was out a few times for spring football practice.

This item does not happen to concern Nebraska athletics, but when John Bentley, Journal sports editor devotes a large share of his column to Kosmet Klub as he did Tuesday, why not the Daily Nebraskan?

As Jimmy Douglass, director of Kosmet Klub's "Jingle Belles" orchestra, and Ted Masters, first trumpet, were entering the new auditorium of the state penitentiary Sunday afternoon for a presentation of the show to the inmates with a line of prisoners and stumped into the building half way to the front before discovering their mistake. It is said they had a hard time persuading the guards that they didn't belong there.

Coach of First Husker Championship Football Team Recalls Experiences Of Times When Sport Was in Infancy

By JOE MILLER.

Reminiscing about the days when he coached the Nebraska football team in 1893 and 1894, Frank Crawford, mentor of the first Cornhusker championship grid eleven Tuesday afternoon recalled some of his experiences as head of the pigskin sport when it was in its infancy not only at Nebraska but at other schools as well.

A lawyer now living in Nice, France, Mr. Crawford is back in the United States visiting relatives in Omaha, his former home. Tuesday noon he was a guest of the Nebraska coaching staff at a luncheon at the University club, where he renewed his friendship with Col. W. H. Oury, who played on his '93 and '94 teams, Arthur J. Weaver, business manager of his '94 outfit, and others. The N club honored him in the evening at a banquet in the coliseum.

Altho Crawford had received his A. B. at Yale and his law degree from Michigan, where he was a football star and captain of the baseball team, he registered as a student when he took up the coaching reins at Nebraska and alternated at half and quarter during the two years of his coaching tenure here.

Those were the days when eligibility rules were practically unknown, and so Crawford took his turn at carrying the ball for his own team. In fact, it was an accepted practice in the nineties for coaches to play against each other when their teams met. When asked how it was possible for coaches to play, Crawford smiled.

"Football was so rough then that frequently parents would not permit their sons to play, which made it hard to secure men to complete an eleven. So the coaches were forced to play now and then because of a shortage of material," he explained.

Hardage, New Sooner Coach, Plans Start Spring Work Soon Training Oklahomans in Dixie Grid Styles

Lewie Hardage, builder of the great Vanderbilt backfields the past ten years and now the new University of Oklahoma head football coach, believes that the fastest football in the nation is now played in the South and asserts that the system he will introduce at Soonerland will be a combination of the Wallace Wade and Vanderbilt offenses with a little Tennessee and Tulane stuff thrown in just to give the whole a good strong Dixie flavor.

"We'll use a modified punt formation until we get down close to the goal line, where we'll shift to a more compact formation," explains Hardage. "I like this formation because it permits a diversified attack to all points, prevents the enemy defense from overhauling, and keeps the opponents' threat of a quick kick or pass. Its success depends upon perfect timing of plays and skillful use of the guards."

Will Name Line Coach. Coach Hardage will be permitted to name his own assistant, who will act as line coach and will be thoroughly schooled and experienced in Hardage's system. In fact, the new Sooner coach already has such a man in mind and if the Oklahoma athletic council is able to land him within the next two or three days, the belated Sooner spring football practice will start Monday, after Coach Hardage has first had two or three days to explain his system to Lawrence "Jap" Haskell, freshmen coach, and Hugh McDermott, assistant coach and scout.

"Our spring practice will be chiefly devoted to blocking and tackling with a great deal of attention being paid toward teaching the forwards the rudiments of correct offensive line play," announced Hardage.

The Sooner spring practice will be the new coach's fourth this season. Wallace Wade, the Duke mentor and a warm friend of Hardage's asked Hardage to come to Duke this spring to coach the Duke backs and in addition Hardage conducted spring practice for Furman college of Greenville, S. C. and for Vanderbilt.

That students and alumni will always be welcome upon the practice field was emphasized by Coach Hardage.

"This team belongs to the students and alumni more than it does to me," he declared, "and any time they want to come out and watch the practice they are welcome. Any time an old player wants to drop in and watch us work, he is welcome. We won't have a great deal of secret practice. I aim to give Oklahoma a team that it can be proud of even in defeat."

The new coach is a native Alabamian and talks with a decided southern drawl. He loves sports of all sorts, especially hunting and fishing, and owns a sizable quail preserve in southern Alabama. He is 40 years old and unmarried.

Hardage is the seventh football coach ever to start work at the University of Oklahoma. John A. Hartz, a player from Southwestern college of Winfield, Kans., was the first, coaching here in 1895. He was followed by Prof. V. L. Partridge, head of the university's chair of English and modern languages, who coached from 1897 to 1901; Fred Roberts, a Washburn university player who coached in 1901; Mark McMahon, a young giant from Texas who coached at Oklahoma in 1902 and 1903 to earn expenses for a law course; Bennie Owen, young mentor of the famous Bethany college "Terrible Swedes" of Lindsay, Kans., and assistant coach to Yost at Michigan, who coached at Oklahoma 22 years from 1905 to 1927; and Adrian Lindsey, also a successful Bethany college coach, who came here in 1927 and coached five years.

ATHLETES PREPARING FOR KANSAS RELAYS

Olympic Possibilities to Compete in First Outdoor Meet.

LAWRENCE, Kas.—University and college athletes of some dozen states of the middle west and southwest are fast reaching form now for the first major outdoor competition in track and field events at the tenth annual Kansas relays held here April 23 when they will begin to earnest their big push for the eventual try at a place in the track sun as members of the United States Olympic team.

With the entry lists for the Kansas games growing daily names of outstanding athletes for relay teams and special events are fast accumulating and the performances of these men make it certain that with favorable weather conditions many new records are in prospect for the Kansas carnival to say nothing of a world record or two.

New Crop of Stars.

That new crop of individual event stars is due to take the limelight is revealed in the announcement that in only three of the nine special events of the Kansas relays program will the winners of last season be back to defend their championships.

These include Hugh Rhea of the University of Nebraska who took first in the shot put at the Kansas games last year with a shove of 49 feet 2 1/2 inches; Frank Purma of the University of Illinois who won the discus throw at 139 feet 7 3/4 inches; and Ernest Lennington of the University of Illinois and Clyde Coffman of the University of Kansas, who tied with two others for first in the pole vault at 13 feet 1-2 inch at the 1931 Kansas relays.

Rhea a Favorite.

Rhea will enter the meet this year again the favorite and should be able to break the meet record of 49 feet 10 1/8 inches set by Herb Schwarze of Wisconsin in 1925, as the big Nebraskan has bettered fifty feet in several meets since his appearance here last year. Munn of Minnesota, Big Ten champion, should be a leading contender for the shot put honors here also. In the pole vault Bryce Boscher of the University of Indiana will be the favorite in the pole vault at the Kansas games despite the presence of Lennington and Coffman, as the Indiana entry won indoors this spring at 13 feet 3 inches.

Purma also will have stiff competition in the discus this season as Melvin Thornhill of the University of Kansas, holder of the Kansas relays record at 153 feet 7 1/4 inches, will be on hand April 23. Thornhill was not in school last year. These two favorites also will have plenty of stiff competition from numerous other discus tossers who will be striving to prove their right to be considered an Olympic team possibility.

Maladjustment leading to complete failure in life may result from the fantasies which parents tell their children in explaining the facts of sex, according to Gordon L. Barclay, instructor in psychology at Syracuse. He cited the "stork myth" as a dangerous underminer of understanding between parent and child.

TWENTY-SEVEN JOIN GIRLS' TENNIS CLUB

Members Qualify After Tryouts; Tournament Is Planned.

Twenty-seven girls were taken into the tennis club as a result of the tryouts held the week before vacation. Helen Eby was in charge.

The members are: Donna Davis, Alice Geddes, Ellen Moses, Mary Ball, Hallene Hax, Rachel Branson, Gladys Williams, Louise Perry, Leone Davey, Christobel Weaver, Margaret Pasch, Maxine Sleeper, Helen Eby, Winifred Shaleros, Ruth Mitchell, Agnes Grever, Gretchen Roberts, Carol Raye Robinson, Jean Levy, Margaret Walker, Mary Lou Lapp, Dorothy Thaler, Dorothy Charlson, Louise Harris, Alice Zimmer, Marian McLaren, Virginia Woolfolk.

A ladder tournament is being planned in which the girls are ranked according to their ability and then each may challenge any girl within five places above her own ranking. One tennis court will be in reserve for members of the club and any girls who wish to try out should see Helen Eby in order to secure an appointment.

A letter from the chess team of the University of Cincinnati caused a bit of excitement to University of Kentucky officials recently. The Cincinnati chess players challenged any group of picked chess experts from Kentucky, and the games will be played at either school.

Freshman girls at Wellesley have gained the privilege, denied to upperclass women, of smoking in their dormitories. The student council is investigating possibilities for the older girls.
