L'ALLIANCE FRANCAISE HAS LUNCHEON MEET

Recently Organized Club Planning Affair for Friday Noon.

L'Alliance Francaise which recently established a local chapter at Lincoln by those interested in modern French literature and culture, will hold a luncheon meeting at the Cornhusker hotel Friday at 12:15. The price will be fifty-five cents.

Conversational French will be emphasized at the semi-monthly meetings of the society, one meeting being a "round-table" dinner devoted to a general discussion and the other being a lecture by a prominent French lecturer.

"Anyone is eligible to join L'Alliance Francaise," said Prof. Ginsburg, president of the society, "and I especially urge university students to join as the program will round out the ideas gained by then in class and give them an opportunity to exercise their French."

Anyone desiring further information concerning the society is requested to see Prof. Ginsburg.

Egg Dealers Will Enjoy 'Big' Day Saturday in Sig Alph-Phi Gam Fray

To egg-marketers, poultry fanciers, and chemists, the atmosphere surrounding the football stadium will be laden with a familiar, nauseating odor Saturday afternoon when the two freshmen "teams" of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Gamma Delta meet in their annual egg classic.

The contest, a feature of the annual field day between the two fraternities, promises to be a hard fought, evenly-matched struggle. Each side claims several first-rate hurlers with speed-ball curves and wicked aims, as well as crates upon ancient and long since forgotten henfruit.

Visitors are expected for the contest from all over the country, and several big league baseball teams are reported as sending scouts here to cover the contest for likely-looking material, which will undoubtedly be very much in evidence.

Anticipation of a crowd larger than that which was present for the last Notre Dame-Nebraska game has caused predictions to be made that the stadium will be filled to overflowing with lovers of the sport. It has been announced that, if necessary, two immense stands, one at each end of the football field, will be constructed to take care of the multitude. Altho both egg-hurling teams maintain a veil of secrecy concerning their movements, it is expected that full information concerning the prospects of the outcome will be available for this publication Friday.

New Dramatic Organization Gives Costume Party Wednesday Night.

"Freshman Players," a new organization composed of freshmen members of the university dramatics department held its first meeting Wednesday night at the Temple in the form of a costume character party. All members came dressed to represent individual interpretations of outstanding personalities in the theatrical and everyday world.

Pauline Gellatly, assistant dramatics director in the department and Dorothy Zimmer, dramatics instructor, acted as mistresses of ceremonies in the roles of Harpo and Groucho Marx. Prizes for the best characterizations were awarded Ereslia Baiton, as an Italian peasant for wearing the prettiest costume; Virginia Howell, as Charlie Chaplin, the funniest; and Ruth Charlton, as Edna Mae Oliver, the cleverest.

At the close of the evening, pictures were taken of the cleverest characters. Two plays will be presented by the members at the next meeting to be held Wednesday, Dec. 14.
