PRICE 5 CENTS.

CHANGE DATE OF DEBATE ON LONG TROPHY CONTEST

Extend Time to Enable the Contestants to Complete Cases After Vacation.

FILE NAMES WITH WHITE

Argue Subject of Fixing Price; Cup Offered for Five Years.

Postponement of the date for the Long Trophy contest open to freshman debaters from Dec. 7 to Dec. 14 was announced yesterday by Prof. H. A. White, debate coach in charge of the contest. The reasons for setting the competition at a later date is to give the contestants time to complete their cases after Thanksgiving vacation.

FILE NAMES.

Debaters may enter in the contests until 12 o'clock noon on Monday, Dec. 2, under the new schedule. The names should be filed with Professor White. The drawings for sides in the discussion will be made on the afternoon of Dec. 2 and will be announced on the following day.

The question which will be argued is the general topic of price fixing and the exact statement of the question will be made at a later date. Freshmen may secure bibliographies of the proposition from Professor White and references are on reserve in the main library.

List Entrants.

The names of the freshmen who are already entered in the competition are Clayton Ankeny, Robert Funk, Bruce Heater, Herbert Kaplan, Arnold Levine, William Lawrence, Carl Matuschill, George Petzold, and Jack Roberts.

The trophy is donated by E. H. "Red" Long of the College Book Store who has offered the cup for competition for the last five years. The past winners are Lloyd Pospisil, Hugh Gray, Woodrow Magee, Beverly Finkle, and Irving Hill. The eligibility for the contest provides that any freshman interested in debating may enter his name.

SALE OF CORNHUSKER SHOWS INCREASE OF 200 OVER LAST YEAR

Annual May Still Be Secured At Office But Price Rises Dec. 15.

Sales of the Cornhusker year-book to date have exceeded those of the same period last year by two hundred copies, according to Bob Thiel, business manager of the publication. Seven hundred copies of the book had been sold by Thursday night.

Thiel attributed much of the success of the sales campaign to the Nebraska queen section, and the support that sororities have been giving it. Official announcement of the candidates for the queen section nominated by the sorority houses will be made sometime this week. Photographs of the entrants will be judged by some well known authority on feminine beauty.

Price Will Rise.

"We think that the sale of year-books will continue to be successful," Thiel stated. "The staff is pleased with the support and co-operation we have received thus far, and we feel sure that it will continue." The books are still on sale at the Cornhusker offices in University hall for the original price. A twenty-five cent increase in price is scheduled for Dec. 15.

Students Face Problem of How to Pass Exams; Suggestions Offered

Because this is exam week and many students are wondering just what the next step is, the Daily Nebraskan thought the following article taken from the Daily Cardinal might give some valuable pointers on the question which is so current.

With the mid-semester examinations not far off, students are again faced with that old and slightly familiar problem: how to make what is known as passing grades.

Some students solve the problem by not taking the exams. Other students get sick. Still others go off on "benders." A few students study. One way of passing exams, it has been noted, is to study for them. Another, and seemingly a more important method, is to appeal to the gods of luck. A favorite god is Dionysius and carouses are held in his honor. To propitiate him and to curry his favor many beers are needed. Though wine is the favorite drink of Dionysius, it is believed that toasting this god in the concoction known as 3.2 wine would arouse his anger; beer—more or less 3.2 is substituted.

Football Fans to Have Fair Weather For Football Tilt

Students who dislike sitting through two halves of a football game during stormy weather will be greeted with fair weather tomorrow, according to the predictions of T. A. Blair, university meteorologist.

Although the first snowfall of the season occurred yesterday afternoon and temperatures were hovering around thirty degrees, Blair stated that the weather today would probably be fair with little change in temperature. Saturday's temperature will be moderate, which is good news for those who do not like to freeze for two or three hours in the stadium.

HUSKERS STAGE RALLY TONIGHT FOR IOWA GAME

Secure Curtiss as Speaker; Will Introduce Penney and Coach Bible.

URGE STUDENT SUPPORT

Make Arrangements to Hold Pep Demonstration in Coliseum.

With "Pluck the Hawkeyes" as their slogan, Tassels, Corn Cobs, the R. O. T. C. band and students will stage a rally for the Iowa game tonight in the coliseum, following a procession down fraternity row. Arrangements were made to hold the pep demonstration in the coliseum in anticipation of bad weather, according to Lloyd Loomis, innocent in charge of rallies.

The rally will start at the Temple at 7 o'clock and proceed over the regular route to 16th and V.R. north to Vase and then west to the field house.

John Curtiss, a former University of Nebraska student who is now connected with the Nebraska Iowa Light and Power company, is to be the principal speaker and Lee Penney, game captain, will be introduced by Coach D. X. Bible. Penney will probably have a few words to say about the game with the Big Ten "surprise team."

Bleachers Set Up To Hold Overflow Throng This Week

Installation of extra bleacher seats at the end of the field has been ordered by John K. Selleck, business manager of athletics, in order to accommodate an expected record attendance of 34,000 persons at the Iowa game this Saturday. The order followed an unexpected boom in ticket sales, according to Selleck.

The weather will clear up and be fair on the day of the game according to Thomas Blair, meteorologist. Many reserved tickets have already been sold, according to Selleck.

The estimation of the attendance is based, he stated, upon the sale of general admission tickets, and unless the weather is bad, the attendance record for this year probably will be broken Saturday.

Wears Same Clothes.

Another method of passing exams without having to descend to studying, is to place one's life in the hands of superstition. One student took an examination in history about eight years ago. Walking to the exam room he used the left sides of the streets. The resultant grade was an A in the exam. Since then, the student has gone to every exam room walking on the left side of the streets. The results have been a few A's, though not many.

Another student insists upon wearing the same clothes to every examination, year in and year out. Clothes make the exam, he believes.

Then There's Cribbing. The wearing of good luck charms is the most common of superstitions. In fact, students spend more time in the examination room fingering their charms than writing their papers. One student uses a small cotton monkey as a watch charm; another uses the wish bone of a chicken while rabbits paws are still the most popular. A widely adopted method used (Continued on Page 4.)

BANDS OBSERVE NEBRASKA DAY; FEATURE GAME

Cornhusking Champions Will Be Introduced by Governor Bryan.

MAYORS ATTEND EVENT

Visitors to Be Entertained At Luncheon; Will Witness Parade.

Thirty bands from all parts of Nebraska, including the university R. O. T. C. band will participate in the observance of Nebraska day in Lincoln Saturday. As the main event of the annual celebration, the Huskers will play Iowa at the Memorial stadium in the afternoon.

Sherman Henriksen and Harry Brown, national cornhusking champions, will be introduced at the stadium before the game as a special attraction.

Plan Reception. The day's program will start with a reception of the mayors and their wives of 250 Nebraska cities in the Lincoln trade territory which have been invited by Mayor Fenton B. Fleming to attend the game. The reception will be held in the mayor's office at 9 o'clock with Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Bailey, Mayor and Mrs. Fenton B. Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Maly, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd (Continued on Page 4.)

QUESTIONNAIRES SENT TO FRATERNITIES ARE RETURNED TO DEAN

Report Concerns Financial Status of Greek Letter Organizations.

Twenty-one questionnaires, which were recently submitted to alumni council representatives of the fraternities concerning the financial status of Greek letter organizations have been turned into Dean Thompson's office, according to Claude Thompson, president of the alumni council. He stated that the remainder of the questionnaires would probably be turned in, in the near future.

When all of the questionnaires are turned in the executive committee will make preliminary plans for the general fraternity betterment after studying the answers in the reports. The executive council plans to make a definite report on the situation in about two weeks.

Plan to Reorganize. Agitation was started last year concerning a change in organization of the Interfraternity council. This year, definite steps were taken for re-organization. One of the main innovations was the founding of the alumni council of which Claude Wilson, Alpha Tau Omega, was elected president and B. I. Noble, Alpha Sigma Phi, secretary.

The Alumni council and the interfraternity council are planning consideration of suggestions made by Professor Schramm after returning from an interfraternity meeting held in Chicago.

AITKEN WILL ADDRESS INSTITUTE SATURDAY

Interprofessional Group Has Special Meeting to Honor Guests.

At a meeting of the Lincoln Interprofessional Institute Saturday evening Dr. Walter Aitken of St. Paul church will speak on Scotch life and letters. Several members of the university faculty are enrolled in the group which is made up of local professional men in all fields.

The meeting Saturday is a special gathering honoring professional men from neighboring affiliated groups of the same kind who have been invited to attend. Representatives are expected from the clubs in Omaha, Sioux City, Council Bluffs, and Des Moines. Invitations were extended to the groups in Kansas City and Topeka but no answer has been received.

BURR ADDRESSES FRESHMEN

Y Group Hears Discussion of Future Agricultural Education.

Dean W. W. Burr of the College of Agriculture addressed the Ag Y Freshman council last night on "The Future of Agricultural Education." The address was delivered in Room 305 of Ag hall.

Dean Burr pointed out developments which have occurred during the depression that made it necessary to view the agricultural situation from a new and different viewpoint.

DR. LOVELAND SPEAKS HERE

Speaker at Geography Lunch Once Directed Campus Weather Bureau.

Dr. G. A. Loveland of Boston, former director of the university weather bureau, was the main speaker at the weekly luncheon of the geography seminar, held at the Lindell hotel last Friday.

OVER 175 ATTEND BIG SISTER BOARD DINNER THURSDAY

Brief Program and Dancing Constitute Evening's Entertainment.

Over 275 attended the annual banquet sponsored by the Big Sister advisory board Thursday night at Grant Memorial hall. Lucille Reilly, president of the board, presided at the banquet which Big Sisters, Little Sisters, sorority mothers, their daughters, and other girls interested attended.

A one act play entitled "Hearts" was presented by Mary Yoder, Margaret Phillip, Jean Walt, and Marjorie Calder under the direction of Adela Tombrink. Maxine Herries presented a tap dance. The program was planned by the various hobby groups sponsored by the Big Sister board. Following the banquet the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing for which Inez Dobel played.

Miss Amanda Heppner, dean of women, Miss Elsie Ford Piper, assistant dean of women, Miss Letta Clark, advisor to the Big Sister board, and Miss Alice Geddes attended the banquet as guests of the board.

The committees in charge of the event were: Anne Pickett, tickets; Lorraine Brake, menu; Marjorie Filley, program; Berta Peterson, publicity; and Alice Geddes, general arrangements.

First Meeting of Year Will Be Held in Temple Tonight.

The first meeting of the Classical club will be held Friday, Nov. 24, from 8 to 9 p. m. in room 203, Temple building. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

The club for students of Latin and Greek at the university, was founded early in 1931 through the initiative of Miss Margaret Deming, '33, daughter of Professor H. G. Deming. A predecessor of this club existed many years ago in the Latin club sponsored by the late Prof. Grove E. Barber. The present organization aims to bring together all students who are interested in the ancient languages and civilization. Social and cultural objectives are combined by the club, picnics are held in the fall and spring.

KLUB PRESENTS ANNUAL KOSMET REVUE SATURDAY

Reveal Identity of Nebraska Sweetheart as Feature Of Morning Show.

AFFAIR BEGINS AT 8:45

Winner Among Nine Skits on Program Will Receive Magee Trophy.

Climaxing the show with the presentation of Nebraska's Sweetheart for the coming year, Kosmet Klub will present its annual morning revue at the Stuart theater Saturday morning starting at 8:45.

A capacity crowd of Nebraska students in addition to Lincoln residents and Iowa students coming to Lincoln for the game that afternoon is expected to fill the theater for the show, which will present nine acts of all student talent staged by various campus organizations. Ticket sales have picked up during the last two days, and a large sale is expected at the door, according to business manager John Gepson.

Present Sweetheart. The feature of the show will be the presentation of the Nebraska Sweetheart, who was chosen at an all male election some time ago. The seven candidates for the honor are: Helen Sheldy, Delta Delta Delta; Frances Jane McEvoy, Alpha Phi; Roma de Brown, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Bash Perkins, Al-

NEBRASKAN PRIZE WINNERS NAMED THURSDAY NIGHT

Prof. Walker Announces News and Feature Story Awards at Dinner.

Awards for the best news and feature stories appearing in the Daily Nebraskan during the second semester last year were announced by Prof. Gayle Walker at the journalism banquet Thursday evening. The annual affair, which is sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, women's honorary journalistic sorority, was held at the University club.

Howard Alloway, who is now editor of the Wynot Tribune, at Wynot, Neb., was announced as the first prize winner in the feature story division. His prize winning feature was headed "Former Husker Football Captain Is Named to Post In Roosevelt Cabinet," and was published in the Daily Nebraskan for Feb. 24, 1933. Bruce Nicoll was named as winner of the second award for his story headed "Theodore Diers, Now Radio Director, Has Had Wide Experience on Stage," and it appeared four days after Alloway's.

Lynn Leonard received third prize for his feature "Orfield Would Simplify Code On Procedure." Honorable mention went to Edgar Apking and Bruce Nicoll.

Alloway Former Editor. Alloway was editor of the Daily Nebraskan during the first semester last year. Nicoll is now a managing editor of the paper, and Leonard was a managing editor during the last semester of last year.

Bruce Nicoll and Dick Moran were announced by Professor Walker as joint first prize winners in the news story class. They collaborated on the story "Committees Wants Bigger Cut Made," the article appearing in the paper for March 19. Second prize went to Jack Erickson for his story "Student Body Roused To Action As Solons Start Slashing Appropriation," which was published in the March 23 edition of the Nebraskan. Bruce Nicoll was named as the winner of third prize for his article headed "Senate Boosts University Budget." Honorable mention went to Nicoll, Alloway, Moran, and Jack Fischer for various stories published during the semester.

Former Staff Members. Dick Moran was managing editor of the Nebraskan during the second semester last year, and Jack Erickson is a former managing editor and news editor on the publication.

Carolyne Van Anda, toastmistress and president of Theta Sigma Phi, introduced the speakers at the dinner. The central theme for the evening's toasts was NRA. Violet Cross spoke on the subject "Nebraska Rag A'Wul." Burton Marvin had the subject "Nebraska Runs Amuck," and Sarah Louise Meyer spoke on the subject "Nature's Robust Animals."

Granite Columns Now Lying Idle May Be Used to Beautify Campus If Council's Plans Are Realized

By FRED NICKLAS.

The possibility of placing a number of stone pillars in stately columns either at the ends of the stadium or at the ends of the mall has become an active issue since the interfraternity council voted to create a committee to confer with the Board of Regents in an effort to secure approval of the project.

The pillars, fifty-two of them, now lie idle, obscured in a seldom visited corner of the campus where their beauty goes unobserved.

Were Gift to University. Thirty-two of them are of beautiful red granite, two feet in diameter and thirty feet high. Before they become the property of the university they graced the entrance and one side of the old Burlington station in Omaha which was dismantled when the new Union station was built five years ago. They were given to the university by C. J. Ernst, now deceased, who was then treasurer of the Burlington Railroad company, and one time member of the Board of Regents.

Twenty of them once ornamented the dome of the former Nebraska state capitol building. Made from fine Scotch granite they are the same length as the others but are a little more slender.

There have been many proposals to use the columns for an open air theater or some such ornamental structure but the cost of such a project has prohibited their use.

Would Erect Pillars on Mall. Present plans would have them placed at the ends of the two malls or at the ends of the stadium, behind the goal posts. "Here we have one bunch of fine granite pillars that have been stored away for fourteen years and another for five years," Prof. Schramm pointed out, "let's do something with them."

Prof. E. H. Barbour, who was instrumental in obtaining both groups of pillars for the University, would like to see them placed in some prominent place. "I would like very much to see something done with them to beautify our campus. It would be fine to use them in some decorative manner," he said.

Students who traveled to Columbia, Mo., for the football game recently have seen the columns on that campus. There are many universities whose camps are outstanding because of similar ornamentation. Nebraska has the pillars, and with the co-operation of many student organizations they could be erected with very little expense.

HONOR STUDENTS SELECTED AT AG COLLEGE MEETING

Three Honorary Clubs Name New Members Thursday Morning.

FRESHMEN ARE HONORED

Marion Jackson and Viola Mead Honored for High Grades Last Year.

Names of students standing high scholastically, and elections to Omicron Nu, Phi Upsilon Omicron and Alpha Zeta were announced yesterday at the annual honors convocation held on the agricultural campus. High freshmen students were also honored.

Dean W. W. Burr presided during the convocation. Dr. H. E. Bradford of the vocational agriculture department gave an address interpreting the meaning of excellence to the students. Several hundred attended.

Two Students Honored. Marion Jack of York was honored as the high freshman man student in the college of agriculture for the past school year. The Alpha Zeta medal was presented to him by Arthur Peterson. This medal is awarded each year to the freshman standing the highest scholastically. Viola Johnson Mead was winner of the Omicron Nu cup for the freshman girl having the best average. Miss Peters presented this trophy as Miss Fedde, chairman of the home economics department, was unable to be present.

In addition to Jackson the other high standing freshmen presented to the Ag students by Prof. H. C. Filley are: Lawrence Leibers, Lincoln; Clifford Domingo, Weeping Water; John Davis, Syracuse; Robert Cushing, Ord; John Clymer, Greenwood; Albert Pearl, Reynolds; Edward Pavelka, Bladen; Burr C. Ross, Rosalie; Stanley Whitson, Lincoln; Ten High Women Named. The ten high freshmen women presented by Miss Peters, include: Barbara Barber, Lincoln; Valda Davis, Lincoln; Mary Debrill, Lincoln; Inez Fenstermacher Sargent; Miriam Fraser, Syracuse. ## ENGINEERS CELEBRATE WITH ANNUAL 'BUST'

Herb Yenne Heads Program; President of Executive Board Presides.

Over 125 engineers of the University attended the annual Engineers Bust, held Wednesday night at the Hi-Y building, according to Dick Bulger, in charge of the event.

Herb Yenne, member of the dramatics department, headed the program with a talk on "Modern Poetry." Others included on the program were Lulu Jo Hyland who sang several songs, and Bill Johnson, president of the Engineers executive board which sponsored the bust, who presided.

The dinner was served cafeteria style. The occasion was inaugurated by the blowing of the engineering college whistle Wednesday afternoon at the M. E. building. Dick Bulger was in charge of arrangements for the event.
