

PRESENT PLAY BY IBSEN IN OMAHA

Community Playhouse Will Stage "A Doll's House" Saturday, Dec. 9.

For the first time since Nazimova played the role of Nora Helmer in moving pictures, a modern interpretation of Henrik Ibsen's famous drama, "A Doll's House," will be presented to the public.

An Omaha cast, under the direction of Bernard Szold of the Omaha Community Playhouse, is staging the play, which is scheduled to open at a special performance Saturday afternoon, Dec. 9, at 2:30. Performances will also be given every evening during the following week.

Tibbett Appears. Although open to the general public, the matinee has been scheduled especially to meet the requests of students of the drama, and inasmuch as Lawrence Tibbett, internationally known baritone, appears at the city auditorium that evening, Playhouse executives are expecting a large group of out-of-town students to attend the Ibsen performance.

Name Leading Roles. The two leading parts of "A Doll's House," those of Nora and Torvald Helmer, will be played respectively by Peggy Dooly, reigning queen of Ak-Sar-Ben, and Ben Stiphan, formerly of the Fox Studios in Hollywood.

Others included in the cast are Dorothy Ware as Mrs. Linden, Mrs. George McIntyre as the governess, William Jones as Dr. Rank and Director Szold as Nils Krogstad. All are longtime favorites in Community Playhouse productions.

Because all seats will be reserved for the matinee, mail order or long distance telephone requests should be directed to the Playhouse box office, 4004 Davenport st., Omaha. Telephone number is Glendale 0800.

Apparel All of Black and White Correct for Men's Formal Attire

Picture by Reinhardt-Marsden, official Cornhusker photographer. Dean Webster.

The newest in Magee's tuxedos, which Dean Webster, Delta Upsilon, models in such a Prince of Walesian manner. Go double-breasted this year. It's priced at $32.50. And the shirt is by Arrow, the choice of discriminating men.

SCARFS FOR MEN ARE IN USUAL BLACK AND WHITE

The conventional black and white in scarfs is again the style for formal neckwear on the University of Nebraska campus. Although eastern college circles have gone yellow in neckwear, very few of yellow are being shown by Lincoln undergrads.

So, if you would be in style and ahead of time, shop till you've found a yellow to your liking, for discriminating men whom fashion follows have been wearing mufflers in the ascot manner either of yellow silk or knitted material.

Creme, foulard, and knitted silk are the materials that will be seen this season with formal attire. Swanky mufflers measure nineteen inches by fifty-six. All of them are fringed, with fringe of the same color as the scarf.

And for handkerchiefs, white linen is the only acceptable kind for the finishing touch to formal wear. They are favored with self borders or cords and may be either hemmed or with rolled edges. A monogram in white is the only decoration permissible.

REPORTS ENROLLMENT OF BARB BASKETBALL

Petz Urges More Members To Join League; Must Signify Team.

Harold Petz reports an enthusiastic turnout in response to the Barb Basketball league, and urges all men who are interested to sign up at the intramural office at once. While the number of men reporting has been large, there is room for many more. "The more teams entered, the better the tournament," were the words of Mr. Petz. Many of the teams now entered have not decided upon a definite name, and many players have not signified the team with which they will play, and they are urged to do so as soon as possible.

Uniformed officers lend glamour and color to the military ball, but it is the black and white of the men's tuxedos that forms the fitting background to the multi-colored gowns of women.

Evening clothes for men seem very much set in general appearance. Even the recently popular mess jacket retains the color scheme that has been worn for the early part of the last century. The simplicity of black cloth and starched white linen forms the nucleus of most formal evening wear.

However the waistline of coats and jackets, the trousers, the shoes and even the buttons are subject to changes in style so that fashion does leave a stamp of time on men's evening clothes from time to time.

Fabrics vary greatly. A number of fancy weaves are used. Waistcoats have become a high style item. No more are they thick and ill fitting, but today there is a sleek arrangement without a back that has a strap and buck to draw it tightly—and it helps a lot to keep the shirt in place. Waistcoats will be single or double breasted of black silk or to match the coat—cummerbund for double breasted jacket.

Pleasant thoughts are the new collar that don't goad one to a frenzy and shirts you can put your studs in without wrecking a finger. Shirts will be stiff bosomed, white, of pique in simple design or plain linen with single cuffs. Poke, wing or fold collars will be worn with double breasted jackets.

Lapels in their design and facings may be shiny with satin or dull with ribbed silk. Coats will be single or double breasted of black or unfinished worsted with peaked or shawl collar of dull silk. Ties will be in plain black silk or to match lapels—long effect, pointed end, rounded end or semi-butterfly in black or white. Button placements follow the waistline.

The wearing of gloves indoors dropped out of fashion years ago, but white glove or white buckskin gloves, slip on or button through, are worn with evening overcoats.

In hose for evening wear there is but one color choice for ground tone, black. Silk or a very fine French hosiery are the most popular. The hose may be plain or may have a narrow clock of black or white.

The low laced shoes, light in weight and with the thinnest of soles, continues to be the most popular footwear for evening, although the patent pumps are becoming more popular.

The newest evening coats are cut shorter than usual, are fitted to the waist line, but are full through the skirt. Features are the low gorge and the slanting flap pockets.

Jewelry will consist of two or three studs of black enamel, plain gold, mother of pearl or semi-precious stones with links to match. Pocket watches will be in style for evening wear this season.

White or yellow silk ascoted scarfs and white linen pocket handkerchiefs will be correct. Topcoats will be black single breasted fly front with or without silkfaced lapels. Although hats will not be worn by most students, fashion calls for a high silk, high collared opera or a black Homburg hat.

list of games will be published. All freshmen interested in basketball are urged to report for practice any afternoon at the coliseum.

Students in Advance Courses Are to Wear Regulation Uniforms

Regulation uniforms, will be worn at the Military ball, Friday night by advance course students, according to an announcement issued by the Military Department.

Spurs, sabers, Lyka-Moka gloves, boots, regulation khaki coats and riding breeches and white shirts will compose the regalia of the officers. Spurs and sabers however, will be optional except during the grand march and the officers dance which follows the march.

White shirts instead of the regulation O. D. shirts, will be the only change in apparel for basic course students wearing their uniforms at the ball.

With ten university students in the cast, the Children's Theater, sponsored by the Junior League, presented "The Little Princess" to enthusiastic youthful audiences Saturday morning and afternoon.

Helen Elizabeth Lawrence, in the part of Sarah Crewe, charming favorite of her boarding school comrades, made her first appearance on the stage of the Children's Theater since she had the leading role in "Bird's Christmas Carol" three years ago. Another capable performance was made by Barbara Bates as Mrs. Minchin, stern proprietress of the school. Charles Alexander, in the role of Carrisford, friend of Sarah's father, and Maynard Miller, who played Donald, the wise-cracking son of Carrisford's lawyer, also deserve special praise for their work.

Other students having roles in the production which was coached by Pauline Gellatly, assistant instructor in dramatic art, are Portia Boynton, Genevieve Dalling, Eugene Pester, Michael Egan, Bill Ferguson and Delford Brummer.

VARSITY DEBATE SQUAD COMPETES WITH CREIGHTON

Journey to Omaha to Argue Question of Federal Radio Control.

Varsity debaters will meet a team from Creighton university Thursday afternoon in two debates in Omaha on the proposition, Resolved: that the United States should adopt the British plan of radio control and operation. The Nebraska team composed of A. Elmer Anderson and Walter Wick will defend the affirmative side of the question in both of the arguments.

The first discussion will be at Central High school at 3:30 in the afternoon, and the other will be broadcast over station KOLL at 5 o'clock.

These debates will complete the schedule for the first semester according to Prof. H. A. White, debate coach, and new teams will be chosen in a tryout for the work of the second semester.

The intercollegiate debate work for the first half of the year began with two debates with Kansas State college on Oct. 27, one before the debate section of the Nebraska State Teachers association, district 1, and the other broadcast over radio station KFAB.

The debaters again met Kansas State in a series of arguments on Nov. 9 and 10 in Kansas. The teams appeared before the Concordia high school on the 9th and before the Washington and Marysville high schools on the tenth. Also on the tenth a Nebraska team met a group from Kansas university in a radio discussion over station KFOR.

Varsity debate work will probably not be resumed until late in February according to Prof. White when the new teams for the second semester will begin their activities. All contests for the year will be no-decision following the custom that has been established for several years.
