

Corralled.

Will Raymond spent a portion of his vacation in Omaha.

Over a thousand people visited the University during the past week.

Two large boxes of books, which had been sent off to be bound, were received at the Library during vacation.

The State Historical Society will hold its meeting in the chapel, January 10th-11th. Many interesting papers will be read.

Henry Watterson, of "star-eyed goddess" fame, will lecture during the month under the auspices of the Palladian society.

The members of the Phi Delta Theta gave another of their enjoyable dances, Friday evening, December 16th, at their hall. About twenty couple attended.

The Chancellor was so crowded with work last week that he did not have time to write his column for this issue. Next month's column will, however, be doubly interesting.

Mr. Frederick Shepherd and Miss Harriet M. Curtis were married Tuesday evening, December 12th, at the home of the bride. Both of the young people are University alumni. We wish them a long and happy married life.

Hon. C. F. Scott of Kansas, delivered in the chapel on the 16th ult. the most interesting lecture given there this year. His subject was "The Last of the Confederates," a brief account of General Joe Shelby's Mexican expedition.

The Delta Gamma's gave a Pan Hellenic Friday evening, December 5th. It was a "cobweb party," and much fun was had in untangling the web, after which delicious refreshments were served. Dancing was then indulged in until a late hour.

Married, at the bride's home, Lincoln, Wednesday evening, December 21st, Mr. Amos E. Perrin and Miss Grace McAllister. At home, Roca, Neb., after February 1st.

Mr. Perrin is a former member of the class of '92, and we join his many friends in extending congratulations and best wishes.

Chas. D. Chandler, W. D. Brook and J. C. Porterfield, all of '92, have returned from the Black Hills, where they have been surveying for the past six months. They are all looking well. Porterfield returns soon, but the other two remain in Lincoln for awhile. Chandler, it is said, will sell pneumatic tires. Brook is employed as a draftsman in the B. & M. engineer's offices.

The State Teachers' Association met in the University halls last week. This is the third year they have met here. The chapel was thronged every session and late comers were turned away, showing the need of the proposed convention hall. Addresses were delivered at the Lansing by John M. Thurston, of Omaha, and James Hughes, of Toronto, Canada. Congressman Bryan gave an extemporaneous speech.

Other colleges in the state are moving forward in an energetic way. Frank Dean won first place in the Doane Oratorical contest. His subject was, "A Case in Equity," a plea for better justice in the courts for the Negro race. There will be nine contestants for the local at Wesleyan, on January 26th. At Cotner there are three would-be winners. Their contest is held January 20th. The Lincoln Normal and the Western Normal will apply for admission to the state association, at the annual meeting.

Friday evening, December 23, R. E. Johnson gave an elegant dinner to a few of his University friends. The boys sat down at 7:30 to a table, beautifully decorated with roses and smilax, and loaded with all sorts of good things. There was a tasty little boutonniere and a card bearing an appropriate quotation for each one. After these had been discussed, the boys attacked the main business of the evening. Ralph "set the pace" and for over an hour kept his father and mother busy, serving as dainty and sumptuous a menu as college boys ever enjoyed. After
