IMMEDIATE action should be taken in the matter of the inter-state meet at Kansas City. Neal S. Doran should be informed at once if we are to accept his offer, and if it is accepted every one should work hard and earnestly for the success of the twenty men we are to send there. Members of the committee having this matter in charge have not yet expressed themselves as to how they regard the chances of the fulfillment of the letter. Before going any further, it should be learned positively whether this guarantee will hold in case of bad weather, and if the inter-state meet is not a financial success to its projectors. Before sending our boys away we want to be sure that the money for their expenses will not have to be paid out of their own pockets.

THE OLD, old story among our university students is that they are over-burdened with work. With most of them it is useless to argue. "Why, I have only nineteen hours," they say, "I can get all my studying done so that I can go to bed every night at ten."

They have no time for anything besides their class work. They have no time to rest their brains by going to entertainments. They have no time for general reading.

It is this last, no time for general reading, that is most lamentable. No one can be truly educated who does not know something more about every subject than what he can learn from the text-books which he studies. He should have the broader and more general views of each subject and their relativeness to all others. This he cannot have if he applies himself merely to his class-work. It would be absurd to expect so much from a limited course. But the means are placed at his disposal. The library is full of papers, magazines, and there upon all subjects, each department has a library of special reference which is open to the use of the students.

Now, with all the means to larger study so convenient, and with the knowledge of its necessity, is it not foolish for a student not to take advantage of his opportunities?

And this is the same old warning again: "Do not take so much class work, but spend more time in outside culture."

The new suits and our base ball team will play a game of ball with a city amateur team tomorrow afternoon on the campus. The suits are expected to put up a pretty stiff game.

There was an inspection of the band Monday evening. The boys have prepared for inspection four times this semester, and as many times the authorities have failed to inspect. Now they are breathing large sighs of relief that the ordeal is over.

The Y. W. C. A. girls will give an entertainment in the chapel Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, consisting of music, statuary and tableaux. The "Dream of Fair Women," illustrated in appropriate costumes, will be read by Mrs. Manning. Miss Perkins will play. Vocal solos will be given by Misses Griggs and Pollard. Admission 15 cents.

WHEREAS, the class of ninety-five learns with sorrow of the sad bereavement which has come to one of its members, Joe P. Beardsley, in the death of his father, therefore be it

Resolved, that we as a class extend to him our deepest sympathy in this his hour of sorrow.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be presented to our classmate, Mr. Beardsley, and copy be furnished the Hesperian and NEBRASKAN for Publication.
