

LOCALS.

Frank Rain spent Sunday in Fairbury. . . .

New students continue to arrive daily. . . .

H. H. Everett has had his golden locks trimmed. . . .

Laycon Pool has returned to his home at Wabash. . . .

Ben McLucas is spending the week with his brother Vic. . . .

Mr. Ed Searson has returned to his home at Grand Island. . . .

Go over to the library and try those new rubbernecked chairs. . . .

McDowell and Bald were the fast riders at the races Monday. . . .

If you want to study Greek, go down to the Co-op any time of day. . . .

Homer Halfred, who was sick last week, is attending classes again. . . .

Otis Weeks, senior captain '04, is engineering in New Hampshire. . . .

The "new woman" is with us. We have several(?) in the University. . . .

Did you notice the new showcase at the Co-op? Go down and look at it. . . .

L. C. Smith has a smooth job setting the state blackboards in the new building. . . .

The elocution classes now hold their speaking exercises in the new law room. . . .

The students of the University have a common interest now—Sophomore English. . . .

Miss Carrie Sheldon was quite sick the first of the week, but is improving at present. . . .

Don't fail to reserve a quarter for the Literary Magazine. It is something to be proud of. . . .

The University orchestra is getting well under way and promises to be better than ever. . . .

A $5.00 fountain pen can be bought at Herpolsheimer & Co.'s book department for $1.98. . . .

Mr. Charley Barker was out of the University the first of the week on account of sickness. . . .

Sidney White returned to the University last week and will be in school the rest of the year. . . .

J. E. Warren is helping Mr. Bancroft in his work in the weather department this week. . . .

Chancellor and Mrs. McLean entertained a number of University people on Wednesday evening. . . .

Guy Howard has decided that the Union society is the place for him. He joins this Friday evening. . . .

Prof. Burnett—What is the singular of many? . . .

Young Dutchman—Few. . . .

Second Prep.—Who steals my Youth's Companion out of my box right along? . . .

Seniors, this is scandalous. . . .

Have you seen the new No. 2 Smith-Premier? If not, drop in at No. 135 So. 14th St. C. W. Eckerman, agent. . . .

Take a look at our new fall suits.

Two hats have been found and left at the executive office. If you have lost a hat call and see if it is there. . . .

Before buying Greek, Latin, German or French dictionaries look over Herpolsheimer's book department. . . .

The companies are now fallen in at the bugle call outside of the building and not at the call five minutes later, as heretofore. . . .

The class in Journalism is studying the development in printing from the beginning up to the middle of the present century. . . .

Friday evening there will be a reception to students at the First Baptist church. All university students especially invited. . . .

Our students who are teaching this year are meeting with marked success, which speaks well for the training they have received. . . .

The best furnishing goods stock in Lincoln is at the Ewing Clothing company. Everything that is new and up to date to show you. . . .

A vigilance committee should be appointed to catch the hat thief and then make things so warm that he will conclude to leave school. . . .

A course for those who wish to specialize in the study of chemistry is posted upon the bulletin board of the laboratory building. . . .

Those of the members of the advanced class in elocution will present a short one-act farce to the remainder of the class Thursday afternoon. . . .

A fellow who flunked in hygiene last year is anxious to get Dr. Clark in his squad. Vengeance is sweet. . . .

The rooms in the new Library building are nearly finished and are first class in every respect. No wonder all the professors want rooms over there. . . .

J. Amos Barrett has just returned from a trip through the southern states. He reports an enjoyable time visiting his cousins and other people's cousins. . . .

The Ewing Clothing company is showing the best made clothing at popular prices. The $8 and $10 suits are the best values ever shown in Lincoln. . . .

Mrs. Manning has started another class in elocution for the benefit of the law students. Mrs. Manning's elocution work is growing rapidly in popularity. . . .

We need a reformation. Some sticky-fingered fellow stole a Chemistry from the Co-op store Monday, when the vigilant Fuller turned to wait on a customer. . . .

Miss Rena Chappell has typhoid fever. Miss Chappell is one of our good energetic young ladies and we join her many friends in wishing her a speedy recovery. . . .

We wonder if the drill suits are responsible for this—a laundry bill of a well-known cadet was found. It read as follows: "To 1 shirt, 10c.; To 15 collars, 45c." . . .

One of the events of the year for the Union Society will come off Saturday evening at the home of Miss Anderson. It is a farewell party to Miss Maud Triplett. . . .

We hear that J. W. Searson has a debate on hand which involves the "new woman" question. It's dollars to doughnuts that Searson comes out ahead. . . .

The Chancellor is making every effort to increase the attendance at chapel exercises. No one now knows what sort of a treat he is going to miss by being absent. . . .

Miss Ferguson's dancing school is becoming quite popular. In fact, one of the faculty is taking lessons. Good! The students rise up as one man and offer their hand. . . .

A. A. Gilman and F. T. Riley were initiated into the Delta Tau Delta fraternity Saturday. Sigma Chi initiated James Fehet, B. G. Cosgrove and W. Burton the same date. . . .

Honesty is the best policy. One cadet was reported for misspelling the word "absence" had he used the proper word, "skipped," there would have been no such report. . . .

That young man had a good opinion of himself who told the professor in an English class that if the professor and he were to change seats they would not be out of their proper places. . . .

The Literary Magazine will contain articles from Prof. H. M. Belden of Missouri State University, Prof. H. B. Ward of our own University, Mrs. Burnett, Mr. J. A. Barrett and others. . . .

The awkward squads are doing wonders this year. The drilling is far ahead of any previous year at this time. Captain Guilfoyle puts his whole soul into the work and the effect can be easily seen. . . .

"I wish," said the young man taking conic sections under Prof. Davis. "What do you wish?" said his chum. "I wish I had studied my algebra when I was in the high school." The rest of the class say "ditto." . . .

Director Nicholson gave a short talk in the chapel Wednesday morning on the sugar beet industry in Nebraska. He compared the sugar beet raiser to a posting student, and showed that his business was a profitable one. . . .

It does not make any difference how many classes may be reciting on the second floor—just let that piano-banging go on in Pal hall. The comfort of others does not make any difference just so someone is amusing himself. . . .

The second number of the Nebraska Literary Magazine will appear about October 25. The English Club has given great attention to this number and it will excel, if possible, the first number, which appeared last May. . . .

Have you heard of it? Heard-what? Why, the Literary Magazine, of course! Leave your subscription for one with Prof. Bates, Miss Prey, Mr. Lien, Anna Broady, Amy Bruner, Ned Abbott or Hale Bradt before they are all gone. . . .

The glee club met Monday night. As the result of a misunderstanding no new men were present. The old boys lined up in good shape, with one first tenor, one second tenor, three baritones and four low bases. The management says the prospects are first class, although the first tenors are somewhat scarce. The trip this year will be during the holiday vacation. . . .

Students' note books, ruled and plain, extra size and quality, 10c each at Herpolsheimer & Co.'s book department. . . .
