Strategy.
"Aha," exclaimed the King of Dahomey, imperiously waving his hand, "you will observe that our Amazons never retreat any more."
The potentate touched his brow significantly.
"Oh, yes," he proceeded, "our head is something larger than a peanut. We knew what we were doing when we had our soldiers fitted with uniforms that wrinkle in the back. Yes."—Detroit Tribune.

Her Argument.
"I believe the world does turn round," declared a somewhat skeptical little schoolgirl.
"What has convinced you?"
"I can see it whirl when I twist up in my swing and then untwist."
"Isn't it you that whirrs instead of the world?"
"Yes, but it goes after I stop," was the conclusive reply.—Ex.

An Effectual Threat.
An Irish glazier was putting a pane of glass in a window, when a groom, who was standing by, began joking him, telling him to mind and put in plenty of putty. The Irishman bore the banter for some time, but at last silenced his tormentor by, "Arrah, now, be off wid ye, or else I'll put a pain in yer head widout any putty!"—Mercury.

A Mitigating Circumstance.
"Is it true that you used to be an inebriate and lie around drunk in the streets?" asked Mr. Dusenberry of a gentleman whose acquaintance he had recently made.
"Yes, but only in the most aristocratic portion of the city."

She Will Learn.
Girl Friend (at a Chicago wedding, kissing the bride ecstatically)—Oh, Fan, you did splendid at the altar, and this is only your second.
Bride (complacently)—Yes, I've really had very little practice.
