The Nebraskan will be sent to any address upon receipt of the subscription price, which is one dollar a year, or fifty cents a semester.

Contributions are solicited from all. News items such as local personals, reports of meetings, etc., are especially desired. The Nebraskan will be glad to print any contribution relative to a general university subject, but the name must accompany all such.

Address all communications to The Nebraskan, University of Nebraska.

Two years ago a handful of enthusiastic workers began the initial movement of the college settlement. Their only resource was an occasional contribution from the faculty and an earnest desire to do something for the uplifting of those who could apparently be reached by no other means. With but $75 financial resource, and all that contributed by the faculty they brought their year's work to a successful close. At the beginning of the next college year the control was taken from them and placed in the hands of a committee of students chosen by the entire student body and a committee from the faculty. Three changes of location have been made since the initial movement, necessitated by an increasing demand for more room. The present quarters are inadequate and more commodious ones should be found.

In this, as in most other enterprises, the great need is money. Last year the contributions from various sources amounted to $145, of which 60 per cent was furnished by the students. If the work is to be carried on this year with a hope of the same degree of improvement as in '96-'97, this sum must be considerably augmented. But if one cannot aid the enterprise financially he may extend a helping hand by donating books. Already quite a library has been accumulated in this way and it is hoped that the number of volumes may be doubled this season. It is operated on the circulating plan so it may do the greatest good to the greatest number. The large numbers of women and children who never were familiar with the libraries of the city, but who now patronize continually the college settlement library, is conclusive proof that people are being reached in this way who could be touched in no other. There is still another way in which one may aid the movement, that is by volunteering to aid in instruction. So far there has been no lack of material in this respect, but no one has yet heard of the committee being overstocked with instructors. The advance that has already been made indicates a decided step toward practical humanitarianism. Whether one be a Christian, an infidel or an agnostic, he cannot but commend the movement. Support this institution by assisting in one or all of the three ways mentioned by donating money, books or brains.

In the October issue of the Cosmopolitan will be found a statement from the editor concerning the Cosmopolitan University. Now that President Andrews, for the time being, has returned to Brown University, Mr. Walker of the Cosmopolitan must find another man as president of his "university for the masses. Of course the board of directors selected by President Andrews does not hold over. This leaves the "university" in a somewhat crippled condition, but with its more than 5,000 enrolled students, no doubt it will survive. An eastern paper under scores a point when it notes, that under the laws of the state of New York, such an organization as Mr. Walker has formed cannot be termed a "university."

Two Congregational colleges in Nebraska will probably be discontinued. Their work is academic, while their curricula is collegiate. This fact has been recognized by the Educational Society of that denomination, hence the probability of the step. "If the two," as the denominational paper says, "were combined to form one academy it would deserve support."

The usual education afforded by the small college will not do.

Probably no man in the Presbyterian denomination could be found better suited for the presidency of Lake Forest University than Rev. J. G. K. McClure. His long pastorate in Lake Forest and his intimate acquaintance with every detail of the university render him particularly fitted for the position. For nearly two years—since Dr. Coulter's resignation—the university has been without a presiding officer.

The right kind of college presidents are not extremely plentiful. For some time the trustees of Oberlin college have been awaiting the decisive word from President Slocum of Colorado college. Tuesday his letter declining was read before the board. Oberlin's trouble does not seem to be in a scarcity of candidates. A committee was appointed to "canvas the qualifications of candidates."

COLLEGE NOTES.

The corporation of Brown university have a photographer to supply views for their edification. They need none from their president.

The only man who did not lose his place in the raid by Kansas politicians upon the Kansas State Agricultural college visited at the "farm" this week.

Brook, last year's full back on Pennsylvania's eleven, will coach Stanford this year. He is already on the ground and has started the men to work.

McKendree university, which conferred the degree of LL. D. upon President McKinley, owes its corporate existence to Abraham Lincoln. The charter was written and introduced in the Illinois legislature by Mr. Lincoln in 1854, and when put upon its passage it went through by the casting vote of Mr. Lincoln.

Iowa's football schedule is: Beloit college, at Iowa City October 23; University of Kansas, at Lawrence, Kan., October 30; Iowa Agricultural college, at Iowa City November 6; University of Missouri, at Iowa City November 13; Grinnell college, at Iowa City November 20; University of Nebraska, at Council Bluffs or Omaha November 25. The following proposed games may be played between now and October 23: With Y. M. C. A. of Des Moines, Knox college, University of Illinois, St. Mary's school of Kansas, Decorah, and Upper Iowa university.

The joint committee of the athletic board of control of Northwestern last night approved the following men, who are candidates for positions on Northwestern's football eleven: McCluskey, Morse, Arthur, Dunn, Levings, Libberton, Perry, Thorn, Hunter, and Seiberts.

Northwestern's schedule is far from complete, and Manager Haller is looking around for two or three big games with other universities. October 9 Van Doozer's men will meet Beloit at Rockford, October 23 is the day of the Chicago game, and October 27 they play Armour institute at Evanston. October 30 they meet the College of Physicians and Surgeons, November 3, 6, and 13 are open dates, and Thanksgiving day the annual game with Wisconsin will occur.

FOOTBALL IN EAST AND MIDDLE WEST.

Sunday's Chicago Times-Herald contains a whirp of the football situation in the east and middle west.

The Princeton, Yale, Pennsylvania, and Cornell teams in the east, and Minnesota teams in the west, are already hard at work; as are also the candidates for places on such minor teams as Lafayette, Brown, Dartmouth, Williams, Northwestern and others.

The Princeton team will be strong, as all but four of its '96 men are still in college. They hold last year's championship, at least so far as the Big Four is concerned. For the vacancies such men as Holt, formerly of Andover, and others, are candidates.

Yale's team, on the other hand, will be handicapped from the start. But three of the men who played in last year's Princeton game are left, besides Captain Rogers, who is slowly recovering from typhoid fever. Their chances for a winning team, then, are small.

As to Harvard, several of their old men, besides a number of strong new ones, will compete for positions. They hope to defeat Yale.

Pennsylvania has lost three valuable men—Wharton, Woodruff, and Glibert. They can not be replaced. It is hardly to be hoped, therefore, that Pennsylvania can defeat Harvard this year. They have no game this year with Yale and Princeton, as these aristocrats do not like the "unnecessary rough" playing of a few seasons back.

Lovers of Lafayette claim that theirs was the strongest team on the grid-iron last year, and that they could defeat Princeton this season. But the charges of professionalism hanging over that institution will prevent a game with any of the Big Four.

The University of Chicago team will probably have last year's strength, that is, they may win two or three games, or even more if placed indoors where Herschberger can do fair goal-kicking.

Northwestern's eleven will be weakened. Van Doozer and Potter, last year's mainstays, are out this season.

Minnesota will probably have one of the best western elevens this year. Harrison is again captain. Harding and Fulton will be out, but there are others to replace them in the rush. The training will be principally in rushing tactics, as the men behind the line are only medium.

Wisconsin is out of luck. Seven of their strongest men are not to be in school. Those who are to replace them must nearly all be selected from the new Freshman class. So Wisconsin's outlook is gloomy.

Illinois has some strong new men, and will show greater strength than in '96.

Michigan's candidates are mostly new men, some of them, however, have won reputations on high school elevens. There is material which can be developed into a strong team for some future year, but the outlook for this season is only average.
