SENIOR CLASS MEETING.

The Senior Class meeting last Monday was productive of results in so much as the "Class Book" was reported "progressing" and the Senior Party a certainty. The meeting assembled in good order. Dean Kindler was present, also Mueller the Hunk, Riley and Porter absent. Will McKay reported that he had consulted with himself regarding the tablet proposed to commemorate the graduation of the class of ninety-eight, and found the plan entirely feasible as the tablet would only cost $2.49. This announcement was received with hearty applause. However when Mr. Pearson reported that every member would be expected to pay 25 cents toward the Class Party the smiles fell, and silence reigned. Soon Mr. Spencer arose, gently fractured the prevailing stillness, and said: "The invitations the committee have ordered, will not be cheap things; not like those of the Class of '97, but something nice, something we will be proud to send to our relatives and friends throughout this great commonwealth." He continued after taking a few whiffs of air: "We ordered the finest ones that Mr. Wright's nice man had in stock. In order to obtain the 9 cent rates two thousand were ordered, but we expect to sell many, many more. A systematic canvass of the class will soon be commenced so kindly be prepared to hand in your orders." Mr. Spencer added before taking his seat: "Notice my adv. in the Nebraskan." This report was duly accepted by the delighted Seniors and placed on file.

The Class Book was the subject of much discussion. The Seniors are making a profound secret of the exact nature of the book. Seniors ought to hand in sketches of their lives to members of the committee if they wish their reputations saved and a piece of flattery inserted. This does not mean a thousand word biography, but merely a sketch containing all the nice things the said individual ever did, and all he expects to do—whether engaged or not—or if he expects to be, kindly indicate by a star. The committee wishes each one to attend to this as soon as possible as innumerable complications will arise from an incomplete list.

KANSAS WANTS TO PLAY BALL.

The following is taken from the Kansas University Weekly of March 19:

Do you want to see a game with Nebraska? If so, put down your name and the number of tickets you will take at 25 cents each.

This is the straight forward business proposition that the baseball management put to the University public in a paper which is being circulated about the campus, and every loyal student will answer it in the affirmative, and take all the tickets he can use or dispose of to his friends.

Manager Snyder has been negotiating with the Nebraska team for some time relative to a game in Lawrence and has now settled with the team to play here on the 7th of May, provided the sum of $75 can be raised to pay for their railroad and hotel expenses. In order to fix the game positively, however, Mr. Snyder must give a guarantee to Nebraska during the coming week that these expenses will be met. The treasury being empty the manager has thought best to consult the students and the business men before closing the deal.

"Play Nebraska, yes, we will play Nebraska, and not only the University, but the whole town of Lawrence will turn out to see the best team the State University has had for years, give battle royal to the one rival we must vanquish before all others," said a prominent lawyer and base ball enthusiast yesterday who was up to Lincoln and saw the foot ball game there last fall.

"We will show them," said he, "that the etiquette of the Kansas University ball field is not the etiquette of the prize ring, and that in victory or defeat, a fair and chivalrous spirit prevades our school, and is in evidence with the athletic grounds as well as within the college walls."

PROMOTION FOR MISS ELLIOTT.

Miss Stella Elliott, who assisted in the girl's gymnasium work here last year, has recently been elected assistant physical director in the State University at Columbus, Ohio. The armory and gymnasium there are just being finished. They are very extensive and are being thoroughly fitted out. Miss Elliott will have sole charge of the girl's department. The Columbus Dispatch, in speaking of the director and Miss Elliott, says: "They both come highly recommended and the University is to be congratulated on securing the services of two such able directors for these new departments. They are now engaged in assisting the building committee in purchasing equipment apparatus." Those who know of Miss Elliott's faithful work in the State University of Nebraska will be well pleased to hear of her success.

The Universities of Kansas and Missouri will inaugurate a joint debate tonight at Lawrence, Kan. The income tax will be the subject for discussion.
