The joint program of the literary societies will be rendered in chapel on Saturday evening. Elaborate arrangements have been made to make this the crowning effort of the year's work.

Patronize Westerfield. He is up to date on hair cutting.

The Palladians engaged in a most delightful sail at the lake last evening. The weather was fine and the water like glass. It was a merry crowd and the happy voices made the welkin ring with laughter and song. Even the "buzz" of the Nebraska mosquito was lost midst the sounds of merriment.

Students needing photographs will do well to call at the Hayden photograph gallery, 1214 O street, and get special prices.

The students in attendance from Filmore county have recently formed an association for the two-fold purpose of pointing the home students to the higher opportunities that await them here, and of helping the new students who enter college from that locality. This association commends itself to everyone imbued with permanent, efficient university enthusiasm. C. E. Matson was chosen president, Mabel Dempster secretary.

Following the regular exercises and a very short social intermission Friday, May 22, Union society voted to lay all else aside and follow blindly the leading of their trusted president. To the surprise and delight of the ladies he led the way to Sutton & Hollowbush's ice cream parlor, where a dainty spread of cake, ice cream and strawberries was in readiness. After disposing of the "spread" the Unions listened dutifully to the following toasts: "Culture and Agriculture," C. M. Barr; "Our Alumni," D. N. Lehmer; "Suppression of the Press," J. P. Cameron; "U. B. D. C.," J. H. McGuffey; "Union Girls," J. W. Searson.

The first class in the University to publish a history is the "class of '91." Miss Anna Rogers, the historian, has compiled a very interesting volume which is attractively bound in the University colors, scarlet and cream.

"Two Ghosts in White" was very artistically rendered before an appreciative audience in Delian hall, on Tuesday afternoon. The class in advanced elocution appeared at their best in the following characters:

Mrs. Gushover	Miss Harwood
Miss Praxis	Miss Whiting
Annie	Miss Stewart
Nettie	Miss Wilkinson
Julia	Miss Sundean
Belle	Miss Bertie Spurr
Miss Sour-top	Miss Matthews
Bridget	Miss Anderson

The excellent impersonations of Miss Harwood and Miss Anderson are worthy of special mention. The whole rendition showed the proficiency Mrs. Manning has inspired in the work.
