

Palladian Day.

The Palladian celebration will open Thursday night Oct. 15th, with the anniversary address delivered by Ex-Chancellor, Fairfield. Tickets will be issued and the society hopes to accomodate all University people and others who may desire to attend. This will be something no one can afford to miss.

The faculty has granted the petition of the Palladians to the effect that Friday, October 16th, shall be a holiday, there being no classes after chapel.

Friday afternoon Palladian hall will be the center of attraction. The Palladian alumni and present members, will be at home to all university people and all friends of the society. Friday night the society members and invited guests will enjoy a short Old Timer's program in Palladian hall. J. S. Dales, the first chairman of the society will preside. Judge Field will speak, and question of admitting the ladies to the society will be fought over by T. F. A. Williams and C. M. Skiles, the David and Jonathan of later times. Tickets for this will be scarce.

At the close of the program the society will repair to the Lindell hotel where a banquet will be served and toasts given and responded to. Palladian day will thus be well filled out.

All students are cordially invited to join with the Palladians in celebrating their birthday and in doing honor to one of the founders of the university. Announcement in regard to tickets will be made Monday.

English Club.

The English club held its first regular meeting this year at the home of Miss Wert, 1327 E. street. In a short address the new president, Miss Bruner regretted the absence of Mr. N. C. Abbott, who was last spring chosen to preside at these meetings. Other absences are few, the club being particularly fortunate in the return of most of its graduate members.

The program was informal, each member reading a sketch or poem. Some reminiscences of Mr. Shreve's boyhood were highly amusing, and a bit of verse by Mr. Sargent recalled the work of Mr. Bates.

After refreshments, served in Miss Wert's delightful fashion, a business session was called and various plans discussed for the work of the coming year. Some suggestions by Mr. Alexander were adopted as a specially helpful to more effective criticism. The following names were added to the list of membership: Miss Annette Abbot, Geo. Shedd, Fritz Korsmeyer, and Ralph Mueller.

Conservatory Notes.

The first pupils' recital of the school of music will be given next Wednesday evening. As usual, students are cordially invited to these recitals, and they will doubtless find them interesting.

The school of music opens auspiciously this year, and in spite of the closeness of the times has enrolled at least fifty new pupils.

Miss Harriet E. Reynolds is a new instructor of piano and comes to us thoroughly prepared for her work after five years study in Leipsic under the best masters of that musical city.

Miss Emily Perkins will be abroad this year.

The Cadet band is larger this year than it has been before, having at present thirty-two members, and good work is hoped from them.

The University orchestra will also take on new life, and in the course of the fall they will work on a program to be given later.

The advanced chorus under Mrs. Raymond will take up the cantata "Hymn of Praise" by Mendelssohn which is a most beautiful and artistic work. All interested in vocal work should find time to join the chorus.

Miss Elsie Beaver of Beatrice will soon be back to continue the study of music.
