

lack of instructors and it is hoped that more students will volunteer.

The library is growing slowly, especially in the line of children's books. The visiting committee has made nine visits to the homes of the people. The employment bureau reports nothing of a practical nature. The committee on supplies have received an organ, a sofa, a stereoscope with views, a carpet, a rocking chair and a number of children's games. The committee recommends that our college settlement be associated with the national college settlement association.

Senior Class Meeting.

The Seniors met Wednesday in response to a request from the Chancellor who desired to address the members. The class was invited to visit the Chancellor at his home Saturday evening for the sake of promoting mutual acquaintance. Incidentally the Chancellor vouchsafed a little instruction in matters of form and etiquette, which was most thankfully received and appropriated by the members, for, as we all know, in this semi-barbarous land it is only the elect few who are favored with even a rudimentary knowledge of the proprieties.

The Chancellor announced that the choice of commencement orator is to be taken from the hands of the Seniors, now and forevermore, and the Chancellor will nominate the orator subject to the ratification of the regents. It is but just to say, however, that the Chancellor very graciously offered to receive suggestions from the class members or the committee entrusted with the matter some time since.

After the Chancellor's withdrawal the class unanimously moved to accept his invitation. The insignia committee exhibited some sample sombreros with the result that the choice of hats was reconsidered and referred back to the committee. The report on a class-day orator substantiated the Chancellor's statement and caused some discussion which ended in authorizing the committee to choose an orator and to report at the meeting Friday. The class decided to make some effort to maintain its rights as accorded in years past and in conformity with the University's traditions.

According to The Bookman the following are the most popular works in fiction this year: "The Damnation of Theron Ware" by Herold Frederic; "Sir George Tressady" by Mrs. Humphrey Ward; "The Heart of Princess Osra" by Anthony Hope; "Kate Carnegie" by Ian Maclaren. All are to be had at low prices at the book department of Herpolsheimer & Co. A big line of note books, fountain pens, tablets, dictionaries always on hand.

REPORTERS

The Maxwells aired their opinions Saturday night on the question whether divorced persons should be allowed to remarry. Greenfield and Smith invoked a long array of authorities from Moses to Tiffany for the affirmative while Risser and Wilson upheld the negative. In the general debate several questioned the wisdom of dealing so regularly on questions pertinent to domestic relations and after the crimson was seen to play on the countenances of the program committee for a few minutes the chief mogul struck up a bulletin announcing that next time the Maxwells would speak their pieces on the necessity and right of Uncle Samuel knocking the stuffing out of Spain.

The study of cases has been taken up under Mr. Robbins. It promises to be a very interesting topic.

The class is still growing. G. S. Ralston, manager of Worthington Military Academy and C. H. Luboff, of the Union Savings Bank registered this week.

A large number were conspicuous by their absence last Saturday morning.

The Junior class elected the following officers for the second term: president, J.
