

D. Denison, Jr.; vice-president, Chauncey Cunningham; secretary, Hugh B. Daly; sergeant-at-arms, O. F. Himes.

The Dean blessed the Lord and ate turkey with Wahoo friends on Thanksgiving.

Judge Irvine is conducting his apologetic addresses on Damages.

Saturday night is the time for the election of officers of the Maxwell club for the second term.

Senior White bids fair to become the paterfamilias of his class if he allows his hirshute appendage to continue its sprouting.

"98."

They tell us that the class in Law is made of country bumpkins
Of yellow coated squashes and verdant farmer
pumpkins,
Of country lads and hay-seeds, of granger boys
and "yaps."
Of fellows from the country schools, some bigger than their "paps."

We know our hair is rather long, our whiskers
rather shaggy,
Our clothes don't just exactly fit, our knees are somewhat baggy
Our eyes bulge out when we see Profs., gigantic and forbidding,
Our mouths do sometimes open fly at sight of raisin pudding.

But now just hold yourselves a year, until we get a starter,
Along the great highway of truth and see who then's the smarter,
The foppish chaps in tailored suits, a "Statson"
and peaked shoes,
Or farmer boys in short-tailed coats, rough strangers to the muse;

MARKUS

Last Word about Foot-ball.

Foot-ball and zero weather are rather antagonistic so with the late cold snap our agile kickers were compelled to discard their aristocratic garb of knee breeches and long stockings for more conventional but warmer costumes. A thin sheet of ice now covers the local gridiron and the only remaining hints of football are the icy goal posts, a few bruises and Manager Oury's explanation of how easily we might have beaten Iowa. Some of the 'leven have even parted with their mane, which is rather noticable from the fact that, for the average foot-ball man to keep his locks half the winter is a constitutional right. The strength of most of our boys however is not confined exclusively to their hair.

The last two games at Omaha during the Thanksgiving period were disappointments, particularly financially. Iowa beat us the last game, but that was simply an exhibition game and gave her no particular satisfaction. The Thanksgiving game was very unsatisfactory all around owing to the weather, and consequent horrible condition of the field. If the players had had skates they could have played more scientific foot-ball. As it was it was only a game of push, with the absolute surety of slipping down just when you didn't want to.

The score being nothing to nothing, of course assured Iowa of the penant, Kansas second, Nebraska third and Missouri last. This should at least give satisfaction all around, since the pennant has floated over each team once during the four years of the league organization.

The University of Nebraska quits the season financially whole, with good feeling towards the other teams and the feeling that she has played good, honest ball, no professionalism, and with the determination to put up a better fight next year.

If the material which we spent so much time developing this year will all show up next year again, we will have a team which will sweep things.

With our much improved athletic board foot ball, in fact all athletic work has been put on a sounder and more honorable basis than ever before, and a business like management from this on is assured.