

Bixby's Retreat.

Thanksgiving day is past,
 Yet lingers its bright cheer.
 My heart o'erflows with gratitude
 And memories most dear.
 To him who crowneth all our days
 Breathe thou, my life, unending praise.

PSYCHIC EVOLUTION.

We matched that game with Iowa
 And trained to baffle fate.
 At Omaha Thanksgiving day
 We had our mutual skate
 But fate had forordained it so—
 The score stood nothing to zero.

Though virtual victory for us—
 The pennant waved for Iowa—
 We'd play the draw and clear the muss
 Hence chose last Saturday
 We played with vim and iron will,
 But beef scored six against our skill

Now that the foot-ball games are o'er We'll train our beef to brains
 And fill our brains with richer store
 To bleach athletic stains
 We'll swipe the Jay Hawks in debate
 Or blush to own we're from the state

Mr. Kinton (to young lady on ice supporting herself with a clumsy staff) "Perhaps I could be of more assistance to you than that other stick."

Young Lady: "I don't know, you might try it and see."

Mr Corey was just on the way to sure recovers from injuries received in the Junior-Freshman game when kind Palladian lady friends sent him several delicious cakes of their own composition

Not braver the heroes wreath-crowned in their glory
 Nor the martyrs who've died at the stake
 Than shrewd, firm, persistent, invincible Corey
 Who faced and devoured that cake.

Comments on the new chevrons—
 Co-eds—exquisite—

Baker:— A scheme concocted by the Plutocrats for flaunting their nefarious principles in the eyes of honest statesmen; give me white ones.

Lyons—All right for one thing. Won't do to put your arm around anybody in the dark with them on, phosphorescent.

Chorus of corporals (with hands on piece where pocket book ought to be)—Fifty five cents for chevrons;
 fifty cents for putting them on—umm-m
