

BIXBY'S RETREAT.

Sorrow is twins.

Library Exhortation—old version: "Study to be quiet."

"Heaven lies about us in our infancy," but she gets shy of us in our later years when we are lying about her.

AFTER THE BATTLE.

The gridiron is a barren waste
The bleachers stand and yawn
The ditches yet half gore-filled trace
Where many a bloody fight was on.
A limb, a head, some cast-off brains
And here and there a cast-iron shield.
Or Kansas sheet-iron pad remains,
And bets "refunded" dot the field
High o'er that field a pennant waves
With not a stain its folds to mar;
And Woodruff on athletics raves
In the columns of the K-C Star.
Wave on proud pennant in your pride,
The world of pure athletics tell!
We'll cuss "Doc" Woodruff on the side
The while he "practices" in— Kansas City.

WANTED—A MAN (NFF).

I used to think in the reign of Jones
We needed a full grown man
To crack some skulls and break some bones,
Thus to devise a plan

To squelch once more
That deafening roar
In the Library.

It needs a regiment to quite restore—
Oh how my first thought sadly failed—
The peace and quiet of the days of yore
Where a full-grown man has failed
To squelch once more
That deafening roar
In the Library.

How doth the little football boys
Improve the shining hours;
And dig, and dig, and dig, and dig
To 'pease unfriendly pow'rs.

The Greeks are plunged in civil war
About the Junior "prom"
For Athens vows no Spartan shall
Be chairman of the "Com."

While Sparta thinks her various braves
Are all the men there are;
And every one of them has hitched
His wagon to a star.
