

ner," O. W. Holmes; "History of David Graeme," Mrs. Humphrey Ward; "Psychical Nature of the Child," Rowe.

A three hundred dollar deficit in the alumni organ fund still exists. The officers of the association expect to send out statements to the members who have not subscribed, asking them to do so. A little aid from each one would easily place the association out of debt.

Acting Chancellor Bessey is contemplating a new feature for chapel exercises. Ten-minute talks on subjects pertaining to university life will be given. Many things about the university have an interesting history that is known to but few. The students doubtless would be much interested in such talks.

A First Nebraska club of university students was organized at the university Wednesday. The officers, time and place of meeting and other matters will be decided later. A committee is now engaged on the constitution and by-laws. O. W. Meier is temporary president and W. J. Hunting temporary secretary.

The new students who have entered the school of music within the last week are: Miss Effie Austin, Miss Maude Pierce, Miss M'He Kellner, Laverne Schwartz, Miss Frances Osborne, Miss Margaret Pierson, Miss Kittle Butler and M'iss Gertrude Arends.

Rev. Eason of the Trinity Episcopal church was in chapel last Wednesday morning and gave a cordial invitation to those students who are not identified with any church to visit the Trinity Episcopal. He spoke also of a series of student receptions to be begun in the near future.

About five hundred university students, together with the university band and a goodly number of the university battalion, marched to the Rock Island depot to meet the boys of the Fifty-first Iowa regiment as they passed through Lincoln on Monday afternoon. They arrived a few minutes after the train had gone on.

SCIENTISTS EXPLORE.

A scientific expedition, including all departments in the state university and city schools, left Lincoln by the B. & M. at 9 o'clock on Saturday, November 4, and visited first the Dakota cretaceous exposure near Cedar Creek; second, the carboniferous exposures in the extensive Atwood quarries two or three miles south of Cedar Creek; third, the old Louisville quarries; fourth, the exposures and outcrops along the Platte river to South Bend; fifth, the state fisheries and old Stout quarries. This was one of the most profitable expeditions planned as yet.

The day was a perfect one and some three hundred and seventy-five students accompanied the expedition. All were enabled to do some valuable field work and many important specimens were brought back. Superintendent Goráon, Principal Davenport and a host of other teachers represented the city schools and Professor Barbour the university. The expedition took luncheon at the Atwood quarries at Cedar Creek; later at South Bend several barrels of apples were thrown into the crowd and the students did the rest. The expedition returned to the city at 5 o'clock.

GRADUATE CLUB MEETING.

The graduate club held its second meeting of the year Saturday evening at the home of Dr. Ellery Davis. Besides the sixty members there were present Chancellor and Mrs. Bessey, Dr. and Mrs. Edgren, Dr. and Mrs. Fling, Dr. and Mrs. Ward, Professor and Mrs. Caldwell, Professor and Mrs. Moritz and Dr. and Mrs. Candy. The program consisted of talks by graduates from other schools concerning their graduate departments. Mr. Gerig of the romance language department told about the University of Missouri, making the point that the graduate school there was not to be compared to that of the University of Nebraska, being much smaller in number of students and amount of graduate work offered. Frank E. Watson of the department of zoology related some interesting stories of Brown university undergraduate life and explained the work offered to graduate students. Miss Haecker gave a few facts about the University of Minnesota, speaking particularly of the more prominent members of the faculty and the work for advanced students. The first speaker was Mr. Siff, fellow in mathematics, who told of the life at Clark university, a school exclusively for graduate work. It is near Boston, has only five departments and sixty students, but the faculty is exceptionally strong and good work is done in the institution. President Candy then read an extract from the inauguration address of Dr. Wheeler, the new president of the University of California, on "Loyalty to One's Alma Mater."

The business of the evening consisted in the election of a representative to the university senate, the delegate chosen being John Kind, and discussion of a university publication for research work. It was decided to put out such a publication at the end of each year, giving each department its proper share of space. The material is to be mainly composed of theses for advanced degrees. The committee put in charge of the work at present consists of Dr. Edgren, Dr. Fling and Mr. Gerig. After the business of the evening was disposed of the club broke up into social groups and were served refreshments by Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Candy, assisted by the Misses Lynn, Edith Henry, MacFarland and Fox. This meeting was most enjoyable and helpful and betokens enthusiasm and success for the future of the graduate club.
