at the various universities as to the method to be adopted of granting emblems to members of debating teams. The University of Michigan Daily says: "It is the intention of the oratorical association to promote interest in debating and oratory by somewhat similar methods by granting caps or ribbons, so that 'he who runs may read' and know who the men are who have given Michigan even a more prominent name in debating than she enjoys in athletics. It is anticipated that the contests for wearing these caps or ribbons will be as great as now exists for the honor of wearing the athletic 'M.'"

GIRLS' BASKET BALL.

At 10 o'clock on the morning of charter day the second match game between Miss Whiting's and Miss Spurck's teams was played, resulting in a score of 8 to 4 in favor of Miss Spurck's team. An enthusiastic crowd filled the gallery and lined along the sides of the gymnasium. Tin horns, rattles, bells, feminine shrieks and bursts of applause greeted every successful and unsuccessful play. Boys in the chemical laboratory compared the noise issuing from the armory to that of a steam callope or the yells of Indians in a war dance. The play was quick and exciting, both to players and spectators.
