

It is illustrated by a half-tone engraving, showing the kitchen laboratory of the school.

Dr. A. T. Peters' translation of "A Guide to Practical Meat Inspection," the work of Dr. F. Fischorder, district veterinarian of Jarotschin, formerly director of the city abattoirs and stock yards at Bromberg, Germany, has been received at the university. This translation contains many annotations and editions by Dr. Peters, and is illustrated with over sixty figures and plates.

Miss Edna Howell, '03, who was accidentally shot in the knee about a month ago while target shooting at Burlington Beach, has so far recovered that she has been able to be removed from St. Elizabeth's hospital to her sister's home on R street. Her mother from Kansas City is still with her. Miss Howell is getting along quite well, but will never fully recover the use of her limb.

Music and picture department, Herpolsheimer & Co.

The base ball men took advantage of the absence of gymnasium classes last week and spent several hours each day in the cage. The pitchers are kept busy limbering up their arms and the other men are given preliminary work on grounders. Doane, Bell, Gordan and Bliss are in practice for the box and are doing good work. Koehler, the foot ball center, Ray Ryan, Dean Ringer and Maloney are candidates for catcher. Over forty men have reported for various positions.

The state veterinarians' association held sessions in the chapel Tuesday afternoon and evening. Only about twenty-five were present. President Dr. S. E. Cosford gave an address in the afternoon, in which he gave valuable suggestions to the association. In the evening papers were delivered by Dr. Ward, Dr. W. A. Thomas of this city and Dr. J. J. Drasky of Crete on "Treating Tumors and Growths by Electricity." Another session was held at the university farm Wednesday morning. A luncheon was served and operations were performed for the benefit of the surgeons present.

DR. PENNY OF KANSAS.

Professor G. B. Penny, dean of the school of fine art of Kansas university, sailed from Boston on February 1 on a combined lecture, study and pleasure trip abroad. He has been engaged by the managers of a nine weeks' cruise to the Mediterranean and the Orient to deliver a series of seropticon lectures en route on Greek and Roman architecture. He will also act as one of the three directors of the tour, and as such will have charge of the Egyptian section. The cruise will be made by a party of four hundred eastern tourists, chiefly New York and Massachusetts educators. The itinerary includes the principal points of interest in Egypt, Palestine, Greece and Italy. This will be Professor Penny's second visit to the Orient for the purpose of studying the history of art.

BARRON BEATS PILLSBURY.

On Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of last week Harry W. Pillsbury, the American chess champion, played a number of games of chess and checkers with the leading players of the state. Among the university men and alumni who played the champion were William Hardy, H. E. Newbranch, P. J.

Barron, Lee Edwards, C. Engberg, Professor E. L. Hinman and Charles Rait. Pillsbury lost but four games of chess altogether, the best game being that won by P. J. Barron, '98. W. E. Hardy played a draw:

Following is the game won by Mr. Barron:
