

student should feel that upon his or her individual exertions rests the success and prosperity of the society, for by this united effort, great work can be accomplished. Do not let there be a lack of interest, but work—for it requires work—and you will receive in return that improvement and knowledge which can be obtained in no other manner.

—A large number of books have been lost from the Library. The students should make a diligent search, and perhaps some of them may be found. Students can surely not complain if they can not take out books, when the books borrowed are not returned.

—All students who desire instruction in vocal and instrumental music can now be accommodated without going away from the University, at a slight expense. The services of Miss Rogers have been secured, who is one of the most able teachers of music in the State.

—Some of the young ladies and gentlemen of the University had a little party a few evenings ago, and one of the preps, in relating what a good time he had, said he never gum-sucked so much in his life. We don't know what that means but we thought something awful was the matter.

—A military company is something of which every college cannot boast, consequently we are one ahead. Lieut. Dudley has displayed a great amount of energy and patience in forming the company, and although the boys are a little awkward, there is blood in their eyes, and no doubt they will make noble soldiers.

—On account of some of the members of the Palladian society resigning, the society held another election. The following officers were elected for the ensuing term: A. U. Hancock, President. E. P. Unangst, Secretary. J. O. Sturdevant, Critic. The boys will no doubt have a good society this term, as they have gone to work with a determination.

—The College Society met in the Adelphian Hall, Oct. 6, and elected the following officers for the ensuing term: W. A. McAllister, President; Miss E. Hawley, Vice President; Albert Fitch, Rec. Sec.; Cora Thomas, Cor. Sec.; H. M. Easterday, Treas.; A. W. Field, Critic; Miss M. Williams, Hist.; E. Hart, Chor.; W. O. Riddle, Usher.

—Hereafter, No. 7 of the STUDENT will be published in Oct. instead of September, and No. 6 will be published in July instead of June. This change has been considered necessary from the fact that the college session usually begins so late in September that it is impossible to issue the paper until in October, and also because commencement is generally so late in June that it is impossible to distribute the paper until some time in July. By our new arrangement, we will be enabled to publish the paper near the middle of each month. And on the whole, we think the regulation will be agreeable to all concerned.

—The attendance at the State University shows an increase over former years. The faculty is a good one, and everything was looking harmonious when a High School representative called, the other day. Prof. Fairchild does not at first make a very favorable impression, but as the students become more acquainted with him they better like him. The military instruction, under Lieutenant Dudley is a new feature, and not an unpleasant one. The boys thoroughly enjoy the regular drill in military tactics. The literary societies are quarreling between each other, and it is probable that, like last term, there will be two weak societies instead of one strong one. The STUDENT will come out soon, under the editorial management of Messrs. Lambertson and Holmes, they having succeeded the former editors, Messrs. Field and McAllister.

The above article we clip from the Omaha High School. We suppose it refers to Chancellor Fairfield. The Editor exposes his ignorance, and does not know whereof he speaks. Chancellor Fairfield has made an excellent impression, and in the short time that he has been with us, he has made many warm friends.
