THE Palladians are compelled to incur some more extra expense in fitting up their hall. They are thinking of enlarging the rostrum for the critic's feet, and putting up a screen so that the young ladies will not keep looking at them all the time.

MR. McLean has been trimming the shrubbery, cleaning up the campus and otherwise beautifying the University surroundings. George is a worker, and by his industry has from time to time added much to both the interior and exterior of the University.

THREE things destined to remain a mystery to the present generation: the whereabouts of Charley Ross, who put that cannon on the campus, and what has become of the University String Band. These mysteries will probably be developed, "when the pigs begin to fly."

THE base ball mania has subsided, and the Preps are masters of the field. Its the target shooting that catches the boys now. By the way, the figures of the shooting record would make a good base ball score, and the base ball scores would apply very well to a game of ten-pins.

CLINE'S Old Reliable Photo. Gallery is running in full blast. With good workmen, fine instruments and accessories, he is ready to serve students at student prices and the world at large at the lowest rates. He warrents first class work. Get your pictures now in time for the commencement.

THE bachelor students east of the University are becoming quite expert in athletic feats. They practice running, jumping, and various other feats calculated to develop the physical man. Though muscle doesn't make the man, yet healthy exercise is better than to mope discontentedly about the house during the time one is not studying.

THE boys still play base ball occasionally. The last game was between the Preps and Freshies on the ground East of the campus. Prof Bailey was chosen umpire, and W. B. Alexander and B. M. Bridenbaugh scorers. There was considerable skill shown on both sides as will be seen from the score which stood 49 to 62 in favor of the Preps.

Two students with their fair ones sauntered up to the University on Sunday evning—took possession of the steps and whiled away a couple of hours with bright and witty remarks, the conversation being carried on almost entirely by one couple the principal topic being a shawl with "zebra stripes" under which they were both endeavoring to sit; wheather they succeeded or not we can not say.

ONE of the young men in the Analytical Chemistry, who has not been wearing his red riddon of late, discovered a bottle of wine in the absence of the Prof. which he thought he would test, not by chemical analysis, but by taking it inwardly. When Prof. returned and informed the student that it was poisoned, his face was redder than if he had drunk a gallon of wine.

Professors Thompson, Jones and Lamb will open a Normal Class for teachers in the High School July 8th. The object of the class is to prepare teachers for examination for state cirtificates which will be given at the close. The only text books required are Northend's Teachers Guide, Swinton's Composition, Hillard's Fifth or Sixth Reader and perhaps a grammar and arithmetic. The class will continue four weeks.

THREE is some talk of the Regents erecting a dormitory and boarding house for the students. The building, perhaps, will be located on the "disputed eighty" east of the University. Such an improvement will add greatly to the interest of the University as it will enlarge the number of students by furnishing greater inducements. At present, boarding facilities for students are very poor and we hope that the University can soon boast of a first class dormitory.
