

Owen Q. Adams is present to attend the University this term.

W. O. Ridell is teaching near Bennet. He will return in the Spring.

Prof. Winchell spent an hour the day after his lecture, looking through Prof. Collier's department in particular and the University in general.

The Sophmores have adopted the use of canes as a class distinction. A Sophomore is now irreverently alluded to by the Freshmen as a jack of clubs.

The societies are profiting by the session of the Legislature in obtaining live questions for debate. The Union decided at their last meeting that a reform school should not be established in the State.

Mr. Leslie Burch, a graduate of the Normal School, has entered the University. Send 'em along; we are always glad to supplement the work of the Normal by the more extended course of the University.

C. Mill Easterday is attending the law department of the University of Iowa. Just such talented men as Mr. Easterday we need at home; wouldn't it be in order to organize a law department here?

Show the effect of the educational advantages you possess by subscribing at once for the STUDENT. We all despise a man too narrow minded to take a newspaper. Don't prove yourself that kind of an individual by failing to support your college paper.

Don't be alarmed! The cow in the museum has not been resuscitated nor is the University haunted. It's only Prof. Collier preparing for his lecture. We will back the Prof with any amount desired as the most expert man on the continent at making unearthly noises. Any takers?

Mr. Finch was in the city again last week, lecturing to crowded houses; there is no one who can draw such a house as he. Dr. Miller, of the Omaha Herald, also delivered a lecture against prohibition which was pretty successfully answered by Mr. Finch. Mr. Finch goes from here to Brownville.

Who wouldn't be a Cadet? The Cadets all received an invitation to attend the annual reception, given, January 15 by the Union Club, with the special request that they attend in uniform. Let those who escaped the military instruction of the University no more look down with contempt on brass buttons and blue coats. They didn't get an invitation, and we do not care if they did n't. Several of the Cadets attended, and reported that they passed a most enjoyable evening.

The Junior organization went off all right until it came to the question of badges, when each young lady thought of her hat and mentally resolved to die rather than have a color that would n't match. The contest was exciting for a time but blue finally came out ahead. Still, "A woman convinced against her will &c," and the boys are trying to decide whether to give up the organization or buy each young lady a hat trimmed in blue.

The Elementary German class has to get up in the morning now. The recitation begins at eight and the door is closed at 8.05. The first morning when the time to lock the door came, it was found that Prof. was absent. The class proceeded according to regulations locking the door and appointing a teacher pro tem. Prof. spoiled the effect of the whole thing however by not coming and trying to get in. He gave a satisfactory excuse for his absence the next day and has been at no time late since.

If you have not subscribed make it a point to give the Bus. Man. a dollar as soon as you meet him or can hunt him up. We want the subscription of every student for at least one copy and as many more as you feel able to send to your friends. It is a duty of every student to help support the college journal, both by money and brains contributed. Only a