

Local News.

Read "The Royal Path of Life."

Lieut. Webster's new house is about completed.

A reception will be given on the 22th by the ladies of the Dormitory.

Blessed is the student that furnisheth not his own fuel; for he shall see the rise in coal without despair.

The Senior Class has read all of Plato's Phædo this term. This is more than they read at Harvard.

The Senior orations will not be delivered this term, on account of the sickness of J. H. Worley.

Every student should have a copy of "The Royal Path of Life."

That which is Useful, Beautiful, Interesting and Instructive all combined in the goods sold at Fawell's New Store.

Ben Arnold's birth-day brought him a $35 clarinet from home. His gentle racket can be heard at any time of day or night.

A stove has been put in the chapel on the boy's side and they have no longer any excuse for standing around on the other side of the room.

Holiday Presents at the Book Store of Fox & Struve.

It's a mean trick for a Senior to impose on the innocence of a Freshman by telling him that Christmas comes on the 26th this year.

Pshaw! don't be scared. They only want to find out if you have skipped any studies. The Faculty are making vigorous efforts to get the records squared up.

The class in Constitution of the U. S. finished it in time to study the Constitution of Neb. for several days, and listen to a number of lectures by the Chancellor, connected with the subject.

In Books, Stationary and Pictures you will find every thing you want and many things you need at G. W. Fawell's New Store.

Among those taking part in Prof. Suffern's concert on the evening of the 6th we notice the names of Miss Coddington and Mr. Benedict of the University.

"The Royal Path of Life" is worthy of a place in every home.

If you are going to be at home in time to help fill the cornucopias for the Christmas tree, you can be at school on the last day. The term closes on the 24th.

To keep abreast with the times you must read, and the place to get your literary matter is at Fawell's New Store.

"Postponed!" "It seems to me that the class of '80 has a habit"—that was all he said. Funeral 2:30 P. M. Others take warning. Enough of a thing's enough.

About this time of the year the youth thaws out the ice with his knees, while putting on the skates of some fair deceiver, who skips out with another fellow while he is wringing the water from his clothes.

A Senior startled the Psychology class the other day by asking for an explanation of Pneumatics as an aid to memory. It was thought at first that he was giving the Chanc. a game of wind, but it was discovered at length that he meant Mnemonics.

We were astonished the other day on turning a corner of the University to find the air on the East side filled with young men at various elevations. Investigation showed that a horse driven by Ralph Weston had just upset the buggy containing himself and some friends.

The boys and girls of the Union have been getting excited over the woman's suffrage question. They debated it once and it has since been the subject of two orations. All the boys are convinced