New goods at Barkley & Briscoe's.
 Large stock new books at Fawell's.
 Novelties in fine stationery at Fawell's.
 The spring recess is the next thing on the docket.
 Salt Creek will soon be warm enough for swimming.
 Fashionable Millinery at S. W. Harney's, O street.
 Special prices to students for furniture Hardy's, 10th street.
 Mrs. D. H. Wheeler visited her son Daniel, Jr., last Tuesday.
 Why will the boys smoke those nasty, poisonous cigarettes!
 All the students go to Fox & Struve for their books and stationery.
 Go and see M. H. Gustin to get good harness or buggies, on 11th street.
 The autograph album nuisance threatens to break out again. Spare us!
 Look out for a girl with a broom. She knows how to use the weapon now.
 Preserve your natural teeth by having them attended to early by Dr. Way.
 Buy your boots and shoes at the B. B. store, Tenth street between P and Q.
 Will George improve the campus this spring, and set out his pretty flowers.
 For pure fresh made candy call at the Candy Kitchen, 12th street, Little's new block.
 The girls won't breathe their plans for Friday night. It must be something stunning.
 There are about one hundred and thirty Preparatory students this semester in the University.
 It pays to buy all your boots, shoes and slippers of O. W. Webster, O street, Academy of Music.
 The Cadet Band has received a new set of band books, with about one hundred new selections.
 The latest and nobbiest style of suits, neckwear and hats at the Phoenix One Price Clothing Hall.
 H. C. Lett & Son are selling more boots, shoes, hats and furnishing goods than any store in Lincoln. No one doubts the truth of their selling at cost.
 Prof. Thompson has the Nebraska weather service bulletins placed near the bulletin board of the University nowadays. Its lines are very interesting.

Students will find everything they need in the way of stationery and text books at Fox & Struve's.

The most elegant line of stiff hats that was ever seen in Nebraska are at the Phoenix Clothing Hall.

The noble and dignified Sophomore class holds a meeting for mutual admiration next Saturday evening.

A dozen or more new chairs have been purchased for the library. The morning hours have made them necessary.

Chancellor Fairfield went to York on the 5th to preach. He has frequent calls to towns surrounding the capital.

"Is an oyster a person or a thing?" was the abrupt question of an inspired youth in a University class the other day.

Spring suits and canes will soon be seen on the campus. This year's coat is short and the collar has a broad roll.

After four months absence B. H. Culver is again with us. He was engaged in training the young idea at Schuyler.

Fifty tons of hard and six tons of soft coal have been used by the University already this season. Last year over one hundred tons were consumed.

Our band, they say, is going to Crete in an astonishing array. Their costumes, it is reported, will also be something peculiar and astonishing to behold.

Miss Linnie Simington has left school and returned to her home at Ashland. A pleasant party was given her in Lincoln the evening before her departure.

Indian clubs and boxing gloves have been added to the property of the Athletic Association. They are on exhibition in a glass case in the STUDENTUM.

To be kicked all to pieces in a game of foot-ball may not be very pleasant, but then the game brings the boys together and fosters college feeling, you know.

As a rule, college papers do not publish a number immediately after the vacations. The STUDENT is an exception. Our next will greet you on the day you return.

The local editor wants to thank somebody for a handsome cabinet photograph album which he found on his front porch a few evenings ago, addressed to him.

"Der Hund zeigte die Nase," was translated by one of our Preps the other day, who misunderstood Hase for Nase,—"the dog followed his nose." "Why, what does that mean?" he asked the instructor.

Let it be known and hereafter remembered that the best place to buy or sell second hand goods of any kind is at J. C. Antill's Auction Store on the east side of Government Square.

The four fellows who went down after those brooms created quite a sensation on the street. They carried them over their shoulders and created an impression.

The young ladies have a new use for their gentlemen friends. They make them bend over and use them as dictionary supporters. This occurs in the library.

If we could ascertain the age, weight, height, religion, favorite study, degree, and "future expectations" of the class of '82, what an entertaining bit of statistical reading they would make.

Attempting to lift a turban by its brim in saluting a young lady is about as difficult and wholly as mortifying as trying to put away your handkerchief in the coat-tail pocket of a bob-tailed coat.

Miss Lena Marshall has been summoned to the bedside of her father, "A. D." at Hot Springs, Ark., whither he had gone for his health. The report, we are very sorry to say, is that Mr. Marshall is very low.

We are looking for those football eevens and regular matches that were promised. The local editor thinks, since that day he scrubbed his nose for three yards on the turf, that scrub games are not nice anyhow.

The poor old State House is getting itself sandwiched between the east and west wings of the new capitol. The best view of the work can be had from the University and it may be imagined how imposing the whole will be.

The gentle telephone has been transported from the Chancellor's office to the Janitor's room, and no longer will George have to trot across the hall in answer to the bell's tintinabulations. George runs the machine himself now and is 'appy.

An effort is being made to originate a song for the exclusive use of the Nebraska University, to be known as our college song. This school needs something of this kind, as it needs a college cry, and clubs, and customs to awaken college feeling.

The miserable scapegraces who scattered coal over the halls and stairs, a few Friday evenings ago, must feel a great deal of respect for themselves and the University. Prompt and severe discipline should be given them by the Faculty.

N. W. Fraser is the name of the kindly-disposed manufacturer of brooms who will present each young lady in the Palladian "broom-drill" with extra fine brooms, adorned with navy blue. The offer he made was general and the young ladies took him at his word.
