The Band appears to be resting—No b(e)lloving.

Strong facts. Sulphurated Hydrogen and Asofoe'ida.

"Ich 'mus' essen" as the Chinaman said at a German restaurant.

Every student, successful in borrowing a dollar, patronized Ingersoll.

Buy your Boots and Shoes of O. W. Webster, O at Academy of Music.

During Prof. Thompson's absence, Mr. Polk had charge of the class in Hygiene.

Junior: "Prof. how is my class getting on?" Prof: "Bully, poetically speaking."

"O that just predominates." This is the latest favorite slang phrase among the co-eds.

A. F. Loemis wields the birch this fall and winter. He will be with us again in the spring.

The first year German class is progressing rapidly. They have already begun reading the classics.

One of our Profs' calls a conditioned class he is teaching the "poor sicks." Highly complimentary.

This is "summery" treatment as the man said who had to beat carpet with the thermometer at 90°.

What is the difference between a bank safe and a thief with the ague? One is chilled iron, the other chilled steal.

S. W. Auten one of the college farm boys has accepted a position as teacher at Greenwood, Neb. He will return in the spring.

Miss. Narcissa Snell, an old time co-ed is visiting the University. She came down to help the Union society in their oyster supper.

O Charley where are going? O down to D. & C. L. Baums to buy one of those beautiful pearl handled knives they just received.

The University was favored by a visit from N. Z. Snell of '82. He was one of the many who came down to the Union oyster supper.

One of the students displayed an alarming knowledge of cards in one of his classes the other day. How many demerits will be get?

The world was created from nothing. Out of a small piece of this nothing man was made. How amazingly well some preserve their origin.

Students have you seen those artistic, University Panels, made by Kelley & Co? Every student ordering Photos get one Cabinet Panel gratis.

The new stove in the chapel, notwithstanding it lessens the room by several square feet, is a noteworthy improvement and supplies a long felt deficiency.

The revival spirit has struck the town. The Methodist and Baptist churches are both holding meetings. It would not be a bad idea for quite a number of our students to attend these meetings.

It will pay every student to get Kelley & Co's. prices and special inducements on Photographs.

Scene:— Band playing in Chancellors Office. New student to Soph. "What is that noise?" Soph.— "That, why, that is one of last year's Faculty meetings."

Soph:—"My razor is so dull that I can't shave with it." Junior:—"Go to D. & C. L. Baum's and purchase one of those celebrated hollow ground silver steel razors.

"If I had a fine apple orchard and wanted to guard against having the apples eaten, I certainly would not leave it in charge of a couple of thieves."—Ingersoll.

The Library is a place for reading and study. There are a few students in the University who regard it as a sort of reception room, a place for general chat and merriment.

The Cadets are about to go into winter quarters in the basement. The Commandant intends to have a floor put in and endeavor to make things comfortable for the boys.

As Thursday was Thanksgiving, the societies had no session on Friday last. On account of which many a bold Cadet and many a co-ed made faces at their Grandmother.

Ingersoll is a man of great ability; excelled only by few in eloquence, but one having once heard him lecture is lead to believe that Bob is a little shaky on some Orthodox points.

The German-English puns shot off by the first year Germans are the most heartrending yet produced. One bold cadet thus addressed his Fraulein: "Kann ich, direr dir deiner sagen."

The series of meetings recently held through the united efforts of the Y. M. C. A. associations viz. of the city, and University were largely attended and much interest was manifested in the work.

Ague seems to have laid his heavy hand on several of our students. They should bear it patiently for Horace says; "Pallida 'chills' aequo pulsat pede tabernas paupertas regumque turres."

Apropos of Auroras is the story of the boy who had for gotten what an Aurora was. "How unfortunate" said the Prof. "that the first one who ever found out what it was should have forgotten it."

Many of our student are leaving school to teach for the winter. While it is to be regretted that they are away from the class room, yet it is a good idea for our students to have a little of this experience.

If any one wants to test the purity of his English let him get all the skin barked off from his hands with the foils down in the Gym. His well of English quite defiled will astonish the natives so to speak.

We fear the average student is not very well posted in biblical knowledge. In conversation with one the other day he said: "Why yes, you know the bible says 'a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush.'"

The night of the 17th was remarkable for the beauty of the Aurora which spread its light over fully one half of the sky. The waves of light following one another to the zenith filled the mind with wonder.

This year the Faculty have given the students some thing to be thankful for in the shape of two days for Thanksgiving. After the hard work of the term the students are very grateful for this act of kindness.
