

Are you going to Thomas?

Don't fail to hear Dr. Thomas on the 22nd.

Mr. S. W. Sullivan has been called to his home in Logan, Kansas by the sickness of his father.

The boys have already used up two base balls and kicked the foot ball out of existence. We still have some energy left.

The man who runs our poetry organ got his hand hurt the other day. An inexperienced hand had to turn the crank. Hence the excessive elegance of the verse.

One of our Sophomores, who delves into the mysteries of natural science considerably, has discovered that a two cent stamp requires as much spit as the old three cent.

One of our preps has discovered, after a long series of experiments, that the only reliable hen-fruit-tester is the human mouth. He ought to have the chair of Natural Sciences.

The Freshman meeting at Miss Latta's the other evening was a very enjoyable affair and reflected well upon the enthusiasm of the class and the generous hospitality of their hostess.

Dr. H. W. Thomas, the great pulpit orator, will lecture at the City Hall Nov. 22nd. You cannot afford to lose the opportunity of hearing him, especially when the price of admission is so low.

The Freshman are becoming too shadow like of late. One of them was taken for chancellor the other day. As he is but fifteen he probably stands as good a chance to be that personage as any one.

O pure angelic crystallization,
How you delight each Evean daughter,
Down from your heavenly skies
Soft as co-eds eyes
When she a sleigh-ride most willingly taking
Cares not how swiftly your pocke-book's breaking.

We feel like upbraiding the Faculty for not attending chapel more regularly, and we think it would be a decided improvement to see the seats of the Professors at least as well filled as those of the students.

On Friday morning a Junior informed a Freshman that he had "slated" her for that week. "Slate in the week to ask me" was the reply. They say the Junior ever afterwards will correct his "slate"rly habits.

At a special meeting of the HESPERIAN Association Chas. E. Verity was elected to fill the office of associate editor vice. C. G. McMillan resigned, and Mr. Letson to the position of editor from the medical department.

Our societies are booming now, so to speak, and their audiences are such that they are obliged to take chairs from the recitation rooms on the third floor. They need more chairs and we hope more will soon be procured.

On the 8th the regents held a meeting in which they exculpated Prof. Aughey from the charge against him. He has now resigned on account of business in which he has engaged in, in the West. The school is very sorry to lose him.

The young ladies boudoir, we understand, has been swept and an addition of two stools made to its already extensive stock of furniture. Without seeming to get out of our sphere, we would like to suggest a brass back and a lighting rod for the looking glass.

Call and see the new fall suits at T. Ewing & Co's Clothing Emporium.

It is rumored that a miracle occurred lately at a respectable boarding house adjacent to the University. As the janitor was helping himself to the 72nd pancake it was heard to exclaim, in tones of thunder, "Once more into the Breach dear friends, etc." The janitor is slowly recovering from the shock.

The Palladian society has engaged Dr. H. W. Thomas to lecture for them November 22nd, in the city hall. An accident in the arrangements prevented it from being given in the opera house. This is the first time this famous lecturer has visited Lincoln and we hope he will meet with a reception worthy of his name.

A very damp, very limp and very sorry looking specimen of a student was observed coming up from the bottom the other day with a pair of skates partially concealed between his coat. When asked whether the ice was solid he mournfully shook his head and left us in meditation at the deceitfulness of this worlds vanities of pleasures.

Some billious galoots have been prowling around the University at midnight's holy hour, of late, posting show-bills and doing gratuitous advertising for the medical school. The work is thoroughly first class in every respect and reflects great credit upon the artistic talent of the Sophomores. We are of the opinion that a column ad. in the STUDENT would be more effectual in securing the desired articles.

"Bless the co.eds," "so say we all of us," they left at our office the other day a very generous supply of "railroad soap," with the following perscription for its use:

"Scrub, till the last spot of dirt retires,
Scrub, till all energy tires,
Scrub your faces, you dirty liars,
And your hands and feet, with soap and sand."

We will clean up an editor some day and send him to return our heartfelt thanks. P. S. our office needs sweeping and we haven't any broom.
