

Exchange Bric-a-brac.

"May our entire legislators be returned."—Kansas Review. Have you many legislators that are not "entire" down here?

Hillsdale Herald wants to reform the college press. Cease being a disgrace to your college, friend, and we will talk to you on the subject.

We fear that our neighbors the Doane Owl and the York Collegian have been winter-killed. They have not been visible to the naked eye for several months.

The Allegheny Owl wants to know "who plugged the cannon?" Such orthography makes the glaring headline, "Published by the FRESHMAN CLASS!" entirely unnecessary.

The Campus fills up with selected matter and coolly asks; "what are you going to do about it?"

A remark on the laziness or lack of brains of those on the editorial staff is all that the occasion requires.

Our feminine friend the Sibyl has been badly taken in by the Collegian, or some other ignorant or designing sheet. That carefully copied "Register of American Colleges" so inaccurate and incomplete as to be absolutely worthless.

Hamilton College Monthly scolds like a virago over the theft of one of its "choicest psalms" by an exchange. Let 'em have it without a fuss, girls. We do not like to be ungallant, but when it comes to your poetry—well, let 'em have it.

The intellectual ponderosity of the Wooster (Ohio) Collegian makes us gasp for breath. It contains no locals, a few personals, three or four alleged editorials and an ocean of literary—very literary—matter. And yet it represents a great University in the great state of Ohio!

Blair Hall Lit. speaks of the "Century, Atlantic, and our other exchanges" in a manner that is truly refreshing. Blair Hall is situated in an obscure corner of New Jersey, but where in the name of the Board of Trustees is New Jersey? Evidently a foreign state not shown on the map.

The Carthaginian is evidently disgusted because eastern papers are rather selfish in the matter of exchanging. For our part we consider it a blessing that so few college papers from the east cross the Mississippi. We are surrounded with enough dissipating nonsense without them.

College Record should change its name. "Little Robert Reed" would be just about the proper thing, in consideration of the fact that the Record is attempting to ostracize all college papers that insert the advertisements of tobacco dealers.

Southern Collegian takes the opposite view and the fight promises to be a spirited one. We will hold the Collegian's hat during the unserenity.

"Lit. and Ed. notes" was the rather eccentric name of a paper founded about six years ago by Rev. L. B. Fifield, then Regent of the University. The paper changed owners rapidly, took upon itself a new name whenever it became tired of the old one, and moved around like a methodist preacher. It now appears as the "Western Educator" with publication offices at Lincoln, Nebraska and Parker, Dakota. It possessed more merit at its birth than it does at the present time.

Kansas held her Oratorical Contest on the 18th of March at Emporia. The State University was knocked out in the fight, but of course that detracts nothing from the merit of that institution; neither does it prove that Emporia and Ottawa colleges have any educational virtue, even if they did carry off first and second honors.

City directories are not generally regarded as profitable reading, yet people of a statistical turn of mind often pore over them for hours. The Omaha Excelsior man after digesting the new directory of that place, announces that Omaha contains 336 Johnsons, 219 Smiths, 118 Browns, and 71 Jones. The latter family has lost its grip on the directory business and now stands eleven places from the front.
