

regard to his welfare. At sundry times we have been anxious, and now we are assured that he has come to an untimely end. Last week a box of flowers was received from that land of blossoms directed to the Palladian Girls Debating Club. It was said that they were taken from the grave of Mr. Jones who being taken with a sudden fit of homesickness, pined away with the aforementioned debating club on his lips. We have already shed several tears over the unfortunate affair because our friend had the deepest love and esteem of which our hearts are capable. We are prepared to condole in the most approved style with any one who chances to have a like sorrow with ourselves.

From the Reform School Notes we cull a few items. During the late Farmers' Institute held at Gibbon the Reform School was visited by Prof. Bessey and Mr. Wing, of the University.—The School was visited by Ben Hogan while he was in Kearney.—During the first quarter of 1886 fourteen boys and three girls were committed.—Each inmate is required to write home once per month for which stationery and stamps are furnished. For more frequent correspondence somebody else must bear the expense. The following is given as a sample of the Reform School boy's first letter: Dear Mother—I received your kind and welcome letter and was glad to hear from you. I am well and happy and we have a base ball club and a brass band and I hope you are the same. I am trying to be a good boy. Please send me some money—about two dollars will do. No more at present. From your loving son.

"Miss Clari-Net," said Tam-Bourine,
A cittern by her side,
"I've courted euphone nigh sixteen
Long years to guitar bride."

"Per-harpsichord-ed you too slow
And in a humdrum way,
Or, maybe, you prefer aboe
Than husband to obey."

"If viol-as my love must cheat,
If violone must die,
You are the caliope to meet
Up yonder in the sky."

"Oh, Fiddlesticks!" the maiden cried,
"You spinet out forever;
If you're a harp-ing for a bride,
You'll pop tune-night—horn never."

He flute to kiss the maiden coy,
Who, blushing, cried solo:
"Don't! Stop! 'Tis wrong to kiss hautboy
Till he's my hus-banjo."

"I've waited sixteen long years," he cried,
"And I cornet wait longer."
Oh, dear!" the cymbal maid replied
"I'll shut my eyes—your stronger!"

I whistle little one he took,
But one did not restore
The maiden's sight. To "make her look"
Organ he took fife more.
