

Paul Clark is docket clerk of the Senate.

F. O. Lewis, '85, is one of the clerks of the Senate.

The inaugural ceremonies on the 6th called many a reckless youth away from his studies.

P. J. Coleman is janitor of one of the rooms of the Capitol during the legislative sessions.

Miss Nellie Dey, a particular favorite in University circles was visiting here a short time since.

Miss Cochran and her pupils have contributed some $13 toward the improvements in room No. 7.

The chemical lecture room was in demand last week by those tutors who had large classes to examine.

The average cadet is exalted just now by the prospect that he will take part in the governor's inauguration.

The Senior class in political economy is now at work on the labor question. There is consequently no further need of the U. S. Senate committee to investigate the same problem.

The HESPERIAN election for the full board of editors will be held the first week in January. Notice of the exact date will be posted as usual and it is to be hoped that there will be a large attendance.

Mr. Dave Reavis is expected to visit us during the latter part of the term, we are glad to know. Mr. Reavis, during his years' stay in York made many friends and they will be glad to greet him again.—York Collegian.

Gov. Dawes made some excellent suggestions regarding the University in his message to the legislature. He alluded especially to the labors of Chancellor Manatt as one of the causes of our institution's growth during the last two years.

We are sorry to learn that Paul Heffleman will not be in school this term. For some time past, his eye sight has been failing him, and he has been obliged to give up study. He has been appointed messenger for the Senate, however, and will take up his residence in Lincoln during the winter.

Adams Figaro: Hon. S. D. Killen made a flying visit home last week. The gentleman expects to pass the winter in Lincoln in order to secure the passage of some pet bills of his, concerning increase of salary of district attorney, etc. It is said he is a radical anti-Van Wyck man and favors the election of Dr. Mathewson. In order to pass time he thinks of going through the formality of taking studies at the U. of N. in order to get a degree.

Pittsburg Chronicle: We yesterday received a pleasant call from Mr. Gerwig, who has spent a year at the University of Nebraska. He reports having much hard work and not a few honors bestowed on his curly pate, having been business manager of the HESPERIAN, elected critic of the Philodicean society, and slyly intimates by downcast eyes and blushing cheek that he has been not altogether unsuccessful in mashing a pretty little U. of N. girl.

Omaha World: The holidays were holidays indeed to some as has been demonstrated very clearly this year. Two young students of the State University who were spending their vacation at home, concluded that they would have a good time, and accordingly came to Omaha. They are from Ashland and Plattsmouth and have born an exemplary reputation heretofore; for that reason and on account of the fact that that they are sons of a well known Dr. of Plattsmouth and a banker of Ashland, we will not give particulars. However, their appearance when they boarded the train for home indicated that they had succeeded very well in painting something red.

Nearly all old students are back this term and a goodly number of new ones have matriculated.

The social on the first Friday evening of the term was not very well attended owing to the stormy weather.

A class has been formed for the study of "Railroad Problems." It is under the instruction of Tutor Caldwell.

The lecture by Susan B. Anthony on the 7th was quite well attended by students, forming a good opposition to the term reception.

Sioux City Coyote: Pizey has returned, the city has once more donned its holiday attire to welcome the gentleman to its bosom.

The Hon. P. F. Clark, late of the State University, passed through here Thursday bound for Australia. The Minden brass band was at the depot and rendered some fine music which was much appreciated by Mr. Clark.—Minden Review.

Broken Bow Republican: All is joy! hurrah! let flags be unfurled to the trembling breeze. The Heffleman Brothers have passed safely through this delighted burg, and are on their way home to make life miserable to their friends for a few weeks.

Roca Pumpkin Raiser: Hon. W. S. Perrin Esq., X. R. A., and Bro. arrove yesterday and will milk cows for the next few days at home. These exemplary young men have been sojourning at the Univ. of Nebr. since fall, and express a desire to return as soon as possible.

Masters Lobingier and Fletcher have returned home for the holidays. These young gentlemen have been in attendance at the University where Master Lobingier received a severe sprain, but a liberal application of St. Jacob's Oil brought him out of the difficulty as fresh as ever. For sale by all druggists.—Hebron Herald.

The State Historical Society was in session in this city during the second week of the term. Its meetings were very interesting and profitable, being mainly in the line of our work here. The papers read by H. H. Wilson, '78, on the "Relation of History to Law," and by Lieut. E. S. Dudley on the "Early Military History of Nebraska" were valuable contributions to the society's records.

It is not often that the local editor happens upon such a fat list as the following. Cupid seems to have directed his shafts at ex-students this time.

MARRIED.

At the residence of the bride's parents near Kearney Neb., Dec. 29, Mr. Wallace G. Keim, formerly of '89, and Miss Minnie Patton. In this case [the acquaintance was formed while both were in school here, thus showing beyond all doubt the superiority of co-educational institutions in practical matters.

At the residence of the bride's parents, Roca, Neb., Christmas day, Mr. Ellis R. Maris and Miss Anna L. Keys. To the large number of friends of the bride in University circles the above event is one of unusual interest. The happy couple are spending their honeymoon in Philadelphia, after which they will return to Nebraska to reside permanently.

On Christmas night, in this city, Mr. Wm. E. Johnson, (alias "Pretty Johnson") formerly of '87, and Miss Lillie M. Trevitt.

At Burr Oak, Kan., Sunday, Jan. 2nd, Mr. W. S. Canan formerly of '89, and Miss Effie Ritchey.

The editorial staff acknowledges the receipt of wedding cards.
