

Dave Reavis was visited last week by his father and brother.

Fletcher has opened his mouth without putting his foot in it.

Killen is in hot water. He got a gentle reminder from his landlord the other day. Ask him about it.

O. P. Polk has been hired by the medical department to steal material for their dissecting table at four dollars a month.

P. F. Clark has accepted a position with Ah Lung proprietor of the 11th st. Laundry, as private secretary. We always wondered to what use Paul would put his peculiar style of penmanship.

John Dryden and wife, of Kearney, both old University students, were visitors last week. John looked in upon the three societies and refreshed them with one of his old-time characteristic speeches.

We were thrown into a delirium of ecstasy by a visit from two of the most popular young ladies of the Univ., the Misses Pershing. They requested us not to mention it in the paper, but we knew unless we did the temperature in this vicinity would become even like unto a furnace in the summer time.

A weighty question has been at last settled with apparent satisfaction to all concerned. At their meeting the Seniors adopted a scheme for speakers on commencement day, which was that of course representation, making three the basis. Each course choosing its own representatives, reported as follows; Literary—F. C. Wiggenhorn, C. S. Polk and P. F. Clark; Scientific—Elton Fulmer; Classical—Laura M Roberts; Engineering—E. D. Howe.

On the evening of Feb. 21st, the Class of 87' was entertained by Mr. Cheney at his home on F and 9th streets. Although this was the first Senior social of this college year, yet the hospitality enjoyed then, amply repaid them for their long penance. One of the most pleasant features was the abundance of flowers. Each guest was presented with a handsome bouttonnaire and the dining room was decorated with smilax and flowers. The evening was pleasantly occupied with music and fun, until the announcement of supper drew the party into the dining room. After discussing(?) an elegant repast they returned to the parlors and held a short business meeting. When the time for leaving came, all agreed upon a serenade. Then they crept softly under the windows of certain dignitaries and made the night hideous with their music. At last they returned to their homes, tired and sleepy, but well pleased with their evening's entertainment, and satisfied that of all pleasant and accommodating hosts Mrs. Cheney ranks among the first.

This friend of mine, his name is Guy;
Two friends we are, my friend and I;
He finds no fault with aught I do;
Where'er I go he goeth too;
Nor counts it in the least absurd
To walk a mile without a word;
Whate'er my wish, whate'er my whim,
'Tis law and gospel all to him.

We are not lazy, he or I,
Yet well enjoy full length to lie
Upon the couch, which in my room is spread,
Untill the sun is beaming over head,
Till breakfast time long since is sped,
And we awake to find ourselves in bed.
"Tis folly to be wise," so said
Some great philosopher I've read.

"This world is full of discontent."

Frank Manley is blessed with one of "Job's comforters"

Miss Eva Schurtz, Brownville, was back among University friends for a few days last week.

Miss Flora Baker has been detained from school for a few days by the sickness of her mother.

Mr. Charles Goodman, a cousin of Mrs. Sherman, was a visitor at the University on Charter Day.

Breech showed his fat face inside the HESPERIAN office the other day, and reported business good in his line.

Miss Myra Clark was unusually fortunate last week, being visited by her uncle, Dr. Clark, and her cousins, the Misses Edith and Nellie Clark, all of Sutton.

A very few of the students were fortunate enough to hear Jetti at Omaha last Thursday night. Among the number were Miss Cochran, Miss Laws and Miss Stratton.

The riddle of the Sphinx was as nothing compared with one which now mystifies the school: Where did that cane come from; who paid for it? Anxious hearts await the answer.

Our genial friend Platt, it is reported, has jumped his board bill and skipped this vicinity in company with one of the hash slingers connected with Mr. Feddaway's popular hotel.

Howe has come to the great crisis of his life. His mental agony is piteous while he is trying to decide. The present arrangement leaves it entirely to his own discretion. He takes turns flipping pennies and drawing straws.

The girls are denied a gymnasium and as the dear creatures must have some exercise, they take it in the cloak room. If you wish to know what kind, just examine the holes they have worn in the carpet.

Messrs. Gray and Marble were compelled to drop their University work for a short time while battling with the mumps. Mr. Gray retired to his home to fight on familiar grounds, while Mr. Marble sought refuge with relatives in Ashland.

W. S. Perrin we understand has signed with Muldoon & O'Laverty's minstrels for the coming summer. This troop will make a tour of the principal cities of Lancaster, and Cass counties including Raymond, South Bend and Cedar Creek. Success to you Mister Perrin.

The Scientific Club met at 3:30 p. m. last Saturday. The principal business consisted in reports of committees and the presentation to the club of a collection of geological specimens by Miss Aughey, and of 500 entomological specimens by Roscoe Pound. Papers were then read by J. G. Smith, Miss Helen Aughey and A. H. Bigelow. Adjourned to meet Saturday, March 5th.

Invitations for Charter day were sent to all the accredited High Schools, but owing to the lateness of sending them, only a few could be accepted. Prof. Drummond with five pupils came from Plattsmouth, and Prof. Ebricht with seventeen pupils, from Beatrice. We hope that next fall we may meet many of those who in our short acquaintance we found so pleasant, as fellow students in our University.

At the called meeting of the Athletic Association, of last spring term fame, held last Saturday, at 2 p. m., steps were taken looking to an active spring term, from an athletic point of view. After the election of officers, a committee consisting of Messrs. Clark, Wiggenhorn and Ausley, was appointed to arrange for our first annual Field Day, to take place May 14th, and Captain Stephens was requested to reorganize the base ball club preparatory for early spring work.
