

STRAY PICK-UPS.

Did you go to the German?

"Got the ball?" ? !; ! ! ?

Wanted. a ferry boat at corner Eleventh and R.

D. D. Forsyth visited in Kearney after the finals.

H. P. Kerr spent last Sunday visiting in Nebraska City.

Corporations never die, but a corporation class dies easily.

The Cadet band will play for the G. A. R. on Decoration Day.

"Hello, Whiskers!" is the familiar manner of saluting Tinker.

Camp at Nebraska City—Say good bye to the co-eds and go.

The way the Seniors are getting mashed astonishes the natives.

According to the department of English, the future of "shall" is "should."

Webber made a noble effort to "shoo" the small boys at dress parade on the 17th.

E. R. Tingley has recovered from a siege of the mumps and other attendant aggravations.

The cadets are busily engaged now in practice upon the schedules for the competitive drill.

Professor Bessey is busy with the plans for new cases and laboratory tables of Nebraska hall.

Since the publication of his book Professor Howard treats himself to a few moments of leisure.

It is rumored that another wedding in University circles is at hand. '88 is not so slow after all.

On account of the pol. econ. exam. the Seniors will have the nightmare until after commencement.

W. N. Fletcher, '89, left Monday to look after business interests in the southern part of the state.

Professor Menzendorf looked in at ye editors and typos last week, but immediately fled back to the music room.

Dr. Fontaine has gone to Europe. If he returns with somebody, THE HESPERIAN will be the first to congratulate.

Where is that water tank? Three hundred and ninety students are anxious to know what disposition has been made of it.

"And what became of the pie?" blandly asked Newcomer, when the prof., to illustrate involuntary action, had told the story of the old soldier.

Miss Stella Kirker, Kappa Kappa Gamma, gave a pleasant reception to the fraternity members of the U. of N. at her home, Saturday evening, May 18.

The senior preps. enjoyed a half holiday in Latin one day last week while the professor trudged home to get the keys with which Bennett, Jr., was entertaining himself.

A meeting of the Junior class was called to decide upon paraphernalia for next year. Judging from the amount of decision reached their senior attire will be rather limited.

T. H. Marsland is prepared to take photographs of groups, classes, couples or scenery. Any one wishing such work will do well to see him immediately. Patronize home industry.

Professor Bessey has been busy the past week with the plans for the new cases and laboratory tables of Nebraska Hall. They will be much more convenient than those formerly used.

E. G. Eagleson went home to spend the week before the final dissipation. It is supposed that his final examination under Professor Little left him in such a state that recuperation was absolutely necessary.

We have it on good authority that a certain eastern firm has contracted for 100,000 photo-engravings of the Senior class composite. The firm intends to advertise their famous remedy "Rough on Rats."

Miss Lillian Chamberlain, of Omaha, will assist the Unions in their exhibition with a soprano solo. Miss Chamberlain seems to be quite a favorite with the Unions, this being the third time she has appeared on their June program.

The library is in receipt of a valuable contribution to its American history department in the shape of "Sketches" by ex-Governor Perry, of South Carolina. It consists of short biographies of prominent men, and notes on points in local history.

Fletcher, '89, has been kicking himself quite vehemently since last Sunday evening, when he rashly invited a half dozen young ladies to take supper with him. To his utmost surprise, they readily assented and the noble Senior was compelled to lead the way to his restaurant.

S. Schwab comes to the front again in this issue with a new ad. Mr. Schwab has always been a good friend to the University, and one of the ways he has shown his friendship is by giving good bargains in clothing to the boys. When fitting out for commencement week call on him.

Professor Hunt is busily engaged hearing the commencement orators rehearse. He seems to find difficulty in causing Miss Aughey to appear belligerent. He has succeeded in putting a bridle upon Newcomer's voice, but has not yet made Fifer walk on the stage as if he weighed 275 pounds.

As a curious indication of the growing knowledge of our University, Professor Bessey informed the reporter that he receives from five to six applications per week from persons wishing situations in our faculty. Many of these are from men who send highly flattering recommendations from the most noted professors in this country and Europe. One exceptionally good day last week there were three letters asking for situations in the faculty of "your distinguished institution."

The Seniors had a most enjoyable time at Professor Bessey's residence last Wednesday evening. Both Professor and Mrs. Bessey understand the art of making a company feel at home. These farewell meetings of the graduating class, when all work is over and the final step is near, make a lasting impression on all who participate. Amidst the thoughts of pleasure there is always mixed the thought that such pleasures are nearing an end and in a few days all life will seem different.

We acknowledge receipt of a complimentary to the Beatrice Chautauqua Assembly. Lack of space forbids that we mention all the attractions in detail. The session will be from June 28 to July 8. Among the lecturers are Peter M. von Finkleston, of Jerusalem, Robert McIntyre, Professor DeMotte, J. B. Young, Geo. W. Miller. Special days are old settler's day, W. C. T. U. day, temperance day, Y. M. C. A. day, children's jubilee, Independence day, recognition day, music and mission day. Write for program, etc. to S. S. Green, Beatrice, Nebraska.

Since the state teachers association met there have been many inquiries from teachers both of this state and other state as whether the University laboratories would be open for the use of teachers during the summer. Owing to the