

ALUMNI ALLUSIONS.

Any information as to location or occupation of those who have been students in former days will be thankfully received. Will alumni please notify us of any change of residence or any great things they may do.

- '89.—W. L. Stephens is at his home in Sutton.
 '89.—F. W. Collins is preaching at Odell, Neb.
 '88.—W. N. Fletcher is in a law office in Omaha.
 '88.—N. R. Pound has gone to study law at Harvard.
 '89.—Miss Edna Bullock teaches in Lincoln this year.
 '89.—C. M. French is night clerk at Osborne's hotel in the city.
 '89.—D. D. Forsyth will enter the ministry of the Methodist church.
 '81.—A. R. Keim now resides in Kearney, and travels for a marble house.
 '89.—E. G. Eagleson is working for the B. & M. in north-western Nebraska.
 '89.—E. R. Tingley adds figures and counts cash in the Nebraska savings bank.
 '88.—Miss Grace Barrett has a position in the public schools at Sydney, Neb.
 '89.—Miss Helen Aughey will take post graduate work in the University this year.
 '89.—Miss May Tower is a district school ma'am some ten miles out from the city.
 '89.—O. W. Fifer has been chasing news items for the State Journal ever since graduation.
 '89.—Miss Jennie Bonnell will impart knowledge to country lads and lasses near Waverly.
 '89.—Messrs. Gerwig and Newcomer will take post-graduate work in the University this year.
 '83.—C. A. Pierce became the happy father of another girl during the summer. He is a banker at Bennett, Neb.
 '89.—F. A. Manley has secured a lucrative situation in the engineer corps of the Union Pacific. He is now in Wyoming.
 '87.—Miss Laura M. Roberts will spend this year, at least, in Berlin, Germany, in the study of German literature and the languages.
 '89.—H. J. Webber occupies the position of assistant in botany vacated by Mr. Pound. His ferocious whiskers strike terror in the preps.
 '89.—G. H. Baughman spent six weeks of the vacation in Mexico in company with Professor Edgren. He now reports for the State Journal.
 '84.—J. H. Holmes visited the University a few days before proceeding to Johns Hopkins. He will probably take his degree from the latter place this year.
- MARRIED.—CLARK—ROBERTS.—At the residence of the bride's mother, September 12, were married P. F. Clark, '87, and Miss May Roberts. All their University friends rejoice with them at the consummation of their happiness.
- MARRIED.—JONES—DOOLITTLE.—On the night of the 18th of September a quiet wedding occurred which united for life Will Owen Jones, '86, and Miss Edith Doolittle. The couple took a short western tour before settling down. If the best wishes of their very numerous friends be realized a happy future is assured the pair.

TO ALL '89.

My permanent address is 1449 S street, Lincoln. Will you please let me know where you are as soon as possible?

EDNA D. BULLOCK,

Class Secretary.

STRAY PICK-UPS.

- I'm getting tired of the Senior farce.—F. F. A.
 The Preps have effectually destroyed the sunflowers about town.
 C. M. Haft deserts the University to attend at Ann Arbor this year.
 Prep—"Has Prof H. got back?" Fresh—"Yes. Prep—Umgh. (Faints.)
 John Green deserves commendation for fitting up the science building with Yale locks.
 The boiler house goes up slowly, but we have promise of steam as soon as the building can be covered.
 It makes one feel dejected when he has to pay twenty-five cents for the privilege of breaking one's own cane.
 E. H. McMasters, a former member of '90 and lately of Northwestern university, goes this year to Hamilton college.
 The steam fitters in Nebraska hall are about as slow as—well, as the preps were to "catch on" Wednesday morning.
 Our friend, the "baron," deserves considerable credit for the improvement in the looks of a portion of the campus this summer.
 L. S. Storrs was for a time very low with typhoid fever in Denver where he now lives. He will soon be back in school, however.
 It is a noticeable fact that so many of last year's graduates are taking post graduate work. This speaks well for the University.
 J. D. Courtney, formerly of the college farm, has left our midst and has gone to help Dr. Billings in his work. Peace be to his ashes.
 L. A. Tillson, who will be remembered by many of his old associates here, is now assistant cashier in a bank at Armada, Nebr.
 G. A. Beecher will attend a theological seminary at Philadelphia this year with the intention of becoming an Episcopal clergyman.
 A student was heard to remark that he no longer doubted the theory of evolution—that he recognized in Mr. Webber the missing link.
 The chemical laboratory is now what its name indicates, the botany and physics departments having been removed to the new building.
 Some thoughtless persons called out the fire department Tuesday night by setting fire to a great pile of rubbish in the street near the University campus.
 H. P. Kerr will not be back in the University. He has a position with the Western Engineering company, and is at work on the Omaha electric motor line.
 T. S. Allen's genial face was seen about the halls last week. He is one of the gentlemen that "got in a hole," in the literal sense of the term, last year.
 The University may well congratulate herself in securing Professor Kingsley. One of his former students, Mr. Helvie, came with him to continue biological work.
 The great number of new students this year is almost alarming; the halls are full of them. We fear that the librarians patience will be taxed in breaking them in while in the reading room; but new students are a necessary commodity, and THE HESPERIAN bids them a hearty welcome.
