If a man pays his debts promptly his creditors are apt to give him credit for being honest. They do not ask any questions as to how he got his money. But there is such a thing as robbing Peter to pay Paul and the fact that a man pays his debts is only one side of the question. He is entitled to credit for doing that of course. There is some merit in paying what you owe, but it is at most only a half tone picture of a man's character. The dark side may be dark indeed. The unseen side may spoil the picture of a dull face. If he grinds and oppresses other and exhorts the money which he pays his debts he is not even an honest man. We have to look all around a man to see whether he is honest or not.

GENOA.

From the Times. Miss Lizzie Green returned home Tuesday from a visit with friends in Columbus.

Byron Compton returned Wednesday morning from Lawton, Oklahoma, where he went three weeks ago to visit his uncle.

Nels Larson, so it is reported, has received a letter from his son Charlie notifying him of his marriage to a young lady living near Brale City, South Dakota. The parents of the girl opposed the union. But as usual love laughs at parental opposition, and one night Charlie saddled a couple of mules he had been breaking the gumbo prairie with on his farm near Pukwana and eloped with his girl to Chamberlain where the knot was tied. The young couple are now in the south on their honeymoon trip, but expect to come to Genoa and run Nel's farm if he and his wife spend next summer in Sweden, as now planned.

She has an engagement with Sones's band as soloist and is compelled to get back to New York. Later in the season she will make a tour with the Thomas orchestra, of Chicago, and besides that she has several other important dates, which taken altogether promise to make this a very busy year for her.

Lightening caused two thousand dollars worth of damage for W. D. Marsh at the Aher farm Friday night. During the storm, which came up about nine o'clock, a bolt of lightning struck the big barn, 54x56 feet, and by the time Mr. Marsh and his hired hand could get out doors the whole building was in flames. Four head of horses and the same number of cows were in the barn and they were all burned, though one horse was got out with difficulty, but not until it had been burned so badly that it had to be killed.

P. C. Jensen's implement shop was fired Sunday evening about ten o'clock, but the timely arrival of the fire ladders prevented serious damage to the building or stock. The blaze evidently started from a basket of shaving saturated with coal oil which had been placed in a corner of the rear part of the building. The fire bug entered through a window which he had broken. The fire was discovered by Roy Clark, who happened to be in his father's feed store across the street and he immediately gave the alarm. But small damage was done by fire.

The new cement walks at the school yard are being put in this week, and they will add much to the appearance of the property. It is understood that a crossing will be put in to connect them with the walks south, which will also be cemented, as Mr. Sutton has let the contract for walks along his residence property. In a few years the wooden walks from the depot to the school grounds will be replaced with cement.

At a meeting of the village board last Friday evening the bids for the construction of the water work were opened. The meeting lasted until after midnight and resulted in awarding the contract to the Katz-Orag Construction company of Omaha for $6,500. This includes the installing of all machinery and everything except the wells, hose and hose cars.

Eugene Bacon will put down the wells, the price being $375, but they are to be six inch wells and over fifty feet apart and equipped with the latest improved brass points, which are quite expensive. The representative of the construction company stated that it would require about sixty days to secure the material and the system would be ready to turn over to the village about December 1. There was some talk of substituting wrought iron mains for cast iron pipe which was laid. The first plans proposed eleven blocks of mains, but in order to be within the appropriation it was cut down to ten. A hose cart was also purchased and 350 feet of hose, but the amount of hose will soon be increased to at least 500 feet. The town board have had a good deal to contend with in this matter, but they are earnestly endeavoring to see that the village gets their money's worth.

Monday evening Mrs. McRae was driving alone near the Catholic church when an approaching automobile frightened her horse, and in attempting to turn around to avoid it, a too sharp turn overturned the buggy, and threw the horse to the ground. Mrs. McRae was thrown to the ground dislocating her shoulder and bruising her quite severely. Passers-by secured the horse before it could struggle to its feet, and after righting things, it was found very little damage was done to the rig.

FROM THE ARGUS.

Clara Hohl returned from her outing in Wyoming, Friday of last week. She talks like she never had so good a time before—riding, driving and going somewhere every day. She came home just a few days when she left to visit her grandma, north of Fremont, till school begins.

Deputy Sheriff Dawson of Lancaster county, was in the city Friday of last week, with a warrant for Dr. Burras. It seems that his number on an auto down in Lincoln, ran down and killed some paties. As the doctor is not here and has not been for three weeks, and his auto has been safely stored in the garage here, there is some mistake about the matter.

We are assured that the marriage of George Logan to Miss Daisy Cash is a fact. The wedding occurred at the home of the bride in Geneva, Saturday morning, Milton and Manly, brothers of the groom, attending the wedding. They left at once for Lincoln, where Mr. Logan is employed. Owing to the poor health of the bride they will not attempt house-keeping, but will take rooms for a short time.

TRY THIS ORANGE CUSTARD.
Confection That Will Be Appreciated on a Hot Day.

A delightful dessert, called orange custard, is made by taking the juice of a sweet orange and half the rind, which has been boiled until tender. After it has cooled and has been beaten in a mortar, a teaspoonful of brandy should be added with the orange juice, half a cup or more of granulated sugar and the yolks of four eggs. Into this mixture is poured two cups of boiled cream or rich milk, and the whole beaten until the custard is cold; then it should be poured into custard cups, with a bit of preserved orange placed on the top of each cup, and served at once or set away to cool.

Butter and orange juice is prepared by mixing the juice of three sweetened oranges with as many teaspoonfuls of rose water, then adding the well-beaten yolks of six eggs, the whites of four and two cupfuls of powdered sugar. The mixture should be stirred over a slow fire till it thickens, then a tablespoonful of butter should be poured into a dessert dish and set away to cool.

The outlook for a heavy crop of corn is very flattering. We have had plenty of rain in the past two or three weeks, the weather has been of the "growing" kind and corn never responded faster. Nothing but an unreasonable frost can head off a fine crop now.

Patrick Foley died at his home yesterday (Thursday) afternoon. Mr. Foley has been ailing for some time with a complication of troubles, and while his demise was somewhat sudden, it was not unexpected. The funeral was held from St. Joseph's church (Saturday) at 10 o'clock a. m.

We are reliably informed that the son of Dick Jones, who had his ankle out in a snowing machine a few weeks ago and was taken to the hospital at Columbus, has progressed so far towards recovery that he will be permitted to return home the latter part of this week. It is expected that in a short time his ankle will be entirely cured, with no stiffness or lameness.

About a dozen of the ladies composing the Ladies' Aid Society of the Lutheran church in the Carsten Peterson neighborhood, came to town last Thursday afternoon and surprised Mrs. Lew Hoare by calling on her in a bunch, it being her birthday anniversary. They brought plenty of good things to eat, which were spread on the lawn, and they proceeded to spend an enjoyable afternoon.

HUMPHREY.

From the Democrat. Miss Lizzie Sheehan of Columbus was in town Monday, the guest of the O'Condon-Ottis families.

Louie Schroeder, jr., of Columbus was in town the first of the week calling on friends and relatives.

A two and a half year old daughter of John Melcher, northwest of town, died last Friday evening from the effects of fly killer poison. The little one was discovered playing with the cans containing the poison and was quite drowsy. His parents as soon as they discovered what had been done, did what they could and sent to a neighbor to call Dr. Metz. He soon arrived and done all that could be done without avail as she passed away the same evening.

Thomas Ottis, one of the earliest settlers of this neighborhood, died Monday morning, Aug. 17, at his home in this city at 3:30 o'clock after a protracted illness of nine months. In November last year Mr. Ottis had the misfortune to fall a victim to a severe stroke of paralysis which rendered him speechless and practically helpless. But notwithstanding this great misfortune which came over him he was always able to look on the bright side of everything and extract a great deal of enjoyment from life as time went by. A few days ago an old trouble, which has bothered him for a number of years and for which he submitted to two operations during the last two or three years, reappeared and as he was not strong enough to withstand another operation, it was known by his friends and relatives that he could not live long and all they could do was to make the few remaining days as comfortable and pleasant for him as possible. He breathed his last peacefully, surrounded by members of his family, fortified with the sacraments, blessings and prayers of his church, strong in the Christian faith which has ever been the chief motive of his life.

THE PICNIC LUNCH
REALLY THE STAR FEATURE OF DAY'S OUTING.
Proper Arrangement and Packing of Food Necessary if One Would Have the Feast Tempting and Palatable.

Too much luggage spoils the picnic, and yet the little feast is the star feature of the day. How, then, to carry enough to eat, and at the same time have it look tempting?
There is a hamper made of light-weight wicker and yet strong enough to stand the wear of many outings in the woods.
A telescope shape is easy to handle and its size can be regulated to fit the contents so readily that the woman who thinks ahead and of the party's return is sure to choose this style instead of the square or oblong hamper made after the fashion of the English tea basket.
Straw cases for bottles, cups and glasses are superior in many ways to leather ones. The lighter covering may not wear so well as the others, but it looks much cooler. Hamper fittings can be bought separately and tucked away in a plain basket, and if well packed no danger of breakage need be feared.
Wooden plates are really much more picnicy than china. If sandwiches and cakes are placed on plates when the basket is being arranged and each one is wrapped first in a napkin wrung out in ice water, then in baker's or paraffine paper the food will be kept perfectly fresh, and it can be placed at once on the picnic table when the time for luncheon has arrived. Lettuce leaves that have been packed loosely in a linen bag thoroughly dampened with ice water will help to give the luncheon table a fresh, cool and inviting air and they can be used to garnish the plates of cold meats and salads. This is an excellent way to carry green salads, and if the dressing is made just before starting and carried in a bottle, or the ingredients packed so that the dressing can be mixed by the salad expert while the luncheon is being spread out, the salad will be fresh and crisp.
Tiny cones of salt and pepper, one packet for each member of the party, are easier to carry and much less trouble than to take along a set of shakers.
There are such perfect ways now of carrying hot or cold liquids and keeping them at their original temperature that few picnic parties bother with making tea or coffee at the grounds. A basket that is well packed with edibles which have been properly chilled before starting seldom gets warm and messy if it is handled carefully and kept out of the sun. Plates and cups can be kept on the ice for a while before they are tucked away in the hamper and they will stay cold for some time.
Tinned and bottled foods are best taken in small lots so that they can be opened as needed and the empty boxes or bottles thrown away at once. Having a number of things in this way goes away with passing the food from one end of the table or luncheon cloth to the other. Paper napkins are good enough for the average outdoor function of this kind. They should, however, be supplied in quantities so that they may be used for covering the plates, for wiping off dust and for cleaning the dishes after the meal is over.
Man Must Think to Live.
The decay of any real power of thinking is an adequate explanation of a deal of the early mortality of prosperous middle life. The business man of 40 is often content to live in the mere practice, as a matter of habit, of what he has acquired. He eats and drinks too much, and the higher brain centers waste for want of exercise. He dies from stupidity; there is nothing left to keep him alive.—London Lancet.
