MANY YEARS AGO.

Files of the Journal, October 7, 1874. C. G. Hickok has opened a fruit stand on Olive street, opposite the post office. Hon. A. J. Arnold showed us a genuine English Falcon, which he brought down on Friday morning last, when the bird was in pursuit of his neighbor's pigeons. He intends to prepare and keep the bird. Republicans should remember that in Platte county elections are gained sometimes by only one or two votes. Be active. Be vigilant. See that every republican voter is at the polls. Don't let a little bad weather keep you at home on the 13th of October. Deposit your vote first and give the weather over to the gentle zephyrs of Nebraska. In 1874 elections were held in October instead of November.

Messrs. Bonastel Bros. have nearly completed their brick business house on Nebraska Avenue. The building is three stories high, including the basement, is 22x30 feet, has an iron front. When finished it will be an ornament to the Avenue, and will make one of the best business houses in the city. The erection of such a building in times like the present, shows enterprise of no ordinary degree. This building is the north portion of Friedhof & Co's store.

The Kindergarten.

Every child who is now five years old, or will be five years old by January 1, should be in one of the kindergartens. The training received in the various games, hand work, sense training, word and sound drill toward the end of the year is an indispensable preparation for the work of the first grade. Pupils who have the kindergarten work always surpass those who have not had it, not only in the first grade but in the grades that follow. All children who are of proper age should start now, in order that they may have the advantage of as much of this foundation work as possible. Very truly,
U. S. Cox, Supt.

Public Meeting.

A meeting of the citizens of Columbus and especially the business men of the city, is called for Monday evening, Oct. 12, 1908, at 7:30 o'clock, at the council chamber, for the purpose of considering and discussing several matters of great interest to our city. A large attendance is desired.

G. W. PHILLIPS, Mayor.

Neither the summer sun nor wintry winds have tanned Mrs. Ruth Kenyon a woman delegate to the letter carriers' convention, and well known all over the United States for her persistence in delivering mail, rain or shine, along her rural route. "I have not missed a day since I went on over six years ago," said Mrs. Kenyon, whose run of thirty-three miles a day is out of Monroe, Neb. "Five years ago the thermometer sank to 40 below, but I was after a record and kept on. My hands were frozen, but I was able to work next day just the same. In saying I have not missed a day I don't mean conventions, which the last few years I have invariably attended. Then one day last winter a blizzard was blowing sixty miles an hour over the prairie and my customers did not get their mail that day. I don't think that ought to count either, for I rode into town on horseback and the postmaster would not give me the mail, saying that on account of the wind it could not be handled. "I have been in one runaway during these years and have come near being in many more, for my horses are awfully skittish about automobiles. Seems as if they can't get used to them and on a stretch of improved road near Monroe there are a good many chugging in the summer time. The season is nearly over and I am mighty glad. "Yes, I take care of my own horses, six of them, every night. We are only required to have four, but I can use the other two to advantage even if there is no extra money for their keep. I live at a farm house with my father and mother, who are getting old and my father rents out the farm. "We are going to have a good convention, don't you think? There seems to be a good many coming, at all events." Mrs. Kenyon is a comparatively young woman and gowned in a tailor-made suit of red cloth trimmed with black garnishing of some kind or other.—Omaha Bee.

Rev. L. R. DeWolf, who has been pastor of the M. E. church in the city for the past four years, has been assigned the pastorate of the Seward Street M. E. church of Omaha, by the conference, which was held in Stanton a few days ago. He went to Omaha Saturday, where he preached his first sermon Sunday. He then returned to this city the following day to complete arrangements for moving his household effects to his new field of labor. He and his estimable family will leave for Omaha some time during the week to remain permanently. It is, indeed, with much regret that people in general must part with Rev. DeWolf and family and it is largely through their efforts that the Columbus church has grown and flourished as it has. During Rev. DeWolf's pastorate the church has been remodelled and is almost free from incumbrance. He will also be missed in the ranks of the firemen and fraternal orders, where he took a very active part. In his church work he was always stayer and just and during his stay in our midst the people in general loved him, not only for the many good lessons he taught us but for his noble traits of character as well. Rev. DeWolf's successor is Rev. D. I. Roush, formerly pastor of the M. E. church of Tekamah, and who comes here highly recommended. Rev. Roush conducted services in the M. E. church both morning and evening Sunday.

On September 29, the Nebraska Power Company, which will develop water power from the Loup river, completed its organization by electing the following officers: H. E. Babcock, president; Edson Rich, vice president; John A. Wakefield, secretary and treasurer. The members of the board of directors are as follows: Henry Ragatz, Theodore Friedhof, A. Anderson, J. O. Freyding and H. E. Babcock of Columbus; Edson Rich, Harry E. O'Neill, George B. Tzschuck, W. J. McEachron of Omaha; F. Jaeggi of Berns, Switzerland; A. P. Tilley of Osceola; L. E. Doty of David City; Geo. Townsend of Chicago; Charles P. Davis of Wilmington, Del. Temporary offices have been secured in the New York Life building in Omaha, and negotiations are in progress toward taking over all of the properties and franchises of the old irrigation company, of and pertaining to the Loup river; also negotiations are progressing pertaining to the sale of fifteen thousand horse power to the city of South Omaha for the sum of two million dollars.

Drs. Carstenson and Hyland have let the contract for a brick building to be used when completed by them for a veterinary barn. This building will be erected at the corner of Fourteenth and Kummer streets, and work has already been commenced. For some time there has been much talk about this proposed barn being erected on the vacant lot just east of the Columbus Rag factory, but for some unknown reason, the doctors seemingly changed their plans. The barn will be equipped with the latest improvements, and when completed will be one of the best veterinary barns in the state.

Friends in this city have received announcements of the marriage of Anna Katherine Birby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Birby, formerly of Columbus, to Nels M. Johnson, a son of O. Johnson, formerly of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will be at home at Goodland, Kan., after November 1, where the groom is employed in the telegraph service of the Rock Island railroad.

The public schools were closed Friday afternoon, thus giving the teachers and pupils an opportunity to attend the Frontier Days. St. Francis academy also closed Thursday afternoon for the same purpose. Mayor Phillips has called a public meeting of the business men to be held next Monday evening, October 12, at the council chamber. The depot and bridge questions and sewer and park bond propositions will be discussed. R. S. Palmer has moved his tailor shop, which was formerly located on Olive street, to the building one door south of Friedhof's dry goods store on Platte street. The building which Mr. Palmer has just vacated will be occupied by the Singer Sewing Machine company.

Frontier days, last Thursday and Friday, attracted one of the largest crowds ever seen in Columbus, and the promise made by the management for a first-class show—the same as at Cheyenne—was fulfilled in every respect. Thursday 2500 people were on the grounds, to witness the bucking and roping contests and races. The horse trotting race was one of the features on the program and was won by Gus Becher horse, "Dan Brown," "Cyclone" being second, "Harry Johnson" third and "Freddie O" fourth. The winner of the ladies' relay race, Miss Nicholson, won the applause of the crowd, her handling and riding of the wild horse exciting admiration. The attendance Friday eclipsed that of the day previous and brought a crowd of people that amounted to a regular jam, the branches being especially well represented, over 1,100 people arriving on the two trains. In fact, no such crowd was anticipated, and when the rush came the hotels, restaurants and bus lines were unable to handle them. The dust and wind did not prevent the people from filling all the available space at the race track and also the additional bleachers erected Thursday night. Miss Nicholson, who won the ladies' relay race on Friday was thrown from her horse just as the race started, on account of a broken saddle girth and the horse stepped on her hand, but she luckily remounted and came out winner. The roping, bucking and other outcets on Friday were similar to the day before, but none the less interesting. Such exhibitions are becoming rare, and the men who perform are becoming scarcer as the great grazing lands of the west give way to the man with the hoe and the wire fence. The great plains of the west are being transformed into farms or small grazing tracts and herds of ten thousand steers owned by one man or firm are or will soon be numbered with things that have been. Twenty-five or thirty years ago, when the man with the hoe poked his head over the boundary line of civilization in Texas and encroached upon the domain of the cattle kings, he was promptly shot. But times have now changed. The range where once felled millions of cattle and the cow boy was made as he roped and branded the steer, has been divided and subdivided into farms, and the sod plow and farm house now ornament the land. The domain of the cow boy and wild steer has disappeared, and exhibitions such as were given in Columbus last Thursday and Friday will soon be a novelty even to people of the far west. The rush to register for the Tripp county (S. D.) land drawing is now on. Several Columbus parties have already registered and every train over the Norfolk branch takes out a squad. When the hands of the clock pointed to the midnight hour Sunday, and Monday was ushered in, registering commenced in the different towns designated by the government as registering stations. At O'Neill twenty-nine notaries are at work swearing those who desire a chance for a quarter section in the big lottery. It is estimated that when the word was given that the hour for registration had arrived, five thousand people were in line at the various registering booths at O'Neill and the Northwestern specials were pulling in at intervals of every two hours adding to the crowd. One train, running in four sections from Kansas City, landed 2500 people Monday afternoon. The crowds going up the Northwestern line from Norfolk are even larger than the crowds going west over the same road to O'Neill. The country is to be opened to settlement embraces a tract of land 36 miles wide and 52 miles long. The soil is a deep black loam with clay sub-soil and is covered with a bountiful growth of the finest wild grasses. There are five government townships recommended and all are well located and will attract the eye of the business man and the investor. Each of these townships is surrounded by the best of land and as soon as they are opened to entry to the business man they will spring up as by magic and in a few months will be centers of attraction. Another old settler has answered the final summons. Mrs. Samuel Reinke died at her home, on Route 2, last Thursday afternoon, October 1, 1908, aged 78 years. Deceased was born at Frederickstein, Austria, November 7, 1830. In 1863 she was united in marriage to Joseph Thandel, who died eight years later. In 1877 the widow came to Nebraska and a year later was married to Samuel Reinke. There were four boys from the first marriage, and one boy and one girl from the second marriage. Funeral services were held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock from the Johannes church on Shell creek. Rev. Grauehorst officiating. Mrs. Reinke was a woman with many splendid traits in her character, and will always be remembered with kindness by her friends and neighbors. The many friends of Miss Hedwig Jaeggi will be pleased to learn that she has accepted a position as violinist with the Kimball Trio, a musical organization, which will tour this and surrounding states during the winter. For the past two years Miss Jaeggi has been studying music at the conservatory at Lincoln, and has made rapid progress in her chosen profession. She is at present receiving instruction at the conservatory, and it is her intention to continue her studies after the tour.

George Ryan has returned from Fremont, where he has been employed for the past few months. He will remain here for the present as he has accepted a position as clerk in the grocery store of Brunke & Haney. Former Senator Wm. V. Allen of Madison, was in the city Tuesday on his way home from Genoa where he spoke Monday evening under the auspices of the Bryan club of that place on the political issues of the campaign. Mrs. Watts and son Harry were Omaha visitors several days last week, and while in that city were the guests of the former's daughter, Miss Fay Watts, who formerly lived here, but has for the past year been employed in one of the leading business houses in the metropolis. Julius Roerich drew off fine of $15 and trimmings in Police Judge O'Brien's court Monday morning for raising a disturbance, Saturday night. He came home drunk and began abusing the family, finally becoming so loud that the police were called by the neighbors, and he was looked up. The contract for remodeling the St. Bonaventura church has been given to Charles Wardman of this city, and work will be commenced upon the building as soon as possible. Much of the required material is now upon the grounds. Improvements to the amount of $20,000 will be added to the present structure. As a result of trouble Saturday night Julius Roerich has been sued for a divorce by his wife. She alleges cruelty, and asks for the custody of their child and that she be given a clear title to the property owned by them. A temporary injunction was granted restraining him from occupying their home or in any way interfering with her. Otis Johnson of Monroe, who has been in the county jail the last ten days awaiting trial on a charge of adultery, decided to plead guilty rather than remain in jail, as he was unable to secure bond, was up before Judge Thomas Tuesday morning and was fined $100 and cost, which in all amounts to $138. This he paid and was released. The case was quite a serious one and while the defendant got off with a fine, it will be a good lesson to him. The Parker Carnival company closed a very successful week's entertainment in this city Saturday evening. The company occupied all the available vacant lots near the North opera house and several of their attractions were placed in the street. The first of the week was somewhat disagreeable owing to the weather, but the latter part proved to be very pleasant, and consequently large crowds gathered on the grounds to witness the different shows, both afternoon and evening. The shows and different amusements were very good, and of the class that compose the modern carnival. For several months past the Presbyterian church of this city has been without a permanent pastor. Ministers from several different places have been conducting services in the church during this time. A call was extended to Rev. Samuel Harkness of Artesian, South Dakota, and we are pleased to state that he has accepted the same. He will arrive in Columbus some time during the week and will conduct services in the Presbyterian church both morning and evening this coming Sunday. A cordial welcome is extended to the public to attend any and all of the services. It was in the year of 1857 that the immortal Richard Wagner first conceived his idea relating to the grand possibilities contained in the legend of the "Holy Grail" for a wonderful spectacle and drama. It was not until twenty-five years later, namely 1882, that his idea was carried out to his satisfaction and the world was given the glorious work of "Parsifal." It is said that his first intention was to present "Parsifal" simply as a dramatic production, but was induced later to change his mind and produce it in combination music form. By his doing so, the world gained two grand productions instead of the one. It will forever remain as the grandest of all music compositions. It will as surely stand for all time as the grandest drama ever written. It requires a trained mind, a cultivated musician, to enjoy the music of Wagner. One must thoroughly understand a thing to equally enjoy it. But the simplest tyro in dramatic experience can understand the exquisite story of "Parsifal" and understanding, cannot fail to enjoy it. It is this very quality, simplicity, of the story, and plot, that endears the play of "Parsifal" to the hearts and souls of all those who witness it. There are no social problems to dissect, neither are there any intricate or mysterious actions seen on the part of any of the characters in the play. But as a spectacle that appeals to the visual senses, as a play that in its very naturalness, soulful heart interest, absorbing and thrilling plot that brings the color to the cheeks with healthy excitement, that quickens the heart's action with every ennobling instinct and interest watching the gradual unfolding of the beautiful story, it stands without a peer in the dramatic firmament. Such is "Parsifal," the play that required a quarter of a century of its author genius' life to make it what it is today—the drama of the world. The Parsifal engagement here is for one performance at the North Theatre, Oct. 14.
