

Great Heat with Little Fuel

"NOVEL SUPERIOR" Reversible Flue Heater

In selecting a heating stove, it is natural to seek one that produces the greatest amount of heat with the least fuel, that is easy to regulate, cleanly in operation, and possessing desirable features.

The "NOVEL SUPERIOR" fulfils all the above requirements and is indeed one of the best heating stoves ever constructed for obtaining good results in the use of coal.

Very little coal is needed to operate, the combustion is perfect, and the distribution of heat uniform.

The NOVEL SUPERIOR is built upon a new original plan.

Route No. 4.

J. C. Dawson was transacting business in Columbus Tuesday.

Farmers on this route have nearly all finished husking corn.

Mrs. Ohos Cunningham of Grand Island was visiting Miss Susan Bray.

Walker.

G. W. Swanson has gone to Genoa for a visit.

We had a thunder storm Sunday evening. Not much rain fell.

John Swanson's family visited in Boone county Sunday afternoon.

Otto Olson of Newman Grove was out in Walker township with his automobile Saturday. He went as far as St. Edward.

Farmers in this locality are all done picking corn. They have had unusually fine weather for gathering the crop.

F. W. Carlson of Newman Grove is up on his farm in Walker township putting up hog fencing and otherwise improving his property.

Route No. 3.

Miss Mary Lange is visiting friends at St. Edward.

J. F. Gooden was at St. Edward last week looking after business matters.

Mrs. L. E. Seefeld spent Sunday at Monroe with her daughter, Mrs. O. B. Preston.

The young people on the route enjoyed themselves at the home of D. Brunken last Saturday evening.

August Brunken is making preparations to go to Portland, Ore., where he expects to make his future home.

In speaking of the runaway accident last week, we said that Fred Brunken was in it. This was an error, as it should have been Henry Brunken.

John Randall, the retiring road overseer of District 1, has been doing some excellent work on the Meridian line and also on the road west, grading them from Columbus to the north side of the township. Mr. Randall has made an excellent road overseer and we predict that at some time in the future he may hold that position again.

Route No. 1.

Henry Lueschen, jr., has a very sick boy.

Adolph Mueller is building an addition to his house.

Ed Lueschen took first prize for yellow corn at the corn show last Saturday.

Henry Lueschen, sr., had the misfortune to break his arm last Monday, the accident occurring while he was feeding cattle.

Miss Lillian Devlin, who was at the hospital for an operation, is out again.

and has so far recovered as to be able to ride to town.

Joseph Hengler and family, who have been visiting here the last week, returned Sunday to their home near Stockville, Frontier county.

Mrs. R. E. Amigh and daughter, Miss Olive, who have been visiting Mrs. Amigh's daughter, Mrs. G. E. Devlin, expect to remain until after the holidays before returning to their home in Johnston, Pa.

Route No. 5.

S. O. Podraza and John Jahn marketed grain this week.

This week will finish the corn husking on route No. 5.

Carrier No. 5 received a sack of oats for his Thanksgiving present.

A. W. Kummer and C. A. Church were building fence this week.

Harold Cookson and Miss Nellie Nichols were married at Bellwood last Monday.

Mrs. Lola Latham of New Orleans, La., is a guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. F. L. Hahn.

W. A. Wade marketed twenty-one Thanksgiving turkeys, the market price being fifteen cents per pound.

Frank Hennings, who has been at Osceola for two or three weeks, came home to haul his wheat crop to market.

Miss Mary Sullivan and Dean Effer of Omaha returned home last Friday after a visit at the home of F. L. Hahn.

School in the Thomas district closed last Monday on account of the resignation of the teacher, Miss Emma Gerhold.

A little road work yet remains to be done before cold weather. The Clear creek bridge, near Frank Tschanner's and J. E. Hahn's, needs the approaches graded and banked up.

The south channel bridge across the Platte, near Kuenzli's, has been replanked and the ends graded up. It is a very creditable job and puts the bridge in good condition for winter.

MANY YEARS AGO.

Files of the Journal November 25, 1874. At this place, during the past week, a variety of weather prevailed. Rain, followed by a quiet, gentle snow, with one or two tolerably cold days, making very nice winter weather.

Wm. Burgess, U. S. agent for the Pawnee, called at the Journal office Monday morning on business. We learned from him that he would start for the Indian territory, leaving here Monday last. In our opinion the department could not have selected a more suitable person for locating the new reserve.

We learn from the Grand Island Independent that the citizens are about organizing a party for a grand buffalo hunt, to start from Grand Island next Monday. About fifty teams and one hundred men will be needed to join the party. Hunters will regard this party as a nice chance for rare sport and by distributing the proceeds among the homeless grasshopper sufferers will make glad the heart of many a generous hunter.

No man can deny the fact that there is pluck in the citizens of Nebraska. There is a determination, a vim, that is very appropriate in times like the present. A gentleman has just stepped out of our sanctum, the father of a family, who lost many a dollar by a grasshopper raid, who does not know where his winter's fuel is coming from, who wears his old clothes, cuts down his grocery bills, and remains hopeful through all that Providence which has cared for him hitherto will not fail him in the time of need.

ACTUAL STARVATION.

Pollock & Co. the Druggists Give Facts Regarding Dyspepsia.

Although indigestion and Dyspepsia are so prevalent, most people do not thoroughly understand their cause and cure. There is no reason why people should not eat anything they desire—if they will only chew it carefully and thoroughly. Many actually starve themselves into sickness through fear of eating every good-looking, good-smelling and good-tasting food, because it does not agree with them.

Dieting cannot cure Dyspepsia. If we refuse every article of food that disagrees with us, before long we have nothing left, and find ourselves chronic dyspeptics.

We can cure Dyspepsia. We are so confident of this fact that we guarantee a cure, and promise to supply the medicine free of all cost to everyone who will use it, who is not perfectly satisfied with the results which it produces. We exact no promises, and put no one under obligation whatever. Surely, nothing could be fairer. We are located right here in Columbus, and our reputation should be sufficient assurance of our offer.

We want everyone in Columbus who is troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia in any form to come to our store and get a box of Bezal Dyspepsia tablets. Take them home and give them a reasonable trial, according to directions. They are very pleasant to take; they soothe the irritable stomach, strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, promote a healthy and natural bowel action, immediately relieve nausea and all stomach irritation, produce perfect and healthy digestion and assimilation, and promote nutrition.

A 25c. package of Bezal Dyspepsia Tablets furnishes 15 days' treatment. In ordinary cases, this is sufficient to produce a cure. In more chronic cases, a longer treatment, of course, is necessary, and depends upon the severity of the trouble. For such cases, we have two larger sizes which sell for 45c and 85c. Entitled to Admission.

Rev. Edward Everett Hale, chaplain of the senate, went over to the state department a short time ago to see Secretary Root. He didn't know it was diplomatic day at the department, when only diplomats are received during certain hours.

He started to go into Secretary Root's office when a messenger stopped him.

"Are you a foreign minister?" "No," replied Dr. Hale, "I am a domestic minister," and that settled that.

Colonial Holidays

THE open fireplace, the crackling logs, the moaning chestnut, the jingle of sleighbells, the snow-mantled guests!

The festive board—the spotted linen—the quaint, old china, the family silver brought from its hiding place! The pride in that silver!

And now—your family silver? Is it the "Colonial" made in the historic old town of Newburyport, Massachusetts? If so, you have equal pride in yours.

This splendid pattern in Sterling Silver reflects all the courtesy and dignity which your great-grandfather led the cottages and the hospitable of the feast.

Are you prepared for your Holiday carving? We propose a bird set in the "Colonial" for your own use, or as an acceptable gift. Made in a complete table service.

ABANDON THEIR OLD CUSTOM.

Peruvian Women Replace Sombor Headgear with Colors.

As the visitors from the American fleet went about in Lima, one change, national in character, impressed itself upon them immediately. Every writer on Peru has commented on the fact that the headdress of the women, worn universally, is the black manta. It is said that it is a relic that has come down from the Incas when they put on mourning for their great chief Atahualpa. Rich and poor have worn that headdress on the street for centuries. It was an established institution.

Well, it is going. About one-half of the women, some of them in good circumstances evidently, wore mantas on the streets, but as for the rest—well, a man has no business to write about women's hats. All that this man can say is that he never saw more dashing specimens of flower gardens than those bobbing around over the graceful drapery with which the Peruvian women adorn themselves.

Thus does fashion war successfully upon established custom. The Peruvian woman loves a beautiful hat just as much as any other woman on earth. Moreover, what is said about her surpassing beauty is true. Given great beauty and the love of a hat on the part of a woman—what chance has a black manta got? The manta has got to go and is going. Truly this is a world of change and there are those who will say it is one of decay, but let no one breathe that in a fashionable millinery shop in Lima.

Another Joke.

Down the street he dashed with his hair flying in the breeze.

"The bitter end!" he shouted wildly. "The bitter end!"

"He's going to jump off the bridge!" shouted one of his pursuers.

"Catch him!" yelled another.

And after a dozen men had tumbled over one another trying to round him up they found him calm and smiling.

"What's the matter with you?" they demanded.

"Nothing," he responded mildly.

"Well, what about the bitter end?" "Here it is, gentlemen. The end of a Pittsburgh stogie. I am selling these stogies to-day at ten cents for five and with each stogie you get a genuine Chile diamond."

But 20 determined men rushed him and his stogies down into the tunnel and left him.—Chicago News.

The Amenity of Tennyson.

An American young lady—the daughter of an ambassador—who was exceedingly anxious to meet the laureate, was given the chance to fulfill her eager hope one night at a soiree. After she had been introduced to him the following dialogue began:

Tennyson—You are American? Girl—Yes.

Tennyson—You know Walt Whitman?

Girl—No.

Tennyson—Then you don't know the only man worth knowing in America.

Whereupon the laureate turned away and the interview was over.—The Conservator.

Naming the Baby.

The naming of a baby is considered important even among people whom we are apt to regard as uncivilized. And, curiously enough, these very folk contrive to avoid the arguments that so often ensue when father and mother disagree over whether the little stranger shall be called Jack or Marmaduke, Priscilla or Jane.

The Mahometan father and mother each write the choice of a name on a slip of paper and place both in the Koran. Whichever slip is drawn first is the name given to the child.

A pretty Egyptian custom is to light three candles, naming each after a god or some exalted personage. The child is called after the candle which burns longest.

Hindu mothers name their children, paterfamilias not having a word to say in the matter. The naming ceremony usually takes place when the baby is about 12 days old, and a flower name is usually chosen.

Chinese girls are simply numbered one, two, or three, until they reach years of discretion, when they are allowed to choose a name for themselves. The boys, however, are given a temporary name until they are 20, when a permanent name is chosen. The parents then rejoice in the rest of their lives.—N. Y. Weekly.

Ignorance of the Bible.

Biblical allusions, which permeate our literature, touch no responsive chord in the majority of college students nowadays, writes Prof. W. L. Cross, in Education. Though some of them are fairly familiar with names like Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Samson, David and Daniel, very few know anything about the lives of these men as related in the scriptures. Not long ago, to recall an extreme case, not one of 40 students under my instruction could quite place Judas Iscariot; and a venerable colleague of mine discovered a Jew among the seniors who had never heard of Moses. To lift the burden of this ignorance, several colleges have recently incorporated parts of the Old Testament into their most elementary courses in English with great success from the standpoint both of the student and of the instructor. But a knowledge of the Bible obviously belongs to an earlier stage than this. It is a pity that political and religious considerations stand in the way of introducing into the public schools an available body of splendid literature. Fortunately, politics and prejudice cannot hamper many of the large preparatory schools.

Her Sublime Admiration.

"Oh, dear, will you look at it again?" sighed Mrs. Howard Newcome in an ecstasy of bliss. "Isn't it magnificent? Turn this way now. A side glance brings out the traditional beauty. I have never seen anything so perfectly exquisite. Dear, do come over here and look at it from this view. One would never believe that such a lovely thing existed in the world. The perspective is simply grand. How inspiring and noble. Here is another view from the right. Doesn't it show off even to better advantage? I am simply entranced with admiration!"

What is Mrs. Newcome looking at? Some masterpiece in a picture gallery?

No, indeed. It is an old kitchen chair she purchased at a second-hand store, which she thinks is a "genuine antique."—The Bohemian.
