ITEMS OF INTEREST

LEIGH.

From the World.

Dr. and Mrs. E. Highland were over from Columbus several days the first of the week.

Otto Thaden recently marketed seven hogs in Clarkson for which he received the sum of $129, but Henry Frank says he has Otto skinned a mile for this week he received $117 for five hogs on the Leigh market.

The large barn belonging to Adolf Groteluschen, who lives south of Leigh, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday evening. Five calves, several sets of harness and a considerable amount of hay were lost and the granary, containing corn also burned to the ground. The origin of the fire is unknown but it is supposed that it started in the hay mow. The loss is a heavy one for Mr. Groteluschen as his insurance on the property had expired just two days previous to the fire, unknown to him. The neighbors rallied to his assistance in a very short time but were unable to save anything.

BELLWOOD.

While on our rounds through Savannah assessing we find that hog cholera played havoc in many herds last fall. Some lost as many as 150.

Mrs. Albina Curtis, who gave birth to twins—a boy and girl—about three weeks ago, is again able to be around at her home. The babies lived but three hours.

Cal. Galwick, who served two terms as county treasurer of Butler county, died on Friday before last at Monrovia, California, where he went for the purpose of benefiting his health. His body was brought home to Brainard for burial.

Farmers in some neighborhoods are organizing what is known as the "Brotherhood of Road Druggers" and assume an obligation to keep a certain stretch of road in good condition for one year, says the Lyons Sun. At their meetings different methods of doing road work are debated and considered. Nothing costs the farmers of this county so much money as poor roads.

GENOA.

From the Times.

The heavy wind which prevailed Wednesday night started a box car in motion somewhere up the Albion line and it passed through Genoa about 11 going at the rate of 30 miles per hour. The car stopped at Osceola.

Married, in Genoa, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. William O. Pugsley, on Wednesday, May 5, 1909, Miss Fay A. Pugsley to Robert B. Beer, Rev. Joseph J. Parker, of Kearney, officiating.

From an Omaha paper we note that Uncle Sam has ruled that a rural carrier does not have to leave his wagon to deposit mail in the box and that unless the farmers fix up suitable boxes they will get no mail hereafter. Postmaster Thomas, of Omaha, has so notified his rural carriers. The intention of the law

MONROE.

From the Republican.

Born, May the 2nd an eleven pound girl to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thomas.

Mrs. J. F. Magill and little son Morris Allen, arrived home Monday from Columbus, where they have been visiting with relatives.

Miss Hester Hill, deputy in the post office, is taking a vacation this week and Mrs. Vestal Moore is taking her place in the post office.

Henry Clayburn shipped out three cars of cattle and hogs last week that netted him nearly $3,200. Henry will invest some of it in a new barn, J. T. Smith will do the building.

The new village board met Monday evening and organized for the coming year, electing H. J. Hill, chairman; L. Franklin, clerk; and Lin Riley, treasurer, the same officers as last year.

W. H. Groves, accompanied by his brother, left last Friday for Portland, Ore., where they will look for a location and should they find one suitable, expect to remain there permanently.

Mrs. Jacob Smyer and daughter M. Mabel, went to Kearney Wednesday where they will visit at the home of her daughter Mrs. Will Craig. Mr. Smyer went to Kearney last Friday and will accompany them home.

J. W. McCusker, who has been Union Pacific agent at Monroe for some time was checked out Monday of this week and goes to Omaha, where he will be assigned to a main line station. He is succeeded by V. J. Conklin, who is transferred here from Tarnov.

Next Monday evening the board of education will meet to elect the remaining three teachers for the coming year. Miss Candace Brown, who has had charge of the primary department, will not be an applicant again this year, and that will leave three vacancies to be filled. Miss Bennett, the principal, will no doubt be re-elected, as her work has been very good.

PLATTE CENTER.

From the Signal.

The six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lohoff was taken to Columbus last Monday for treatment. The child has been ailing for some time and medical treatment so far has not improved her condition materially.

On Tuesday a Polish boy some 16 years whose name we did not learn, was riding a colt at the Niemoeller farm near Monroe, when the colt threw him off and either stepped on or kicked him on the top of his head, making a cut about three inches long, clear to the skull.

A large flock of pelicans flew over the west part of town Wednesday morning. The pelican is a very large bird, white with black trimmings, and in the sun light that morning they looked as large as sheep. Ed Bacon took a shot at them and made one of them turn around and take the back track.

The question of an electric light plant for Platte Center was discussed at the meeting of the village board Monday evening. It is believed that with flowing wells of the proper size sunk on the M. E. C. farm, sufficient water can be obtained to turn a water wheel which will run a dynamo of sufficient size to furnish lights for our streets, business houses and residences.

FULLERTON.

From the News-Journal.

Chasney Wilcox sold his big St. Bernard dog to parties in Boston. The dog weighed 220 pounds. He was shipped to his new owners yesterday.

A deputy United States marshal came to Fullerton last Friday and arrested Frank Macey, a comparative stranger here who was working up members for the Modern Brotherhood insurance lodge. He was charged with illegally using the mails. The federal judge gave him 60 days in jail. At the same time he arrested Mrs. Uzendowski, a Polish woman for using cancelled stamps. She gave bonds and will have a hearing later.

The Gould land and cattle company of Nebraska has brought suit against the Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone Co. to recover $5,300 damage over a mistake a "hello girl" made in sending a message for the above company. The message given to the girl for transmission read: "Ship 400 head of cattle to Wamsutter on the 9th." But the girl made it read "Ship 400 head of cattle to Wolcott tonight." The telephone company asserts that the Gould company being a Nebraska corporation and never having filed with the secretary of state its acceptance of the provisions of the Wyoming constitution, as is provided by law has no right to bring a suit in that state.

SILVER CREEK.

From the Standard.

Wednesday last week Ned Powers, son of C. N. Powers, was taken to the Columbus hospital for treatment for rapture. His mother was down to see him Sunday and his sister Lorna was down yesterday. His condition is improving.

Margaret, wife of Anton Evon, or Iwan who live in Polk county seven miles east of Silver Creek, was killed Thursday by a vicious bull. Her body was badly crushed and bruised. But little is known of the affair except that the old lady had taken the cattle out on the meadow to herd. She returned to the house about 9 o'clock and collapsed. A Shelly doctor was called, but she died about 1 o'clock. Mrs. Evon was about 60 years of age. The funeral was held at the Polish church near by at 9 a. m. Saturday.

Mrs. Charles Wooster, who signed a receipt for railroad tickets and money, saying she accepted them in good faith for the purpose of returning to her husband, has been more or less criticized for the act. Now comes Mr. Wooster and almost wholly excuses her from personal responsibility for what appeared on its face to be a very dishonorable act. He says that he learned yesterday that the action was taken by Mrs. Wooster on the advice of her attorneys, and that the blame rests on her legal advisers instead of upon her. He regrets the position she allowed herself to be placed in and wants the above fully understood.

Literature the Last Resort.

People resort to literature exactly in proportion as they are unable to make a living any other way. Literature as a symptom of financial despair has received far too little consideration at the hands of economists.—Philadelphia Evening Post.

Handy Ink Eradicator.

When a blot occurs and the ink eraser is not at hand use a bit of the emery board which comes for manufacturing the nails. It is quick and effective, but care must be taken to work gently so as not to make a hole in the paper.

Awful Confession.

"Mother," said the repentant, "I've a dreadful thing to confess to you. Last night, when you told me to lie down in bed, I lied down, but after you turned out the gas I grounded my teeth at you in the dark!"

Amor Vincit Omnia.

Mother—"And when he proposed, did you tell him to see me?" Daughter—"Yes, mamma; and he said he'd seen you several times, but he wanted to marry me just the same."—The Sphinx.

Judging Character.

Character is told by the voice. It is a telltale of temperament. A heart full of feeling and generous warmth is betrayed in the tones. The blind as they read individuals by the voice.

Mermaid for Breakfast.

A stranger meal than any ever partaken by Frank Buckland or the most hardened and cosmopolitan traveler is described by Juan Francisco de St. Antonio, in his account of his travels and adventures in the Philippine islands, published at Manila in 1738. In this curious little work the author tells us that he once breakfasted off a mermaid, and he further gravely describes its flavor as being like fresh fat pork.

Told by the Features.

Men who succeed in commerce have alert faces, but no particular features. Clergymen who go up the ladder of preferment have faces that tell of self-repression—tight lips, eyes which look straight ahead. Artists, on the other hand, have eyes which are all over the place and small, well formed chins. Politicians who succeed by their influence over men have always prominent noses.

Plain-Spoken Women.

It would be of advantage to us if we could dispense with all that verbiage, that frothy flood of polite utterances which are only too often used, and substitute a little plain speaking in their place.—The Gentlewoman.

Fascination of the Bazar.

Women like goods massed together, and they like to be tempted to buy. It is a form of dissipation in which almost all love to indulge, incomprehensible though it may be to men. That is why the bazar never loses its popularity.—Lady's Pictorial London.

HUMPHREY.

From the Democrat.

August Hallweg and Miss Eva Kernch were married at St. Francis church Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, Rev. Father Kurzer officiating.

What it means to live in a good neighborhood was thoroughly demonstrated Wednesday when the neighbors of John Paul Braun gathered at his farm in the St. Mary's neighborhood Wednesday and finished his plowing. In the forenoon ten teams were at work and in the afternoon seven more were on hand and by night fifty acres of ground was turned over. Mr. Braun has been seriously ill for some time, consequently was behind with his work, but his good neighbors did not allow his crops to suffer by his illness.

Ben and Joe, the two and a half and three and a half year old boys of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Beller lost their lives in a fire which destroyed all the buildings on the farm of their parents a mile and a half northwest of St. Bernard Wednesday evening. Nothing definite is known as to the origin of the fire. The two children were known to have been playing in the barn, and as parts of their charred bodies were found in the debris of the burned barn, it is thought that possibly the children might have started the fire while playing with matches. There was a stiff wind from the southwest, and as the barn was located in this direction from the other buildings, the fire was not long in spreading to the house and other buildings on the place Mr. Beller was in the field at work and Mrs. Beller was attending to her usual household duties, when about 5 o'clock she discovered the barn in a mass of flames. Her first thoughts naturally turned to the safety of her children. Knowing that they were in the barn, she made a desperate effort to rescue them, but the fire had gained such headway when she noticed it, that it was impossible for her to do anything toward saving the lives of the innocent little victims. The alarm of fire was quickly spread and in a short time all the surrounding neighbors had gathered at the Beller place to lend their assistance in subduing the flames but all to no avail, as everything perishable was destroyed. Mr. and Mrs. Beller have the deep sympathy of all in their dreadful affliction.

Barefoot Dancing.

We read of young women in various parts of the country giving shoeless and stockingless dances for the benefit of charity and for other purposes not announced, among which perhaps could be numbered the gratification of feminine vanity and the desire to attract attention. Apart from the presence of modesty, which the old-fashioned love to think is still innate in all womanhood, there is the matter of the grievous affliction which audiences are going to be called upon to endure if this mania continues. The feminine pedal, no doubt, was originally a thing of beauty, but tight shoes and French heels have not conserved it, and the suggestion that young women should dance barefoot should appall them quite as much as it does us, even if they are not restrained by any thought of propriety.

A Costly MHe.

The new Washington street subway, Boston, which passes through the heart of the shopping district, is considered to be the most costly mile of underground railway in the world. Its construction and equipment has cost $10,000,000, or about $2,000 per lineal foot. The first section of Boston's modern system of rapid transit, consisting of subway tunnels, was opened about fourteen years ago. This was followed by the erection a few years later of the elevated road, and subsequently to that the system was extended by the construction of the East Boston tunnel under the harbor. The opening of the Washington street tunnel marks the latest, and one of the most important extensions.

Medical Students in Paris.

Though there is a complaint that the medical profession is overcrowded, yet each year the number of students increases. Some interesting statistics come from Paris.

On the first of last December the number of first year students was 715, of whom 227 were foreigners; 558 of these were men, 157 women, but of the latter only 42 were French women.

These figures show that the profession of medicine is becoming more and more taken up by women, though French women are hesitating more than those of other nationalities.

Two Views of Women.

Stanley Hall says a woman is different from a man and should have a different kind of training, judging her from the point of view of the psychologist. Prof. Thomas, who is a sociologist, says that woman is as yet an artificial being and that the traits she shows are not necessarily natural female traits.

Foolish Question.

A New York chap wants to be told why theater tickets in that city do not indicate the hour of the beginning of the performance. Should think he would know. The hour is not mentioned because nobody is ever on time at the beginning of the performance. What would be the good of wasting printer's ink?

"Finished English Gentleman's" Needs.

We want blacklists of dishonest house agents and out-of-date tailors, articles on where not to live and on railroads to avoid—in fact, all the false information necessary to the equipment of a polished man of the world and finished English gentleman.—London Black and White.

Trouble with His Tie.

Mr. Wayback was tugging and straining at a bureau drawer that stubbornly refused to be opened. After five minutes' strenuous exercise, he remarked quite forcefully: "I'll ram the balky thing, anyway! No wonder the government is abolishing all bureaus from the navy department!"—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

When Romance Flees.

When a woman can meet one of her husband's former sweethearts and treat her courteously or kindly, it is a sign that the former sweetheart has either grown very stout or has faded terribly.—Chicago Record-Herald.

STRUGGLE WITH WOUNDED LION.

Adventure That Came Near Costing British Officer His Life.

Lieut. G. S. Anderson, Eighteenth Hussars of Daulah, who has been attached to the intelligence department, is suffering from blood poisoning, the result of mauling received from a lion a month or six weeks ago on the borders of Somaliland and Abyssinia, says the London Daily Mail.

In company with a native servant Lieut. Anderson went out for a day's shooting. Finding a lion at short distance he fired and the shot grazed the animal's skull, slightly wounding it. The infuriated beast leaped upon the officer, throwing him to the ground, and bit him through the knee just as he fired a charge from his double-barreled sporting rifle through its head. The animal continued to claw and bite him, while Lieut. Anderson, fighting for his life, clubbed the lion with the butt end of the rifle. All the while blood was streaming from the wounds of the lion, which was of unusual size.

The native servant, although practically unarmed, rushed to the aid of his injured master, and at length the animal, exhausted from the loss of blood, slunk away, leaving Lieut. Anderson almost overcome and in a very precarious condition.

Subsequently the lion was found dead at a little distance from the scene of the encounter. The injured officer was conveyed to the coast and at Aden embarked for London, where he will be treated in a hospital.

NO FOOL LIKE AN OLD FOOL.

Pretty Typewriter Girl Found It Easy to Make Herself Solid.

The beautiful typewriter girl puffed out her golden pompadour nervously, says the Philadelphia Bulletin. "My speed'll increase, Mr. Meer—excuse me, Mr. Wellington—my speed'll increase 30 to 40 per cent. every day." Broker Wellington frowned. The girl had taken his dictation slowly. And in a stern skeptical voice he said: "How so?" "It's your new vocabulary that puts me out," she explained. "I had Mr. Meer's vocabulary very pat—'as per,' 'contents noted,' 'the same'—he only used about 300 words." Her flattering smile warmed the man like a sunbeam. "But you, sir, have a real literary style. 'Beg to submit,' 'our best attention,' 'slump,' 'bullish,' 'hypothecate'—they're all new words to me, and of course I can't rattle them off very fast at first. But just you wait. Say till day after tomorrow. Then you'll see." "All business men have different vocabularies that their stenographers must get accustomed to, eh?" said the broker. "Yes, sir." "Yes, sir. Some large, some small." Again her smile flattered him. "Yours is larger than most. I should say it was thirty or forty words larger. Real literary, I call it." "Miss Hoskins, if there's—any supplies you need, all you've got to do is ask," said the literary broker, fatuously.

Complete Specifications.

A Rockland county, New York, paper of recent date contains this advertisement: "Wanted—Girl or woman to wash, iron, serve meals and do general housework for two persons; eight rooms and bath to keep clean; wages $5 a week every Saturday night to one that can give satisfaction. Work must be done according to specifications; not a hard place; don't apply unless you are competent. One afternoon a week off, besides every Sunday afternoon and evening; but must return and get supper every other Sunday. 'Gentleman friend' may be entertained, but not fed, seven nights a week from 7:30 to 11, no offender or later; this gives one whole day—24 1/2 hours a week—for spooning, which ought to suffice until after matrimony; when you'll be lucky to get one day off a month. If the restrictions seem unreasonable, do not consider it."

Married in Prison.

A strange marriage recently took place between a young French couple, M. Louis Jean Savenac and Mile. Marie Octovier. The bride and bridegroom have received a dowry from the state. The bridegroom was awarded on the day of his engagement seven years' hard labor; the bride got two years on the same day. They met in the passage leading from the courtroom to the cells and plighted their troth. They were married in one of the prisons in Paris. The jailers passed round the hat and bought them their wedding rings, and in presenting them to the happy pair the governor of the prison made the pretty allusion to their condition that their friends all hoped that these two little rings would be the heaviest in the chain which bound them.

They Looked Scared.

The great critic was as pleased. "What a wonderful look of cringing doubt and terror," he cried, "on the condemned man's face! How did you manage it, Dawbs?" "Well, you see," said the artist, with a grateful smile, "I spent a week at Orville and Wilbur Wright's school of flying, at Pat, last month, and made a composite photograph of the pupils' faces as they waited to go up."

Not Realistic.

Author (after first performance)—Well, what do you think of it, old man? Critic—Oh, I like it well enough with the exception of the villain's part. Author—What's wrong with it? Critic—It is shy of realism. Why, he doesn't smoke a single cigarette.

Tyrannical Science.

Everything has to be scientific nowadays; cooking, beverages, education, sports, bookkeeping, law, hygiene, sociology—that is what we teach our children. No wonder the world is so dull. To enjoy one's self is not scientific.—Paris Journal.

Opinion Checks Drink Habit.

Fifty years ago a gentleman got drunk habitually, and no one thought the worse of him. A gentleman the worse for liquor could be seen in a drawing room any day, and women scarcely withdrew their patronage and countenance from him.

The great Hobbes, the writer and philosopher, calculated he had been drunk a hundred times in the course of his life, but after 60 he drank no wine. Drinking in the army and at the universities was common enough a few years ago.

Now what do we find? Lady Violet Greville asks in the Graphic. The young undergraduate, the young officer, are temperate to a degree. Public opinion is against drinking, and public opinion is stronger than any act of parliament.—London Globe.

Life as a Duty.

It would pay pleasure seekers to try the old plan of looking on life as a duty, where pleasures came by accident or hindrance, and were heartily, gratefully enjoyed. It stands to reason that if you are deliberately arranging to get pleasure, and plenty of it, you can not enjoy it as much as if your life consisted of duties, and your pleasures came by the way.

Camphor Cures Colds.

Take gum camphor and dissolve in kerosene, having enough so that there is always a little camphor undissolved in the bottom of the bottle. Rub the lame parts thoroughly and often with this and you will have relief. Do not bandage it on, as it will blister if used that way. This is also an excellent remedy for cold in throat or lungs. Rub it in well.

The Duty of Forgiveness.

The most plain and natural sentiments of equity concur with divine authority to enforce the duty of forgiveness. Let him who has never, in his life, done wrong, be allowed the privilege of remaining inexorable. But let such as are conscious of frailties and crimes consider forgiveness as a debt which they owe to others.—Blair.

We Scream Too Much.

George Riddle of Boston, a distinguished public speaker, is afraid that Americans are tending to become a race of sopranos. The politician makes his announcements in a high falsetto voice and Juliet shrieks her part in the thinnest of sopranos. Nervous breakdowns are traceable, he says, in many cases, to our high-pitched voices. This may be obviated by speaking slowly and in a low tone.

Has Passion for Languages.

Friedrich Theil, a peasant of Rauda, in Saxony, whose leisure hours have been devoted to the study of Greek, Latin, Hebrew, Sanskrit, Arabic and Gaelic, is 75 years old. He is beginning to study the English language. Theil is in correspondence with some of the leading philologists of the day.

A Laugh Coming.

There is a 17-year-old girl in Acheson who feels so good that she almost screams with joy. In a few years when we meet that girl pushing a baby buggy and looking as cross as it is possible for a married woman to look we are sure we shall laugh.—Acheson Globe.

FOR CONSTIPATION.

We are so positive Rexall Ordineries will promptly relieve constipation that we offer to furnish the medicine free of all cost if the user is not satisfactorily benefited. Surely we could offer no better argument as to why you should try Rexall Ordineries. They are particularly pleasant, are eaten like candy, and may be taken at any time of day or night without inconvenience. Two sizes, 10c. and 25c.

Looking to the Future.

She—Anything that is worth winning is worth working for. He—Yes, but the question is, will your father thank you, or will I have to keep on working for you after I've won you?
