Nearly all the residents of that locality were fighting the fire, but the strong south wind made it impossible for them to control it.

Everybody has either seen or heard of "Little Johnny Jones," therefore the announcement that this, the biggest musical hit of last season, will be presented in this city at the North Theatre, Saturday, Nov. 13th conveys with it a deal of pleasurable anticipation for our theatergoers. "Little Johnny Jones" has been called a musical melodrama, and this title probably fits it better than anything else, as it is a semi-sensational play set to music, and has the distinction of being the only one of its kind that has attained any marked degree of success. It was written by George M. Cohan, the author of "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," "The Governor's Son," and "Running For Office." Mr. Cohan is also the composer of the twenty-odd musical numbers and has personally staged the present production. This attraction comes to us with the prestige of a metropolitan reputation having played ten different engagements in New York already covering a period of almost an entire year. It was also seen for three months in Chicago, several weeks in Boston, four weeks in Philadelphia, and all the principal cities, where it scored the greatest success of any musical production seen in the past dozen years. The production in a scenic way is a very large and massive one, the three acts displaying beautiful and realistic stage pictures, representing the exterior of the Hotel Cecil in London, the steamship pier at Southampton, England, and a street scene in the Chinese quarter of San Francisco. The production is also said to be very expensively and beautifully gowned, the wardrobe consisting of eleven complete changes, and representing an investment of twenty thousand dollars. The company is the largest on tour this season, numbering seventy-five people and including a chorus of forty, while the cast embraces the names of many well-known stage favorites. George Cohan, the author, has written many plays and sketches, and composed many songs, but attained his greatest reputation when he gave the public "Little Johnny Jones" which is spoken everywhere as a musical play that has few if any equals.

The November term of district court convened Monday of this week with Judge Thomas on the bench. The first case to come to trial was the State vs. Wm. Tyler and Ed Flynn, charged with stabbing Louis Nordland. Before the case came to trial Tyler pleaded guilty to the charge of assault with intent to kill, but Flynn employed Charles Burke as his attorney and stood trial. As Tyler admitted doing the stabbing, Flynn hoped for a lighter charge to be placed against him. One of the main witnesses was the man Finch, who they thought they had when they got Nordland. The Flynn case was given to the jury Tuesday evening, and before morning they reached a verdict of guilty, the offense being assault with intent to do great bodily harm. Sentence has not been passed on the two men. Wednesday morning the Nicodemus case was up, the hearing on an insanity charge having developed nothing, the commission deciding that he was not insane. This is the case where Nicodemus is charged with incest, the victims being his daughters. Since the charge was filed one of his girls sent communications to the local papers declaring that her father was innocent.

After suffering for almost three weeks from the accidental gunshot wound he received while out hunting, Louis Weinberger died at St. Mary's hospital Monday evening, death being due to blood poisoning, which had set in. Louis Weinberger was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Weinberger of Madison, this state, and was born there June 11, 1876. There he made his home until about six years ago, when he came to this city and was employed by James Nevels as bartender at the Palace saloon. Just prior to his coming to this city he was married and his wife and an adopted daughter survive him. Funeral services were held at the home on North Olive street at 3 p. m. Wednesday, and were conducted by Rev. Roush, assisted by the Fraternal Order of Eagles, of which the deceased was a member, and he was taken to Madison on the evening train where services will be held under the auspices of the Sons of Herman, and he will be buried at that place. His father and mother and one sister, Mrs. August Beck, were here to accompany his body to Madison.

Dr. and Mrs. D. T. Martyn, jr., arrived last Wednesday afternoon from their wedding trip in Colorado, and all Columbus knew that there was something out of the ordinary doing. At the train Dr. Martyn was met by a number of his friends at the train and an automobile ride was at once commenced. His bride was also taken in an auto driven by Mrs. G. B. Speice. The two machines, the first one containing an orchestra, whose members were playing drums, cymbals and various other musical instruments, paraded the streets during the afternoon until 4:30, when they reached their home. The second part of the program was a hay rack ride for Dr. and Mrs. Martyn, and it completed one of the most strenuous and cordial receptions extended a newly married man in Columbus for some time, but it evidenced the popularity of the newly wed doctor among his many friends in the city.

Two fires in the same block within a week gave the firemen two long runs. The first one was Wednesday and the barn belonging to Frank Bogus was burned, together with a load of hay. The department succeeded in saving the house and the nearby out buildings. The second fire was Sunday evening, and a stack belonging to John Pierug was burned. The origin of both fires is unknown.

Platte county elected at least one republican this fall, notwithstanding the fact that the county went overwhelmingly democratic. John Randall, the republican candidate for road overseer in Columbus township, won by a substantial majority. For a number of years previous John had been overseer, but last year he was beaten by Mr. Kotlar, a democrat. But during his term of office his work on the roads had been quite satisfactory, and this year the people of the township decided that he was entitled to the office again.
