

has been sold to the O'Neill Plumbing and Heating company. Business will be transacted at the old location, and Mr. O'Neill will act as manager.

Henry Clews, in his regular weekly review says: "We are now in the beginning of the third month of the year, for which I have ventured to predict an improvement in business, a distinct relief from the effects of last year's panic, and a return of confidence on the stock exchange. To close watchers, that process has been in various ways observable since the opening of the year; but not until now has the change reached a point of development at which all recognize it. In trade at large, the improvement has now become a commonly admitted fact. In many branches the demand for goods is plainly ahead of the supply. The reduction of stocks, caused by the interruption of manufacturing and the extraordinary falling off in imports, begins to show its effects upon prices; and that proves an important stimulus to buying and to confidence. Under these conditions and in view of the near approach to the final determination of the new tariff duties, business has gained a much more stable basis of confidence, and the country may be regarded as being fairly on the way towards a steady return to a normal condition."

Two years ago there was a great deal of talk about the movement of business eastward in this city, and it will be remembered that property on East O street sustained a pronounced boom. In the last year, and more particularly in the last six months there has been a reactionary movement. Merchants have been moving their stores further west. A few instances may be cited. The Interior Decorative company moved from O street near Fourteenth to South Eleventh street; the Merchants bank from Fifteenth and O to Thirteenth and O; the Pacific Express company from Twelfth to Eleventh; the Northwestern ticket office from O near Twelfth to Tenth; Ferguson's music store from O near Thirteenth to South Twelfth; Fiengenbaum from Fourteenth and O to Thirteenth and O; Harris Bros., from Fifteenth and O to Eleventh and N; the "Famous" from Twelfth and O to 1031 O. Frank Zehring's drug store is about to move five doors east, to the southwest corner of Twelfth and O, and Sanderson, Schureman & Davis will move several doors east, taking the store now occupied by Zehring.

It is pointed out that putting the most limited possible construction upon its language, the seigniorage bill provides for the addition, as speedily as it can be printed and issued, of $55,156,681 in silver certificates to our already inflated mass of paper money, which consists of $346,000,000 old greenbacks, $153,000,000 treasury notes, $207,000,000 national bank notes and $338,000,000 silver certificates. The whole of this money, together with $55,000,000 in coined silver dollars, making in all $1,099,000,000, has to be kept at par with gold by a stock of the metal in the treasury of only $106,000,000, and if but $55,156,681 is silver certificates, the least amount which the seigniorage bill proposes, is added to the mass, it will exceed $1,150,000,000. Liberally interpreted, the bill allows ultimately the issue of $55,000,000 more of silver certificates, which would bring the total of what is substantially all paper money to over $1,200,000,000.

A leading financier and land owner in Omaha advances the theory that this year will usher in a new era of emigration to Nebraska, and complains of the fact that so little is done to encourage prospective settlers. Those in a position to know, state that a general shifting process is going on. For the last few years there has been a tendency to remove from the country to the city, many farmers renting or selling their land in order to engage in trade or seek employment in the towns. This, of course, increased competition in trade and much trouble was experienced in securing labor to harvest the crops.

A. G. Billmeyer, proprietor of the Palace stables, has rented the adjoining building on M street and will open a retail warehouse for the Columbus Buggy Co.

The dry goods business in this city has undergone a material change in the last year. There are several less stores now than twelve months ago. Louie Meyer & Co., failed; E. C. Dorsey sold out to Krug, and the Bazar is now closing out its business.

Bloch & Kohn have given a bill of sale to Julius Speier, the consideration being $10,000. Speier will dispose of the goods.
