

county campaign?" And "if it makes any difference if I vote for one or two populist candidates?" Your questions are easy.

You should vote the republican ticket at the approaching election of county officers because the ticket nominated by the republican party is the cleanest, strongest ticket ever named by the party in this county, and the party has usually presented as good a ticket or better, than any other party has named. This year the republican ticket is the best ticket in the field—and this is no special disparagement of other tickets either. You should vote the republican ticket because being a republican, as I take it you are, you are interested in republican success, and republican success, republican supremacy, depend in no small measure on the election of the whole republican ticket.

The republican county convention was composed very largely of young men and it was dominated by the best sentiment of the party. Its work was well done and the ticket placed before the voters of the county needs no apology in any instance. All of the candidates are active and aggressive members of the party. They each and every one have an untarnished record for integrity and each is entirely able to fulfill all the duties of the office to which he aspires. The younger element of the party is represented as well as the veterans, and no wing of the party has reason to complain of lack of representation. The young may be battling side by side with the old soldier.

You should vote for the whole republican ticket because there is not a man on that ticket who is not honestly and fairly entitled to your vote as a republican. Because the ticket represents the best work of the best republican convention ever held in Lancaster county. Because it is a clean ticket and one that you can vote for conscientiously. Two of the best offices in Lancaster county are now held by the enemy, and the populist party in this county has drawn the sinews of war from these two offices. It is important therefore, if you desire to see the republican organization kept intact and republican supremacy maintained, that these two offices be reclaimed at the coming election. It does make a difference if you scratch one single candidate on the republican ticket. This is a republican county by a large majority, and next year when representatives shall be elected to the state convention and to the national convention it will be a matter of some importance that Lancaster county shall have the credit of polling a heavy republican vote, a solid vote.

There is no reason why you should vote for any candidate on any other ticket in preference to the republican candidates, and there is every reason from a partisan standpoint, as well as from the standpoint of good clean government, why you should vote the whole republican ticket.

The populists are making a fight for the election of two of their candidates Fred Miller for the office of sheriff, and Elias Baker for the office of clerk of the district court. It is not necessary to attack these men, or to say anything derogatory of them. But their course in politics has not been such as to command the highest respect and many good citizens are inclined to resent their pandering policy. The republican candidates for these two offices, John Trompen and Sam E. Low, are probably the best selections that the republican county convention could have made, and these two men are entitled to the full vote of the party. Years ago when there was not very much of Nebraska, when there wasn't much of a republican party, John Trompen was a Nebraskan and a republican. He was among the early settlers and he is a pioneer republican. For 25 years he has gone up and down the county and the state state doing what he could for the cause of republicanism and for the upbuilding of Nebraska. He has been a public spirited man, and he is known from one end of the state to the other. He has taken part in many public movements and always with credit to himself and the state. He has served on the republican state central committee and has held for years a high place in the councils of the party. This man has never held an office. He has helped others to be nominated and elected. He has worked for the republican ticket and for the republican cause, but he himself has not until this campaign been a nominee for any office. Mr. Trompen enjoys the cordial respect and good will of the people of this county. He has an unblemished record for integrity. And as to his ability there is and can be no question. As a candidate for the office of sheriff he is a man to be proud of, and a man who can not only draw the full republican vote but many votes from outside of the party, the votes of men who recognize in Mr. Trompen a substantial, worthy, deserving candidate. He has not, like his opponent, jumped from one party to another. He has always remained true to his convictions and is making the battle now as a straight out-and-out republican.

His colleague Mr. Low, is a young man, quite a young man. In fact, there has been a disposition on the part of the opposition to make a handle of his youth and oppose him on that account. Mr. Low has not yet reached the age of 30, but many republicans of 50 would be proud of his record of political achievement. It isn't always the number of years that measures a man's performances. For eight years there has been no more active, energetic, enthusiastic able advocate of republicanism in this part of the state than Sam E. Low. In every campaign this young man who has in him much of the fire that animated the old time leaders of the party, has gone out and taken the stump and by his eloquence and ability contributed in a large measure to republican success. He has supported every republican candidate on every republican ticket since his residence in Nebraska, and his loyalty is beyond dispute. Mr. Low has back of him not only the enthusiastic devotion of the younger element of his party, but the cordial support of good citizens generally. He is looked upon as a most estimable young man, entirely honest and safe to trust in the important office of clerk of the district court. Mr. Low is, as has been charged, a poor man, in which respect he does not differ from many of the other republican candidates; but this can hardly be an element of weakness. He is honest and clean and able, and after all that is the main thing. These two men, Trompen
