Announce ts

The world's mightiest minstrel marvels is the term fittingly applied to Primrose & West's New Big Minstrels, and when one figures up the enormity of expenditure attached to such a mammoth organization, he feels that Primrose & West are public benefactors, and indeed they are so. What other managers would make such an outlay? None, is the proper answer. They have crowded the theatres of the country for many years past, the minstrel world was theirs. They could do no more business, yet to their glorious band they add thirty colored artists, making it the largest minstrel company in the world. It is hardly imaginable. Their object in doing this is to present minstrelsy from its birth to the present day. Their imposing ideas will be illustrated in a grand spectacular form with numerous state-ly transformation scenes, each in itself a world of scenic beauty, the production in its entirety rivalling the famed Arabian Nights, surpassing in massive effect and imposing grandeur and similar effort before attempted. Will appear at the Lansing theatre Monday evening, June 8. Seventy people comprise the company and the prices for this grand event will be the regular prices.

Commencing Wednesday evening the Boston Comic opera company will play a four nights' engagement at the Funke opera house, with a matinee Saturday, presenting, at popular prices, Mascot, Olivette, Said Pasha, and Oolah. This company is a large and capable organization, and the engagement will afford a delightful opportunity to hear popular operas sung acceptably at popular prices.
