

such shamefaced fashion that he is suspected of being an imposter, and worn out with the number of appeals which have preceded the one worthy pensioner, he is refused.

These Germans may be barons and barbers, too, though a hard-working barber might object to being classed with the vagabonds. Whatever they are, noble or peasant, a gentleman does not go about the country explaining that he is of high degree, and borrowing clothes, wine and ladies' society because of his rank in another country, which he cannot prove and which, if he could, would not be any reason why the country he chooses to tramp through should support him.

Sorosis met with Mrs. E. R. Guthrie October 20, Mrs. Bell leading with "The Story of Cuba" for her subject. Every member of the club went home having a more accurate knowledge of Cuba and her "cause" than she had when she came.

Mrs. Bell gave the size of Cuba as about that of the state of New York; its population is about that of Chicago. Its resources in forest, mine and soil are boundless. It is Spain's richest possession. If the Cubans had been allowed to utilize the wealth nature has so abundantly lavished, there would not be the cry of anguish we hear from their devastated land. For four centuries Spain has enriched herself from her offspring, but during the last of the four her methods have been unbearable.
