Mae and Mrs. Culbertson gave a large Thanksgiving dinner at their home, Sixteenth and M streets.

The following people attended the foot ball game in Omaha Thanksgiving day: Capt. Guilfoyle, Lieut. R. H. Townley, Joe Mallieu, M. Valentine, Frank Buckstaff, Miss Clara Buckstaff, Miss Marie Marshall and many others.

Mrs. Haydn Thompson has moved from the Lindell to 1624 M street, where they have the second floor flat.

Miss Sallie Furnas has been entertaining two pretty young ladies from Chicago the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Oakley received pictures this week of their daughter Belle's (Mrs. W. J. Maxwell) pretty baby boy.

Woman's Clubs.

On Monday the Book club held its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. C. E. Yates. The book committee, elected for the current year, is Mrs. W. C. Wilson, Mrs. J. H. McMurtry, Mrs. Carl Funke and Miss Sarah Harris. They appointed Tuesday, December 1, as the day for the committee to meet and decide upon the books and Mrs. McMurtry's home as the place.

The department of science of the Woman's club, Mrs. S. B. Pound leader, gave an interesting program at the club rooms on Monday. The ladies handled the decidedly heavy subjects in a manner which indicated they were well posted and interested. The musical selections on the program were a pleasing diversion. The numbers were in the following order:

An instrumental duet—"Country Dance"—Nevins—Misses Cowdery and Hollowbush.

Paper—"Position and Shapes of Leaves," Mrs. Dorothy G. Bacon.

Whistling solo—"Night and Morning," D. N. Lehmer.

Paper—"Early Child Life," Dr. Ruth M. Woods.

Violin solo—Miss Silence Dales.

Paper—"Headaches and Nervous Disorders Caused by Eye Strain," Mrs. H. M. Betts of the Boston Ophthalmic college.

Vocal solo—"For All Eternity," Miss Hattie Becker.

The treasurer reported twenty-eight visitors and twenty-four new members. The club now numbers 250.

The civic department of the Woman's club met Tuesday at 3 p. m. J. F. Saylor, city superintendent of schools, ably addressed the department on public school. "Education in Lincoln" was followed by a brief account of the organization and work of the city improvement society in Denver.

PLATTSMOUTH, NEB., Nov. 20.

The department of "Household Economics" met for the second time Friday afternoon, with the leader, Mrs. Flora T. Waugh. A large attendance, both of members and visitors, evinced the fact that home and home affairs are quite as near the heart of the club woman as any other subject.

An exceptionally interesting program was given, with a charming "Fantasia," by Miss Kessler as a prelude.

Mrs. Eleon's paper on the "Courtesy in the Home" contained excellent ideas pleasantly expressed, as to the training and development of politeness among children.

Mrs. Kate Davis explained, parenthetically, that the ideas advanced in her paper on "Good Temper in the House-keeper," were purely theoretic. However, all were confident that considerable experience was essential to so realistic a recapitulation of the trials to which a house mother is subjected and to the happy suggestions as to overcoming them.

Mrs. Snyder presented some ideas on the "Care and Management of Servants" that was thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated by all.

Following the program, the next meeting was announced with Mrs. H. N. Dovey, Friday evening, November 28. This is to be an open meeting, or "gentleman's night," and each member was requested to bring husband, sweetheart or brother, "each one." The club then adjourned to enjoy a social half-hour and a very dainty lunch, very daintily served.

Among the guests in attendance were Mrs. Judge Reed of Council Bluffs and Mrs. Goodwin of Malvern, sisters of Mrs. Snyders, and Mrs. John Donelan of Weeping Water.
